MOTORISTS' HABIT PERSISTS

Widespread Fighting In Rebel W. Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Civil war broke out today in East Pakistan and East Pakistani leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman declared his province's independence from West Pakistan. Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan declared him a traitor and ordered his army to crush the revolt.

Indian news agencies said there were heavy casualties in the fighting in Dacca, Chittagong and other East Pakistani cities. Diplomatic reports said there were antigovernment outbreaks in Karachi and other West Pakistan cities in support of the Rahman forces.

(In Washington, the State Department said it had no immediate plans to evacuate the 850 American citizens from East Pakistan. Of these Americans, 200 are U.S. government employes and their dependents. Officials said they had received no reports which would indicate the U.S. citizens might be endangered.)

Yahya Khan, in a nationwide broadcast heard in neighboring India, imposed press censorship throughout Pakistan and ordered the end of all political activity including that by Rahman's Awami League which won a majority in Parliament in the December general elections.

The broadcast, monitored in Agartala, the capital of India's Union Territory of Tripka, by the Press Trust of India, said the Sheikh declared the 75 million people of East Pakistan as citizens of the Sovereign Independent Bangla Desh.

Radio Pakistan, in a news broadcast before the speech by President Yahya Khan, said the army had won control of the situation in the East. But other reports by Indian news agencies said the East Pakistani forces were still battling the West Pakistani troops who outnumbered them 7 to 2.

East Pakistan was cut off from the world and word of the reported civil war came from radio broadcasts and from news reports trickling across the border into India.

In a broadcast to the nation, Yahya Khan announced he was suspending all political activities and imposing press censorship throughout Pakistan. He said he had ordered his troops "to do their duty fully and restore the authority of the government."

He branded East Pakistani leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman as a traitor, accused him of unleashing a reign of terror in East Pakistan, including murders, and said his own aim remained the same: "To transfer power to the representatives of the people as soon as the situation permits."

Any civil war would be an uneven battle. West Pakistan has a garrison of 60,000 troops in East Pakistan and Indian reports said 10,000 more troops had landed from six ships. Arrayed against them were a force of 18,000 East Pakistan Rifles, a few thousand police and civilian volunteers hurriedly armed with weapons smuggled in from unknown sources.

The reported civil war was a continuation of political troubles that have plagued Pakistan since it became independent on Aug. 15, 1947. Riots and public disturbances led to imposition of military rule under President Mohammed Ayub Khan in 1958. More disturbances — and a war with India — led to Yahya Khan taking over the presidency on March 25, 1969.

It was Yahya Khan's postponement of the meeting of the National Assembly to draft a new constitution that led to the present rebellion in East Pakistan. Sheikh Rahman's Awami League Political Party won an absolute majority in the Pakistani Parliament in elections last December on a platform of self-rule.

Rahman's forces called general strikes and there were a number of civil disturbances and demands that East Pakistan handle its own foreign trade and foreign aid programs.

Today an Indian news agency, said authoritative reports reaching Calcutta said there had been clashes at several places and civil war had broken out. Other Indian reports said there were heavy fighting in Dacca and several other cities, but gave no source.

The West Pakistan army seized Radio Dacca, formerly used by Rahman, and he turned to a clandestine radio broadcast to appeal to his people to resist enemy forces at any cost.

Saigon May Mount New Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnam dispatched the vanguard of 2,770 reinforcements to the Khe Sanh area on the Laotian border today. There were strong hints of a new attack against the North Vietnamese who shelled the base again today from positions inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

President Nguyen Van Thieu, opening his reelection campaign in Long Xuyen, said the recent Laotian incursion "still continues," an indication of further South Vietnamese attacks.

The U.S. Command disclosed today that about 20 U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets attacked a Communist surface-to-air (SAM) missile site one mile inside Laos from North Vietnam and one mile west of the DMZ on Thursday. This followed by three days a major U.S. strike against SAM sites and "related facilities" in North Vietnam.

While the first of the South Vietnamese reinforcements arrived, the Communists hit Khe Sanh late today with 40 rounds of 85 millimeter artillery, the 10th consecutive day of shelling there. The Americans were dismantling their landing strips there and a front dispatch today said they were blowing up a huge helicopter pad used by the choppers which operated in the Laos campaign.

Saigon's official military spokesman said he had no reports of the North Vietnamese building up troop strength in the DMZ but said there were "some artillery...some guns and other things in the DMZ."

All but a handful of the 24,000 South Vietnamese troops who crossed into Laos Feb. 8 returned to South Vietnam earlier this week, including some who were chased out by North Vietnamese tanks. There were indications of a North Vietnamese buildup around Khe Sanh and field reports said eight Americans were killed and seven wounded in new action around the outpost.

U.S. Air Force transport planes ferried the South Vietnamese reinforcements — battle tested marines—into the base in South Vietnam's northwest corner from rear areas. They replaced U.S. units which had supported the Laos thrust, officially named "Lam Som 719" by Saigon headquarters.

"Operation Lam Som 719 still continues," Thieu said in a speech in the Mekong River Delta.

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters reported that American aircraft losses in the final stage of the Laos campaign and strikes in North Vietnam and Cambodia were the highest since the spring of 1968 during a big Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

Figures released by headquarters listed 55 aircraft lost in the week ended last Wednesday, 22 of them in Laos

Calley Jury Still Out In Deliberation's 10th Day

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The jury in the murder court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley dampened speculation it was near a verdict today by beginning a detailed study of the mechanics of the massacre at My Lai.

The six-officer panel called for five different colored grease pencils and a map overlay of the My Lai area, and apparently used the materials in a painstaking reconstruction od the various troop movements through My Lai.

Calley remained at his bachelor apartment during the day and his defense attorney, George W. Latimer, said he hadn't been in touch with him.

"I don't like to call him," Latimer said. "You know—that phone rings ... it's almost like being on death row."

The jurors have appeared grim-faced at different times during the deliberations, but they seemed in a happier mood today. They could be seen smiling and joking among themselves when they broke for lunch.

This was the 10th day the jurors have had the case, and the defense has become openly restless.

When told the jurors had asked for a map overlay of the My Lai area Latimer commented: "I hope their drawings are sharp, precise and hurried."

The overlay was for prosecution exhibit No. 4, a huge blown-up aerial photograph of the hamlet of My Lai 4 where Calley is charged with ordering, presiding over and participating in a slaughter of 102 Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

The jury apparently was ready to make a detailed and painstaking reconstruction of the Army's infantry sweep through My Lai, the testimony about where killings occurred, and the facts to be believed.

The jury, which started deliberating Wednesday of last week, had made no request for additional information Thursday, touching off speculation it might render a verdict shortly.

"It's possible," said Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the military judge, of a verdict shortly. But then he added that he would wait until Monday to push them a little, if they hadn't delivered.

"It's possible," said defense counsel George W. Latimer. But then he added: "My timing has not been right on anything in this case. I'm the one who expected a verdict in three days at the most."

"Nope —don't think so," said Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel, the prosecutor. He shook his head in firm emphasis.

The government has asked the jury to find Calley guilty as charged, which would make a penalty of death or life imprisonment mandatory.

Building Industry Making Comeback

By JEFF GREER

Marin's construction industry is waking up after a drowsy 1970.

One reason may be that a presidential election is on the horizon. Declining prime interest rates and financial firms "loaded with money" also were cited as probable causes by spokesmen in the building, real estate and financial fields in Marin. To say nothing of the fact that Marin's percentage of vacant dwelling units is less than half what it was a decade ago, and the pressure for new housing is increasing.

Marin's residential building permits for January and February totaled $7.1 million, according to figures compiled by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. The comparable total for the first two months of 1970 was only $4 million.

Novato has issued building permits for 110 residential units so far this year, leading the parade with a total value just under $2.8 million. Corte Madera town officials reported they expect work to begin on at least 600 new units in coming months.

Mill Valley's planners and other officials turned down several high-density dwelling plans in recent months, but are expected soon to approve a 203-apartment project near Richardson Bay.

Alameda Homes, owner of the 700-acre Sartori Ranch in southeastern Novato, is expected to submit plans leading to some $8 million in townhouses this year or early in 1972. The development is planned for an ultimate value of $80 million over a decade.

The slump in Marin's building pace during 1970 saw building permit totals fall to half the value for 1969 — but the 1971

Headliner Award For Jim Kean

I-J Special Report

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The National Headliners Club award for best spot news photography went today to Jim Kean of the Independent-Journal for a series of pictures on last summer's shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

The pictures recorded the Aug. 7 kidnapping of Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court, then Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas and three women jurors by a group of San Quentin inmates and their 17-year-old accomplice.

Haley, two of the convicts and their accomplice were killed and Thomas was seriously wounded in a resulting shoot-out with authorities outside the Hall of Justice.

The award is the second national honor accorded Kean's photographs. Last November, the pictures won first place in the monthly competition of the National Press Photographer's Association.

Collection Of Ferry Fares Draws Attack

Charges of bad management in collecting ferry fares were leveled today at a high-tempered meeting of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Director Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco, often at odds with Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring, complained that tickets had been stolen several times from the Sausalito ferry and that passengers often managed to ride without paying fares.

Luehring immediately insisted that there had been only one incident of theft and that new procedures had assured toll collection from passengers.

Luehring's assurances angered Lerer, who said "it annoys the britches out of me" to claim there are no problems. "Who are you trying to kid," Lerer said to Luehring.

Lerer declared that Luehring's assurance "insults the intelligence of every member of the board." Lerer then moved to transfer all jurisdiction over ferryboat fares to district auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren. He later temporarily withdrew the motion and called a special meeting behind closed doors for 9:30 a.m. next Friday.

The District's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, said the closed session would be legal because of the charges made.

Luehring, apparently feeling that some of the directors suspected ferry crews of mishandling fares, said, "we've got honest people and they're quite upset as I am at this sort of report."

Luehring, whose report to the board today included an item on the theft last month of 30 tickets, said that the incident had been reported the next day by the crew to Dahlgren's office.

Dahlgren, however, said, "that's not true,; that's a lie. There was no report made to me at any time."

The charges came before the board's finance-auditing committee, which will discuss the issue at next week's closed meeting.

Heavy Rain Hits Marin, S. Sonoma; More Seen

Heavy rain pelted Marin and Southern Sonoma counties overnight, with more than two inches reported in some areas.

Although the sun peeked through the clouds this morning, rain was expected to resume with a 60 per cent chance of rain tonight and 40 per cent chance tomorrow.

Ross recorded 2.34 inches of rain in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today, followed by Larkspur with 2.25 inches; Woodacre, 2.09; Tamalpais Valley, 1.95; San Anselmo 1.86, and Sausalito with 1.85.

In the same period, Mill Valley recorded 1.72; Fairfax, 1.6; Santa Venetia, 1.56; Tiburon, 1.53; Bolinas and Belvedere, both 1.52, and Point Reyes Station, 1.5.

Nixons Deluged With Wedding Offers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon says she has been deluged by letters from persons across the country who want to provide the music and flowers for her daughter's June wedding to Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox.

She told reporters Thursday she was surprised at the public interest in the wedding, adding "it's amazing how romance is still so much a part of our lives."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Kennedy On Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says the U.S.-supported Laos operation turned into a humiliating setback as part of pursuit of "the phantom of military victory" in Southeast Asia.

Kennedy told a gathering Thursday of party state chairmen—at a gathering to map strategy for the 1972 effort to unseat Nixon—that "the time to end the war is now and we must carry that message to every corner of the land."

Further meetings were held today along with smaller gatherings by commissions charged with drawing up plans for the 1972 convention.

Hope For SALT

VIENNA (UPI)—The United States held out hope today of eventual progress at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) despite reports of growing Soviet reluctance to do business.

The fourth working session of the Vienna round of SALT was being held today in the U.S. embassy.

Diplomatic sources said the Soviet SALT team has run into military opposition within the Kremlin and increased fears of China and is under orders to agree to nothing beyond a possible "token" pact in the foreseeable future.

Peaceful Power

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists today applied new tests to what they say is the first power plant anywhere that can turn atomic energy directly into electricity.

The Soviet Union announced the innovation Thursday and proclaimed it a major triumph for Soviet science in the atoms-for-peace field—"a world first."

But Western scientific reaction to the vaguely worded announcement ranged from downright skepticism to tentative admiration. The scientists said they did not understand just what the Soviets had created or how it differed from Western experiments in the same area.

Gambling Counts

MIAMI (UPI) —Reputed Mafia mastermind Meyer Lansky and Miami Beach hotel owner Morris Lansburgh were among five persons indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of illegal gambling in connection with the Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

A grand jury returned the indictments against Lansky, who recently moved from Miami Beach to Tel Aviv, Israel, and Lansburgh, Miami Beach's biggest hotel operator.

Lansky also was indicted Wednesday on a contempt charge for failing to appear before the grand jury. Federal Judge James Lawrence King set bond at $200,000 on the contempt charge.

Indicted with Lansky and Lansburgh on the illegal gambling charge were Samuel Cohen, 44, both of Las Vegas, and the Flamingo Co., which operated the Flamingo Hotel from 1969-67.

Each was charged with one count of conspiring to engage in illegal gambling activity and to conceal and distribute proceeds from the hotel, both in violation of Nevada law.

Budget Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's budget for the fiscal year that ends June 30 shows a $19.38 billion deficit through the first eight months.

The report issued Thursday by the Treasury Department showed the current deficit to be more than double the $8.15 billion the government was running in the red during the first eight months of the last fiscal year.

April and June are usually the best months of the year for the government's revenue collectors, however. A year ago, the deficit was trimmed by $5.3 billion in the final four months of the fiscal year.

Kidnaper Hunt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —A gunman kidnaped the 14-year-old son of a college professor Thursday night and held him captive until four pictures of "stark naked women" were removed from an exhibit at the Memphis Academy of Arts.

The boy, Eddie Batey, was released unharmed after his father, Dr. Richard A. Batey, confirmed on television and radio that the pictures had been taken down by academy officials.

Additional police details searched the city early this morning for the kidnaper, who had disguised himself in a wig and false beard. The wig and whiskers were found abandoned near the Batey home.

New War Talk

The editor of the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today another war in the Middle East is inevitable.

Mohamed Hassanein Heikal said in his weekly column a new war "will be long, fierce and complicated, but we have no alternative to accept its risks."

He said "war with Israel is inevitable now" because of Israel's expansionist policies and its refusal to leave room for diplomatic action that could lead to peace."

Heikal added that Egyptian strategy has been to involve the Soviet Union in the Middle East in an effort to offset any intervention on behalf of Israel by the United States or Britain. As a result, he said, "the Soviet Union now finds itself in a similar situatioon to 1956" when Moscow warned Britain and France it would intervene militarily unless they withdrew troops from Egypt.

Annexation To Be Eyed Tuesday

Annexation possibilities will be considered by the Terra Linda Recreation Park District board, the community services district board and San Rafael city officials at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the community center on Del Ganado Road.

The meeting is the first of three scheduled before any annexation measure could be submitted to Terra Linda voters.

Court Strikes Down State Welfare Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The State Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Gov. Ronald Reagan's cuts in welfare violate state law.

The court held that action by the legislature is necessary to carry out any percentage reduction in welfare payments.

The ruling affects 400,000 families and the state's billion dollar welfare program, increasing welfare costs by millions of dollars.

The state administration can legally establish maximum payments allowed welfare recipients, but cannot limit payments to a percentage of the recipient's determined need, the court said.

In the emergency regulations issued last November, the Welfare Department adjusted its maximums upwards in order to comply with federal law, but also imposed a payment limit of 69 per cent of the determined need.

The department contended that it had to do this in order to stay within the budget. The resulting cuts were challenged by groups representing welfare recipients.

The state supreme court, acting unanimously only three weeks after taking up the issue, said it was aware that restoring the aid payments to their previous levels might endanger the budget. But it said this was the legislature's problem, not the court's.

Providing for generous welfare payments and at the same time limiting the budget, the court said, "the legislature has failed to lay down directives providing authority to reconcile these various instructions when, as here, they appear to conflict."

California had been ordered cut from federal welfare grants because of non-compliance with federal regulations in the November revision of welfare rules. However, a temporary extension was granted at the request of Gov. Ronald Reagan pending outcome of the cases decided yesterday.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling to which the state court referred held that a state can either impose a dollar ceiling on welfare or a percentage of need. The state court said, however, a percentage-of-need formula is not legal under state laws.

In attempting to impose the percentage reduction the state welfare director exercised powers which belonged to the legislature, the court said.

"We are unable to discern in any of the provisions of the 1970 budget act a legislative intent to bestow upon the director of social welfare the power to convert the California plan from one of payment of full need but subject to a schedule of maximums into a plan for payment of full need but subject to a per cent reduction system," the opinion said.

The ruling said California has "at no time operated a per cent reduction plan and in our view the conversion to such a plan would require a clear expression of intent by the legislature."

The court also struck down the regulation establishing $44.45 per person as a monthly statewide standard of need. It said the legislature intended that the standard of need must be "adapted to prices of the area in which the recipient resides."

The California welfare cuts had come under federal criticism because they did not take into account cost-of-living increases over the years.

A federal judge last year ruled the changes disqualified the state for millions of dollars in federal welfare money. But the federal government later agreed to hold off any action until the court's decision.

New Detection For Oil Slicks

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI)— Oil slicks can be detected and their size determined from an aircraft using a new method developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Ames Research Center said Thursday the sensing devices may be carried by satellite and could detect slicks resulting from spills of both heavy and light crude oils and light diesel oil.

$11,000 Paid For Kennedy's Famous Quote

NEW YORK (UPI)—The quotation "And so, my fellow Americans: Ask not what your country can do for you —ask what you can do for your country," written and signed by John F. Kennedy, was sold at auction Thursday night for $11,000.

The hand-written document sold for the highest price ever paid for a presidential document except for those written by George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Kennedy wrote the 22-word quotation, which he used in his inaugural address, on White House stationery.

Dr. Maury A. Bromsen, a Boston dealer, bought the object at a sale conducted by Charles Hamilton Galleries. At the auction price, Bromsen paid $500 per word.

Two Alternatives To Welfare Quandry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chairman William T. Bagley of the Assembly Welfare Committee has proposed two alternatives for bringing California into conformity with federal welfare regulations and preventing the state's loss of about $700 million in federal funds.

Bagley said yesterday's state Supreme Court decision requires legislative action "at once to bring California's AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) program into conformity with federal law."

The San Rafael Republican said if the legislature does not act swiftly, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare may "no longer lelay its legal obligation to discontinue federal grants-in-aid to California for the AFDC program."

One alternative would allow Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration to institute a "rateable reduction" system which would mean that as the AFDC caseload increased the amount of money given individual welfare families would decrease.

"The second alternative proposes to adopt the 'flat grant' theory advocated by the governor in his major welfare reform package, said Bagley.

Bagley amended the alternatives into two "spot" bills he introduced earlier in the year. Bagley said a hearing on the bills is scheduled for March 31.

However, the lawmaker said eithr proposal would be "temporary solutions."

Public Excluded From Hearing In Napa Murder

ST. HELENA (UPI)—A judge ordered the public excluded Thursday from the preliminary hearing in the case of a Napa County woodcutter accused of the murder of a 20-year-old Pacific Union College coed.

St. Helena Judicial District Judge David York closed the hearing to the public and news media at the request of the defense lawyer for Watler Boyd Williams.

Williams is accused of murdering Linda Kanes, whose body was found near a rural road in Napa County.

Judge York said that since most of the evidence introduced in the preliminary hearing is unfavorable to the defendant "widespread prejudice to the defendant can develop if evidence is given widespread publicity ... in a county as small as this."

Report Asks Protection Of Lagoon

Marin County should protect Bolinas Lagoon from pollution, motorboating or any major development because it is a "precious jewel" where man and nature can still meet in quiet communion.

That was the message presented yesterday in a 37-page report by The Conservation Foundation of Washington, D.C.

David W. Walker, senior planning associate for The Conservation Foundation, supervised and prepared the Bolinas Lagoon report. The study was financed by grants from the Ford Foundation.

Walker met at the Civic Center with about 20 representatives of Marin's conservation groups. He said the conservation study concentrated on the preservation of environment and not on comprehensive planning for the future of the lagoon.

Walker warned that the lagoon's aging process has been speeded up by logging and excavations. Unless countermeasures are taken, the lagoon will become a marshy meadow, said Walker.

He listed these recommendations for the lagoon:

1. Halt sewage pollution by waste-treatment facilities and either an ocean outfall line or a recycling system whereby treated effluent can be returned to the soil.

2. Don't build on the central slopes of Bolinas Ridge or the sandspit because they lie along the San Andreas fault.

3. Limit recreation use to fishing, nature study, canoeing and sailing, photography, painting, hiking, cycling, and picnicking.

4. Prohibit motorboats and hunting. Continue the county's ban against logging on the ridges above the lagoon.

5. Restrict land development because disturbance of natural vegetation increases sedimentation and shortens the life of the lagoon.

6. Protect the over-harvesting of shellfish by designating the lagoon and Duxbury Reef as a state ecological preserve.

7. Establish a Marin Environmental Conservation Center for nature education, in conjunction with the Audubon Canyon Ranch, College of Marin Bolinas Marine Station, and the Point Reyes Bird Observatory.

The report also stressed that the lagoon should not be opened up as a harbor of refuge.

RETIRING — Maj. Gen. Richard W. Whitney, deputy commander of the Sixth Army, whose command includes Forts Baker, Cronkite, and Barry in Marin County, will retire Tuesday after 36 years of military service. He and Mrs. Whitney will make their home in South Carolina.

Judge Reduces Count In Father's Slaying

A Marin Superior Court judge ruled yesterday that Ronald Rivas, 21, was guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of his father at their Novato home in 1969.

Rivas had been charged with murder, but Judge Thomas F. Keating opted for the lesser offense, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Rivas is scheduled to be sentenced Monday, although sentencing will probably be delayed by defense motions.

Keating's decision was based on testimony given during a three-week trial last August and on briefs submitted by prosecution and defense attorneys.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony had described how the family had been entertaining visitors and singing on the night of the shooting.

During the trial, Rivas related how he took his brother's gun out of a dresser drawer, loaded it, took off the safety and cocked it before confronting his father.

"I knew I wanted to protect my mother," he said.

Anthony said Rivas returned to the kitchen and fired four shots at his father, hitting him with three of them. The elder Rivas was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital.

Defense attorney Robert R. Carrow had cited "unbelievable brutality" toward the family by the father and said that Rivas had repeatedly tried to protect his mother from the father's violence.

The August trial began with jury selection, but both sides waived trial by jury during its first day and the trial proceeded before Judge Keating.

Black Caucus Leader Is Cautious On Nixon Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., said today President Nixon has a "below zero" standing among American Negroes and that only time would tell whether a White House conference with black congressmen Thursday would change "devastating effects" of administration policies.

Clay is a leader of the Black Caucus, composed of the 13 Negro members of the House all Democrats—who met 95 minutes with Nixon and handed him a list of 60 recommendations for improving the economic and social conditions of minorities.

Of the meeting, Clay said: "He listened. We don't know if he heard, but he listened. I think time will tell whether he listened, and heard ... and understood."

Clay was interviewed on the CBS-TV Morning News program.

Nixon's standing in the black community, Clay said, "is now not at zero, but below zero ... He's in the minus column now." He said whether that changes depends on the President's response to the Black Caucus's requests for actions to alter "the devastating effects that policies of this administration have had on our 25 million blacks."

Clay said that during a two-way exchange, the congressmen expressed their concern about policies in many areas, such as unemployment and education, involving blacks.

He said "I think perhaps he was surprised" when the congressmen questioned the relevancy to blacks of Nixon's expressed hope of getting national unemployment down from 6 per cent.

Clay said that was "totally meaningless" to blacks when joblessness among them was about 18 per cent, with the rate among teen-agers running at 42 per cent.

Girl Bartenders

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —State Sen. Anthony Beilenson has introduced a bill to enable women to be employed as bartenders, a job now denied them in California unless they are married to the saloon owner.

8 Pct. Pay Hike Sought At College

The College of Marin faculty salaries committee has presented three proposals aimed at increasing teacher pay next year by at least 8 per cent.

In a document presented to the Marin Junior College District board Tuesday, teachers suggested two possible new salary schedules or a flat 8 per cent increase for all instructors.

The first salary schedule alternative asks for a maximum base salary of $13,500 per year for an instructor with ten years experience but no college units beyond a bachelor of arts degree. For each unit beyond that degree, the instructor would be entitled to $32 per year more. Thus an instructor with 10 years experience and 100 post-graduate units would earn $16,700 plus an additional $400 if he holds a masters degree and $800 if he holds a doctorate.

Currently a 10-year instructor earns $13,515 base and $15,186 at the top of his scale (a masters degree plus 60 additional units). A $500 supplement is given Ph. D holders.

Under the proposal, first year instructors' pay ranges from $9,000 to $12,200 dependent on the number of post-graduate units.

Currently, first year instructors earn from $9,002 to $10,672 per year.

The teachers say if this schedule were adopted it would mean a budget increase of $165,000 next fiscal year and would be a 6.5 per cent salary increase. However, the teachers add, since the increase in only 6.5 per cent they want an across-the-board increase to bring the total to 8 per cent.

The second proposed schedule is about the same as the first except it sets the 10-year maximum base at $14,539 plus $32 per unit earned over the bachelors degree.

It would cost the district about $215,000 more next fiscal year and would be an 8.5 per cent salary increase.

The teachers say if the second proposal is accepted, they will not ask for any additional across-the-board increase next year.

"Or," their document states, "we could forget the whole thing (schedule change) and go for an 8 per cent on the current structure."

Jerome B. York, a business instructor and head of the salary committee, said today the two salary schedules were proposed to eliminate gaps in the schedule used now.

He emphasized the cost figures used were only rough estimates developed by his committee.

That schedule, he said, is broken into four ranges: bachelor degree with less than 28 units, masters with 28 units; masters plus 30 units or bachelors plus 60 units, and masters plus 60 units or bachelors plus 90 units.

Thus, he said, an instructor with a masters and 59 units is paid the same as one with a masters and 30 units.

The board, which did not delve into the proposals Tuesday, is expected to schedule another workshop in about three weeks, according to Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent.

ASIA

in support of the Ho Chi Minh Trail offensive. All told, 9 helicopters were lost in the Laos operation.

The total of 55 was the highest since the week ended June 18, 1968, when 101 American aircraft were lost.

At Khe Sanh, UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported officers decided today not to dismantle the 360,000 square-foot helicopter assault pad used for the 600 choppers involved in supporting the Laotian operation and ordered GIs to "blow it up" instead. However, dismantling of two 1,300-foot aluminimum-matted runways for fixed-wing planes continued.

The C130 transport planes that brought the vanguard of a 2,770-man South Vietnamese regiment to Khe Sanh took off again filled with equipment that had been used by the Americans while there. The exodus of U.S. personnel at the base also continued.

Only one rocket was fired into Khe Sanh by the Communists today, field reports said, but heavy North Vietnamese shelling was underway in areas along Highway 9 to the west.

U.S. military spokesmen said Air Force F4 Phantom jets Thursday bombed and strafed a North Vietnamese surface-to-air (SAM) missile complex inside Laos near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but the results of the raid were not immediately determined.

In one attack Communist troops ambushed an American patrol, killing five GIs and wounding one before the Americans called in support. Three Americans were killed and six wounded when North Vietnamese attacked a U.S. armored patrol 15 miles northeast of Khe Sanh. An armored personnel carrier also was destroyed.

The U.S. Command said today officers were keeping a close watch on Communist activity in the northern half of Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Under American rules of engagement, U.S. troops are forbidden to fire on Communist troops in North Vietnam's half of the Zone unless the North Vietnamese fire first, military sources said.

But the sources would not rule out a possible attack which the U.S. military terms "protective reaction" against newly built artillery and rocket sites in the six-mile wide DMZ.

Diplomatic reports reaching London, meanwhile, said massive new Soviet and Communist Chinese arms shipments recently have reached North Vietnam and more are under way.

The shipments include automatic weapons, heavy armor and rockets. They were designed to make up partly for the losses suffered by the North Vietnamese during the American action in Cambodia and currently by the American-backed South Vietnamese action in Laos, the reports said.

The flow of arms from Moscow slowed down considerably last year and the year before, but it has been resumed fully following the new developments in the Southeast Asia conflict and the specific American decision to destroy Hanoi's arms depots and supplies in Cambodia and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos, the reports said.

It is the Communist losses in Cambodia which were said to have set off pressing Hanoi demands for more arms from its two big power allies.

More arms also were said to have been required for the buildup of Hanoi's positions along the Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam. Some of the arms supplied more recently also have gone apparently to that area.

Hanoi negotiated new Russian arms—as well as other aid—in special talks with the Kremlin in Moscow and through diplomatic channels in Hanoi, both preceding and following the Moscow negotiations, the diplomatic reports said.

The award for "best domestic news feature by a team" was won by Lucinda L. Franks and Thomas M. Powers of United Press International for their series "The Making of a Terrorist."

The series, which appeared in the Independent-Journal last September, examined the background of Diana Oughton, one of the persons who died in the explosion of a Manhattan townhouse a year ago.

Medals commemorating the awards will be presented the winners during the National Headliners' annual meeting here April 16-17.

The Headliners Club was organized in 1934 by the press club of Atlantic City. It announces the Headliner awards annually to bring attention to the best efforts of journalists in all media, "to honor those behind the news."

Fairfax Planners Move On Creeks

Fairfax Planning Commission members approved a watercourse ordinance last night, and asked the city council to budget for a master plan on Fairfax creeks.

The master plan would provide guidelines for construction involving watercourses, commission chairman E. Ross Parkerson explained. The ordinance, now passed to the council for adoption, would require action by the design review board and planning commission to secure permits for bulkheads or any construction affecting creeks, or removing any trees in the flood plain of any creek, Parkerson said.

The planning commission also granted a zoning permit to Tony Juliano for a coffee shop at 58 Bolinas Road.

Directors Against Abolition

Golden Gate Bridge District directors looked into the mirror this morning and liked what they saw.

At issue was a requirement by the California Legislature that they recommend how the district could be abolished. The recommendation must be part of the long-range transit plan the district is due to submit to the Legislature by next Friday.

The directors' statement drafted to be included in the plan strongly defended the district as the most appropriate agency to do the job, and said that no other existing governmental agency had the power and experience to handle transportation in the Golden Gate corridor.

But if the Legislature insisted on abolishing the district, the statement said, then the Legislature should create "another governmental agency with almost identical structure and power."

The directors, however, balked at giving final approval to galley proofs of the plan, and set another meeting to go over them at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The language of the plan, totalling some 40 pages of galley proofs, had never been reviewed by the board until parts of it were read to them today.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, said that the language was "simply a compilation of previous actions by the board." An outline of the plan was adopted by the board two weeks ago, but it was left to the staff to draft the final language.

The plan calls for a $301 million bus rapid transit system using tunnels in San Francisco and second deck on the bridge.

Directors decided to go over the galley proofs after discovering that the staff had used the word "second deck" instead of "transit deck." Several directors objected that the staff's words would give the public the wrong impression since the second deck would be reserved to transit.

Director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley objected that it would be "like signing a blank check" if the board were to approve the staff language without review.

Copies of the galleys were to be provided directors later today.

$1,800 Worth Of Burglaries In San Rafael

Burglaries of more than $1,800 in merchandise and cash from three San Rafael businesses were reported to police yesterday.

Burglars took approximately $1,600 in antiques and cash from the Northgate Park Antique Shop at 4240 Redwood Highway between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 10 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Tires and tools valued at $157 were stolen about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday from Lynch and Sons Automotive Co. of 722 West Francisco Boulevard, police said.

Burglars took $100 from Kaiser Permanente of 1930 Fourth Street between 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Sunnyhills Boys Admit Bomb Call, Police Report

Two Sunnyhills School youths were taken into police custody yesterday after investigation for curfew violation disclosed they were responsible for bomb threats against three schools.

Both youths, 14 and 16 years of age, were released to Sunnyhills officials, San Anselmo police said.

Officers said they received three calls from the youths between 1:25 and 1:27 a.m. saying bombs were set to go off at Sir Francis Drake High School, Red Hill and Isabel Cook schools.

The boys were picked up walking city streets at about 1:30 a.m. and later admitted making the calls.

San Rafael City Council To Meet

The San Rafael City Council scheduled a special meeting for 5:30 p.m. today in city hall in order to adopt a resolution providing for the sale of $1,105,000 sewer bonds approved by voters last June.

Part of the work to be done with the bond money is aimed at correcting the annual problem of sewage boiling out of manholes in lower areas of the city during storms.

BUILDING

rebound may exceed the new building of 1969.

David Greenlee, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, said the awakening may be "primarily because of political considerations."

"I doubt that the president is going to go into an election year with a dead building industry," he said.

Despite a recent warning by Bank of America forecasters against "overbuilding" in apartments and similar units in the state, most of Marin's new construction is apartments.

Several architects reported their drawing boards will be fully loaded for six to eight months, with large apartment buildings, townhouses and the like.

This, after the Marin Builders' Exchange "has not built any major apartments for three years," Greenlee said.

Union construction workers and the builders' exchange report a confusing picture on the employment situation. Many men who are small independent contractors during building booms re-enter the labor market themselves when bidding for contracts becomes more competitive and favors larger firms. Thus the number of men in the hiring halls may be unrelated to the number of construction projects at a given time, union members explained.

Marin's real estate sales also are zooming. Daniel F. Deedy, manager of the Marin County Board of Realtors, said his office's records show January and February total multiple listing sales of $15.65 million, up more than 50 per cent from the first two months of 1970.

"I've done better the first two months of 1971 than I did all of 1970," reported one salesman for a Mill Valley real estate office.

"More people are putting their houses on the market."

Several real estate men agreed that not only did high interest rates and "tight money" discourage home buyers last year, but a lack of houses for sale hurt Marin realty offices.

"I don't know why people are suddenly putting houses up for sale now, but they are," the Mill Valley man said. "It's not competition from the new apartments — rents are as high as they ever were."

That may be because county-wide, only 5.1 per cent of Marin's housing units are vacant, compared to 10.8 per cent in 1960. The vacancy rate ranges from a low of 2.7 per cent in Mill Valley, with 2.9 per cent vacancies in Novato and 3.1 per cent in San Rafael, according to chamber of commerce and federal census figures.

Student Teacher's Clarinet Stolen

A clarinet and accessories valued at $554 were stolen yesterday from the car of a student teacher at San Rafael High School, police said.

Charlene F. Wilkerson of Daly City said the instrument was taken from her auto in the school's south parking lot between 7:45 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., according to police.

OBITUARIES

Helen Rowe Rite Set

Memorial service for Helen McLaren Rowe, a teacher in Mill Valley and Marin City in the 1940s and 1950s, will be Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley Community Church. Burial will be in the family plot in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mrs. Rowe died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 67.

Born in Brooklyn, Mrs. Rowe lived in Essex Falls, N.J., until she was 12, when she moved with her father and sister to a sheep ranch near Chinook, Mont.

She was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1926 and taught more than 25 years in high schools in Montana and Minnesota and in elementary schools in California.

In 1937 she married Victor H. Rowe, a fellow teacher at Great Falls High School in Montana. They moved to San Francisco in 1943 and to Marin County in 1944.

Mrs. Rowe taught at Park School in Mill Valley and Marin City School, now Manzanita School, from 1945 to 1956, when she retired. Her husband retired in 1965 as head counselor at Tamalpais High School after 21 years as a teacher and counselor.

She was a member of the Gamma Phi Beta International Sorority, the Mill Valley Community Church, Triple C., the Outdoor Art Club and the Sierra Club. She and her husband traveled extensively throughout the United States, Europe and the Far East, and Mrs. Rowe enjoyed many outdoor activities, such as hiking, fishing and horseback riding.

The family requests contributions to the American Cancer Society or a favorite charity.

OLGA WHEELER

Olga Wheeler, a resident of 114 Del Casa Drive, Mill Valley, since 1955, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 82.

She was born in Minnesota and came to California in 1930 with her husband, Elisha Wheeler, a frozen foods salesman. After living briefly in Seattle and San Francisco, they moved to Mill Valley in 1955.

Mrs. Wheeler was a member of the Chi Omega sorority at the University of Washington, Seattle, which she attended two years, and of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Catherine Lincoln and Dorothy W. Ortman, both of Mill Valley, and three grandchildren.

Private service will be held tomorrow, with private burial to follow. The family requests contributions to the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour.

MAX POPKENS

Private funeral for Max Popkens, a Marin resident for about 10 years, was held today in San Anselmo.

Popkens died Wednesday in a local convalescent home after a long illness. He was 77.

A native of Denver, he came to San Francisco as a youth. Popkens worked at B. Mersky and Sons, wholesale tobacco and candy distributors in San Francisco, retiring as credit manager in 1958.

Popkens came to Marin shortly after his retirement but returned to San Francisco for a short stay. He returned in 1969 to reside at the Rafael Convalescent Hospital in Santa Venetia.

He is survived by two daughters, Jane Cooper of San Anselmo and Maxine Cohen of San Francisco; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

DOROTHY CUNNINGHAM

Dorothy Cunningham, a former Larkspur resident and the first woman president of the Marin Mineralogical Society, died yesterday in a San Luis Obispo hospital after a long illness. She was 83.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Cunningham came to Marin shortly after her marriage to Alexander (Sandy) Cunningham in 1909. They resided in Larkspur where Mrs. Cunningham was active in a Larkspur theater group that performed Shakespearean plays. The couple moved to Santa Barbara in the early 1920s but returned to Larkspur in 1953, where Mrs. Cunningham resided until the death of her husband in 1958.

Mrs. Cunningham later moved to San Luis Obispo where she was past president of the Mid-Coast Mineral Club. She was also past president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West of the Santa Barbara Parlor.

She is survived by her son, Alexander Cunningham of Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo County, a daughter, Krille A. Reid of St. Petersburg, Fla.; a sister, Agusta Elizabeth Jepson of Oakland; and a grandson, Kenneth Rowland of San Rafael.

Funeral will be held 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Wood Funeral Chapel in Arroyo Grande. Interment will be at the Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

EDITH LEWIS

Edith Greenough Lewis, 89, of Palo Alto, mother of retired Navy Capt. John G. Lewis of Nicasio, died yesterday in Palo Alto after a long illness.

A native of Southampton, N.Y., she was the wife of the late Edison Lewis.

In addition to Capt. Lewis, she is survived by another son, the Venerable C. Pendleton Lewis, rector of Calvary Church, Stonington, Conn.

The funeral service will be held at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of Grace, Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. Interment will be in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

College Board To Interview Candidates

The Marin Junior College District board, meeting in closed session with its screening committee, last night was given the names of the four top candidates for the position of president of the proposed north campus.

Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent, said today the board will begin interviewing the four Monday at 7 p.m. at the county schools office in Corte Madera.

Interviews will continue, he said, on Wednesday at the same time and place followed on Thursday with another meeting with the screening committee to discuss the candidates.

The meetings, including Thursday's at 6:30 p.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall, will be closed.

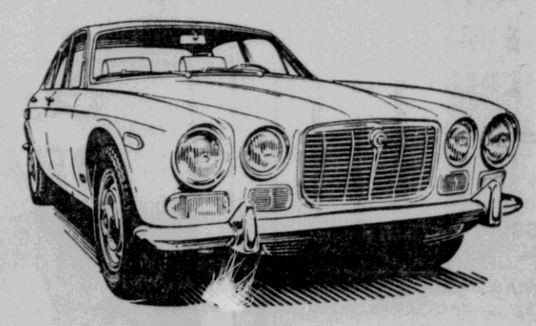
Jaguar XJ6



It's Here!

"Not only is the XJ6 far away the best saloon that Jaguar have ever made - and their standards have always been high - but we believe that in its behaviour it gets closer to overall perfection than any other luxury car we have yet tested, regardless of price."
Motor 10th. May 1969

Most automotive experts would find that description hard to dispute. And it's our opinion that you'd be of the same opinion once you test drive the new Jaguar XJ Sedan for yourself.

You'll find the XJ's performance extraordinary. The appointments truly luxurious. And the ride so quiet it's literally unnerving.

WINNERS — Ruby A. Myles (left) and Georgia M. Payton of Marin City study with pride and pleasure their Ford Foundation scholarship grant. But the announcement yesterday that they were winners was a mixed blessing; they may not be able to take advantage of the chance to complete their education.

A MIXED BLESSING

Ford Grant No Assurance Of A 'Good Ship Lollipop'

Mention a Ford Foundation scholarship and most Marinites would think of an all-expenses-paid ticket through college for some lucky student.

Not Ruby A. Myles and Georgia M. Payton, each married and the mother of five children. The two College of Marin students who expect to graduate in June were informed yesterday that they have won foundation grants to cover 40 per cent of their educational expenses when they transfer for four-year institutions.

Where does that leave them? Looking for the other 60 per cent of the cost.

Mrs. Myles, 24, and Mrs. Payton, 32, enrolled in the College of Marin in the Spring of 1969. Both have worked for the past two years as educational aides in the Sausalito School District.

Both want to complete their educations, obtain teaching credentials and ultimately — though the job forecast is gloomy — begin careers in primary education in Marin.

One thing stands in their way — money to finish college.

"We're still a long way from home, even though we won the foundation money," said Mrs. Payton, of 275 Drake Avenue, Marin City. "We've been accepted at Dominican College but we just can't afford to go there."

Dominican is their first choice because of its proximity to their homes, but they may be forced to attend another less convenient school — perhaps San Francisco State College — because of the higher cost of the Marin college.

Whether the aspiring teachers go to Dominican — with its $1,300 tuition and fees per year, to San Francisco State, which costs about $500 — the foundation will cover only 40 per cent.

"Without another scholarship or more money from somewhere, we can't even use what we've won. We couldn't continue our schooling," said Mrs. Myles, who lives at 82 Buckelew Street.

A scholarship from Dominican to make up the difference — or part of it — is possible, but competition is keen and funds are few. The women aren't counting on it.

"I don't know how we'll make it," said Mrs. Payton with a slight smile, "but then, two years ago I didn't see how we'd go this far in school, and look what we've managed to do."

The Ford Foundation grant is part of a new program designed to help minority group members transfer from two-year colleges to four-year programs.

Some 1,009 winners from 417 junior colleges will split $2.1 million between them. The scholarships will cover between 20 and 80 per cent of the students' total cost of attending the final two years of college.

Winners include Black Americans, Mexican-Americans, American Indians and Puerto Ricans.

In addition to Mrs. Myles and Mrs. Payton, four College of Marin students received honorable mention. They are William A. Hinzo of 25 Manzanita Avenue, Fairfax; Rhoda M. Knighten of 681 Del Ganado Drive and Bernard Stewart of 55 Bahia Way, both San Rafael, and Merdic McNair Jr. of 1307 Leafwood Drive, Novato.

The uphill struggle for an education has been hard work for the last two years, both women say. "Working five hours a day, going to the College of Marin and raising five kids takes a lot out of you," said Mrs. Payton.

Why, then, are they willing to endure even more inconvenience and plain hard work to finish their educations?

"I used to be a domestic worker," Mrs. Payton said. "That helped support my family but it was hard work at low pay. By being a teacher I can earn a living and at the same time do something my children can be proud of."

'Zodiac' Resurfaces With Note Boasting Victim 12

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Zodiac," wanted by police for six slayings, has sent another cryptic message hinting about the location of the body of "victim 12."

The boastful killer said earlier this month that he has slain "17-plus" victims and taunted police that he was "crackproof."

Homicide detectives speculated the victim might be Donna Lass, 25, a pretty nurse who disappeared from South Lake Tahoe in September.

The postcard was send to reporter Paul Avery of the San Francisco Chronicle, who received it Monday and turned it over to police. The newspaper made its contents public in today's editions.

Investigators are trying to decipher the note and to decide whether Zodiac does refer to the missing nurse.

Miss Lass disappeared Sept. 6 after leaving a South Lake Tahoe casino where she worked as a nurse.

"From the beginning we have believed she was abducted and is dead," said police chief Ray Lauritzen.

Sea Adventurer Postpones Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— British adventurer John Fairfax, who plans to row across the Pacific Ocean in an open boat with a London woman, has postponed his departure until April 2.

The start of the trip from San Francisco Bay originally had been set for today.

Fairfax, 35, figures he and Sylvia Cook, 32, will reach Australia in their 35-foot rowboat in 10 months.

He rowed alone across the Atlantic Ocean from London in six months in 1969.

Innocent Plea In Ignacio Incident

Anthony Bouttie, 21, of Oakland, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of assault with a deadly weapon and robbery.

His brother, Earl Sam Bouttie, 23, also of Oakland, was to have pleaded to the same charges yesterday.

They were arrested Tuesday when a Novato policeman saw them beating an Ignacio service station attendant. The men fled when they saw the policeman, but stopped their car after the officer fired three shotgun blasts.

Heiner To Quit Race For Bolinas Board

Gordon Heiner, candidate for the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, said yesterday he will withdraw from the race.

Heiner, who was running for one of two seats open for a four-year term, said he is dropping out because there are too many candidates with the same ideas.

Bagley Foresees Income Tax Hike

The state of California needs at least $250 million more revenue than provided in Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget, and that means increasing the state income tax, Assemblyman William T. Bagley told a Marin audience last night.

Bagley offered little hope to the Marin County School Boards Association for what they would like most: a big increase in money for the schools. But he said "I will guarantee' that enough additional state money to cover cost inflation — about 5.25 per cent — will be added to school allocations.

The governor, he explained, is required by the state constitution to submit a balanced budget. But to do it, he had to wipe out all inflation factors, reform the welfare system, and transfer $72 million from the State Teachers Retirement Fund to the general fund. This transfer and ignoring inflation are unrealistic, said Bagley, which is why the budget —and the income tax — will be increased.

The Marin-Sonoma assemblyman, speaking at the school trustees' dinner meeting at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio, said a statewide property tax to equalize the funds behind each school child in California is included in a tax package he is preparing for the administration.

Prospects for the package, he said, are ''sort of in Never-Never Land . . . The governor and I are negotiating with the Democrats."

The statewide property tax has little appeal by itself, said Bagley, "because it has no constituency."

What it would do, he explained, is shift part of the schools' property tax to a statewide basis which then could be distributed equally among all districts to wipe out an imbalance which finds some school districts with four times as much money per pupil as others, because of differences in assessed valuation.

Bagley came out strongly for such a tax, which he said he prefers to call an "equalization tax." But state Sen. Peter H. Behr, Marin's other legislator, expressed some reservations.

Behr expressed approval of AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which would reform the teacher tenure law.

Stull's bill would, among other things, eliminate superior court review of teacher dismissals. It would protect tenured teachers by providing that any attempt to dismiss them be heard by both a state hearing officer and a panel of three educators. If these agreed, their decision would be binding on the school board. if they did not, the board would have final say.

This, said Behr, "seems to be very sensible."

Behr said the much-discussed voucher system "isn't going to go anywhere" although "it really isn't all that eccentric." He pointed out that the GI Bill does the same thing as the voucher plan: gives the student money he can use at any education institution, regardless of whether it is a public or a private one.

Bette Wallace, Tamalpais High School District trustee who was co-chairman of the dinner with Sally Rakow of Ross School District, asked how school trustees can influence the Legislature. Both Bagley and Behr said the best time to do it is between legislative sessions. "Don't expect to come screaming to Sacramento in May and get action," each said in his own words.

Neither held out hope for passage this year of a bill backed by the San Rafael Board of Education which would eliminate mandatory physical education in the last two years of high school. Bagley pointed out that Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Anaheim, has a bill to do the same thing in junior colleges ' 'and he can't get 41 votes (the necessary number) for that bill" in the Assembly. Behr said he could not think of "any significant piece of legislation which has been begun and gone into law in one session."

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., San Rafael Board of Education member and association president, chaired the meeting, which drew attendance of nearly 200 school board members, candidates, and superintendents.

Addition To School Is Approved

Final plans for an eight-classroom addition to Rancho Cotate High School were approved yesterday by the Petaluma Board of Education.

The plans prepared by the architectural firm of Reynolds and Chamberlain, also include enlargement of the library, remodeling of the business area to accommodate home economics classes, tennis courts and additional parking facilities.

Cost is estimated at $369,000. The addition is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1972 and will permit a total enrollment of 1,000 students.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

MEETING — Tentatively set a meeting for April 22 with the Rohnert Park City Council. A place and time have not been selected.

EMPLOYMENT — Approved hiring of Anita Hubbell to teach at Petaluma Junior High School for the remainder of the school year at a salary of $2,555.

APPOINTED — Approved appointment of Ronald Baker and the reappointment of Harry Anderson to the Penngrove Citizens Advisory Board.

Young Scientists To Study Under Grant

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State University will host more young scientists than any ot the other 251 American educational institutions taking part in the National Science Foundation's summer Undergraduate Research Participation Program.

Sixty-five undergraduate science majors will conduct research in such areas as degradable pesticides, air pollution and nutritional value of plant seeds in a 10-week program beginning in June under a $73,710 grant.

Arraignment On Burglary

Pamela K. Donaldson, 21, of Novato, and Kurt T. Kaikinger, 22, of Boyes Springs, have been arraigned in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of burglary.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon scheduled Miss Donaldson to enter a plea next Wednesday. Kaikinger pleaded innocent and a preliminary hearing was set for Wednesday.

They were arrested Tuesday on suspicion of stealing a crucifix and candle from the St. Francis Solano Church in Sonoma.

Former Novatan Out Of Prison On Contempt In Dynamite Probe

I-J Special Report

TUCSON, Ariz. — Former Novato resident Karen Duncan, 24, and four other Californians were released from federal custody here yesterday.

The five had been jailed late last year for contempt in refusing to testify before a federal grand jury secretly investigating Weatherman activities, including the alleged purchase of dynamite in Arizona last May and transporting it to Southern California last May.

The grand jury panel was disbanded when its term expired. The five witnesses were ordered to return here April 7 when a new grand jury will be seated. If the Californians again refuse to testify, they may again be jailed for contempt, according to Ann Bowen, assistant U.S. attorney.

The non-defunct jury indicted John A. Fuerst, 21, of Berkeley, on one count of failing to register his purchase of dynamite and blasting caps, as required by federal law. Fuerst still is being sought by federal authorities.

Released yesterday were Miss Duncan, a 1963 graduate of Novato High School; Terri A. Volpin, 23; David A. Scheffler, 24; Lee Weinberg, 38, and Pamela Donaldson, 23, all of Venice, Los Angeles County.

Miss Duncan, jailed Dec. 3, was released temporarily last Christmas Eve while her indeterminate sentencing was appealed to a federal district court. She was jailed again Jan. 18 when the court ruled against her.

Novato Players To Install Slate

A Victory For Keg Beer Lovers

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)— Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis approved an antilitter law Thursday permitting individuals to buy beer in kegs.

The "Act to Relieve Pollution Resulting From Malt Beer Sales" supplants current regulations preventing individuals from buying beer in containers holding more than three gallons.

Its sponsor, Rep. Earl H. Smith, D-Waterville, said the measure would help prevent pollution caused "by the litter of cans, bottles, paper and cardboard containers."

STRAIGHTENING OUT THE CURVES

Traffic detours cautiously past San Quentin homes (left) while Ghilotti Bros. contractors of San Rafael work on a major cut and fill as part of a $150,000 improvement to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard East between Highway 101 (in background) and Highway 17. County traffic engineer James B. Robertson said it's hoped the project will be finished by June, although stormy weather could delay the relocation of a large water main. The new road will be safe at 45-miles-per-hour speed, Robertson said. Federal and state funds are financing the project.

Gail Lavery Is Discovered Dead

Gail Woodfield Lavery, former Strawberry resident who shot her husband to death in San Francisco in 1965, was found dead at Mendocino State Hospital Monday, it was learned yesterday.

She had apparently hanged herself in a small shed near an unused hospital incinerator sometime Sunday night, according to the Mendocino coroner.

Mrs. Lavery, 53, had originally been placed on probation for five years after her conviction in 1966 on the condition that she receive regular psychiatric treatment.

In 1969, however, her psychiatrist reported that she was severely paranoid and possibly homicidal and she was arrested in her Marin apartment on a warrant issued by Judge Francis McCarty of San Francisco Superior Court.

The judge committed her to Mendocino where she remained until her death.

Mrs. Lavery, an artist and the daughter of San Francisco financier William Woodfield Sr., shot and killed her husband of ten weeks, George Lavery, a 44-year-old real estate broker.

After the shooting on July 30, 1965, Mrs. Lavery told police that she killed her husband because he beat her mercilessly. This story was supported by numerous witnesses at her trial.

The much-publicized trial was recessed for more than two months after Mrs. Lavery had a breakdown in court. After its resumption in San Francisco Superior Court, the late Judge Harry J. Neubarth found her guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

(She had waived a jury trial, saying, "I preferred to go before one cerebral person for judgment than 12 people, half of whom would not understand what I was talking about.")

Private funeral for her was held yesterday in San Francisco.

She is survived by a son by a previous marriage, Carlyle M. Dunaway Jr. of New York and her father, who is a former Imperial Potentate of the Mystic Shrine of North America.

Size Of Marin City Council Cut

Marin City Council last night amended its bylaws to reduce the size of the council from 13 members to nine.

Chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. said no active council members will be eliminated because of the change. "The only members affected are those who have disqualified themselves by unexcused absences," he said.

The council also voted to request the Marin City to work toward undergrounding utilities.

Undergrounding should start on new construction and eventually be expanded to include all of Marin City, Banks said.

In other business, the council directed a letter be sent to the Sixth Army requesting that trees be planted on Army property on the ridge overlooking Marin City.

Banks said the council will ask the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department to support his group in its request to the Army.

Santa Cruz Officers Nab Kidnap Suspect

Terry Ring, the 14-year-old boy sought for the kidnapping of a Santa Rosa woman on Wednesday, was arrested last night in Santa Cruz.

Sonoma sheriff's inspector Edward Mayburn said Ring would be returned to Sonoma County today and would be charged with kidnapping, armed robbery and violation of parole. He will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

Ring, of Santa Rosa, is accused of taking Doris Davis captive for three hours after a burglary attempt at her home failed. The boy had been released Feb. 20 from the California Youth Authority after serving a three-year term for a kidnapping committed at the age of 11.

Mayburn said another youth called the Santa Cruz sheriff's department, reporting that Ring had been bragging about murdering a Santa Rosa police officer. Deputies made the arrest at 9:30 p.m. without incident. Ring, who had had a rifle during the kidnapping, was unarmed when arrested.

Mrs. Davis told officers that Ring had forced her to drive around Sonoma and Marin counties before she could talk him into releasing her in Petaluma. She was not harmed.

Vincent Hallinan Denies Patrick Marxist Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorney Vincent Hallinan charged on the witness stand yesterday that William Penn Patrick, wealthy San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer, accused him of being a Marxist and a paid propagandist for Fidel Castro.

Hallinan, formerly of Belvedere but now living in San Francisco, testified as jury trial opened in superior court in connection with his $2 million libel suit against Patrick.

The suit stems from a 30-minute commercial called "Commies at Cal," that Patrick used in his 1966 campaign for governor.

Hallinan testified that Patrick, head of Holiday Magic Cosmetics, was "so insolent in his wealth he thinks he can get away with anything."

One thing I have prided myself on," the attorney told the jury before Judge Charles S. Perry, "is that I am not For sale. To be called a propagandist is injurious. To be a propagandist is to be a liar. To be a paid propagandist is to be for sale. I am not for sale."

Hallinan, who serves as secretary of the American Institute for Marxist Studies, said he was "no more a Marxist than the man from Mars."

The attorney made his remarks following opening statements by attorneys in the trial.

Tomorrow Is Last Day To Take Books Out

Tomorrow is the last day to take books out of the Novato branch of the Marin County Library in the Tresch Building and Librarian Martha Van Etten hopes cardholders will take many.

There has been some confusion because the library won't completely close until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Mrs. Van Etten said.

It will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only for the return of books as the staff packs for the move to the new library at 1720 Novato Boulevard, she emphasized.

Mrs. Van Etten said the more books residents take out the less will have to be moved and noted that no fines will be charged during April.

Sonoman Reports Hitchhiker Robbery

A Cotati man was robbed of $15 in cash by three hitchhikers he picked up Tuesday night on Highway 101, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said Andrew R. Harris of 105 West Railroad Avenue, told them he picked up the men, who were between 20 and 30 years old, near San Rafael and gave them a ride into Marin City, where they took his wallet and money from the glove compartment and fled.

Fireman's Fund Will Purchase Marin Land

Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, San Francisco, has announced completion of negotiations with American Savings and Loan Association to purchase the 38-acre Lucas Green property west of Highway 101 and south of Lucas Valley Road.

It was reported on Wednesday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks that negotiations for the purchase were being carried on.

It is now reported that the site is being considered as a possible location for Fireman's Fund's local data processing and equipment and operations and the construction of a computer facility, contingent on annexation and rezoning by the City of San Rafael. The property is in an unincorporated area and is not zoned for this type of administrative-professional use.

Gardiner's Civil Suit In Crash Is Under Way

I-J Special Report

WOODLAND — Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner's civil suit against the state over a 1967 auto collision near Knights Landing is under way before a Yolo County Superior Court Jury here.

Gardiner is seeking a total of $4,700 damages for personal injuries and damages to his auto.

Gardiner alleges his head-on crash with a sports car Oct. 7, 1967 was caused by a dangerous curve at the intersection of highways 113 and 99E.

The judge, who was injured along with his wife and the driver of the sports car, is asking for $4,000 for "pain and suffering" and $700 for damages to his auto.

(Gardiner reported from his office in the Marin County Civic Center today that the state had settled out of court for an undisclosed amount for injuries suffered by his wife. The judge is represented by attorney Robert Harlem in the case.)

According to Kenneth Nellis, attorney for the state's Department of Public Works which is being sued, the state is contending the intersection is safe and the accident was caused by the judge speeding.

The trial, which started March 16, is expected to end sometime next week, Nellis said.

At the time of the accident, Gardiner was cited by the California Highway Patrol for failure to drive on the right side of the road. Charges against him were later dismissed by the Yolo district attorney who said "the facts do not warrant further prosecution."

Weinberger Has No Mayoral Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Caspar Weinberger, deputy director of President Nixon's Office of Management and Budget, and a native San Franciscan, said He has "no plans, no considerations" to run against Mayor Joseph Alioto in next fall's election.

After a luncheon at which he praised the President's proposed national health care program, Weinberger was asked if he had any designs on the mayor's post.

"Heavens, no," he said. "I've got too much to do in Washington to give that job my consideration."

Weinberger, who maintains his voter's registration in San Francisco, said the President's health care plan was better than a rival proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., because of its "self-restraint and cost consciousness."

"The increase on all health costs has been enormous in recent years and while we can all recognize and trace causes the fact is some restraint has to be exercised here too," he said.

Tentative Reed Pact Reached

A tentative agreement between Reed School District teachers and trustees on procedures to settle future disagreements has been reached, according to acting Asst. Supt. Lester Dunn.

The proposed agreement will be submitted to the Reed District Teachers Association for its approval and then to the school board for adoption.

Dunn said teachers and trustees, in a three-hour special meeting Wednesday night, decided to strike numerous provisions contained in the proposed policy in answer to objections by teachers, board members and Richard V. Godino, deputy county counsel.

Eliminated, he said, was a provision for choosing a chairman for a three-man fact-finding panel formed to solve disagreements between the board and teachers.

Under a previously suggested procedure, the county schools superintendent would have selected a chairman if the two fact-finders were unable to agree on a third member — who also would be the panel's chairman — within seven days.

With this provision stricken, Dunn said, a fact-finding committee unable to choose a chairman would be dissolved and two other fact-finders appointed.

For now at least, however, the question is moot, since the fact-finding committee has been formed and the first two members appointed have named a third member and chairman, Dunn said. He is Morris L. Meyers, a San Francisco attorney.

Meyers and the other two members, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and Dr. Donald H. Wollett, will study the current contract impasse in the Reed district and suggest nonbinding solutions to the board and teachers.

Also stricken from the proposed procedures were sections dealing with internal workings of the Reed District Teachers Association, specifying that teachers may suggest how the board may define educational goals but not recommend the goals themselves, and defining under what conditions the board may adopt emergency policies without consulting teachers.

The procedures also set up a type of grievance organization for teachers and guidelines for "meet and confer" sessions between the board and teacher representatives.

Dunn said the board agreed to meet with teachers at 7:30 p.m. April 6, 30 minutes before the regular board meeting, to iron out any last-minute problems in the proposed procedures. The board could adopt them at that meeting, he said.

Plea Set On Two Charges

Phillip Eugene Butler, 20, of Petaluma, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and indecent exposure.

He is to plead to the charges Wednesday.

Butler was arrested Tuesday after a woman reported to police that a man walking along Lucas Valley Road had exposed himself to her as she drove along the road.

Black History Course Offered

Afro-American history for teachers, a three unit class sponsored by the University of California's Adult Education Extension, will begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room CA-6 at San Rafael High School.

The ten-week course is taught by Dee Schilling of Marin City and is open to elementary and secondary school teachers.

Topics for the quarter will include the Supreme Court school desegregation decision of 1954 and the revolution in education, the non-violent civil rights movement, the Black Muslims, black power, the Black Panther Party and racial conditions in Marin County.

The philosophies of Malcolm X, Martin Luther King and Stokely Carmichael will be reviewed and guest speakers from the black community and several films will be presented.

Dress Case Appeal Lost

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An appeal by an attorney from Mill Valley, fined $100 in October for appearing tieless and in dungarees in Marin Municipal Court, has been dismissed by the state's District Court of Appeal on a legal technicality.

The court dismissed the appeal by Peter Pipe, 28, because he failed to serve the proper papers on former judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. who imposed the fine.

Pipe in December lost an appeal of the fine in Marin Superior Court. He contended his clothing was "reasonable" courtroom attire.

Attorney Not Only Wins Case But Saves Judge

TEHACHAPI, Calif. (UPI)—Defense attorney Allen H. McFarland had a good day in court —he won his case and perhaps saved the judge's life.

McFarland was defending a trespassing case before Tahachapi Justice Court Judge Wesley Patton when the judge suddenly gasped and called a recess during the reading of final instructions.

Patton nearly fell from the bench and was collapsing in a doorway, the apparent victim of a heart attack, when McFarland caught him. He eased the judge to the floor and loosened his tie and shirt. Patton gasped again and stopped breathing.

The attorney struck him several times in the chest with his fist and began administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Patton revived after a few minutes and was taken to a hospital, where officials said he was "holding his own."

After the courtroom resuscitation Wednesday, the court clerk received permission to complete the reading of the instructions to the jury. The panel deliberated 75 minutes and found McFarland's client innocent.

For Better Water

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Public Health Service states that municipal tap water in most areas is below standards because of chemicals and dissolved salts. To upgrade drinking water, one plastic membrane available in a home water purifier uses reverse osmosis. With the membrane, it is now possible to convert tap water into drinking water which is equivalent to bottled water in quality and taste.

Legislation Seen As Key Now To Awakening Health Industry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Executive Director Thomas G. Moore Jr., of the California Council for Health Plan Alternatives, said today the only way to make the health industry responsive to public needs was through legislation.

Moore, speaking before a three-day meeting of the American Assembly at the University of California at San Francisco, said "voluntarism has had its day before the court of public opinion" and failed.

"Obviously," he said, "in our society, even legislative mandates are ineffective without the cooperation of the parties involved. Failure to cooperate leads us inevitably to the courts."

Moore said legislation should be enacted specifically to bring the health industry out into the open and to measure the quality and effectiveness of the health industry with performance standards developed for all providers with public review of the standards and results of performance testing.

Moore said it was his "feeling that once providers and consumers are brought together by legislative mandate, we will discover that we are no real threat to each other and that we can plan and work together."

The Assembly was founded by Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1950 when he was president of Columbia University. It is a national organization holding regular meetings on vital current topics.

Charles Payton, UC medical student, replied to Moore, who represented union interests. He said "users of health services should begin exercising more control over the course of our health system.

"With due respect to Mr. Moore and the California Council for Health Plan alternatives, we must listen to more than the voice of unionized labor."

Margaret S. Godron, associate director of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, said curriculum reform, greater emphasis on problems of health care delivery "in both the education and research programs of university health centers ... all these recommendations and many others would make a substantial contribution to more effective and efficient use of health manpower and to overcoming the problem of geographical maldistribution."

Deadline Near On Commune Petition

With five days to go, volunteers working to put Mill Valley's anticommune ordinance to vote of the people have about ne-sixth of the signatures required to call a referendum lection.

David W. Olson, secretary of he city youth commission, said esterday 10 petitions containing 100 signatures of Mill Valley voters have been collected. Signatures of 592 voters are required.

Olson said that 140 petitions still are being circulated and must be returned to him by Tuesday night in order to be submitted to the Mill Valley city clerk by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

More voters are needed to collect signatures, Olson said. "We've had offers from several churches to set up tables but we need voters to man them," he said.

Members of both the youth commission and human rights board have joined in the petition drive, but youth commission members are not allowed to collect signatures as they are too young to vote.

If 592 valid signatures are collected, the city council either may repeal the anticommune law or set a special referendum election.

The law, adopted March 1, prohibits more than five unrelated persons from living together in a single-family zone. It was enacted, councilmen said, to combat increasing density in residential neighborhoods.

Blank petitions may be obtained from Olson at 206 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Beard Back In Lower Court

Brian V. Beard, 26, of Marin City, who finished up one court case Tuesday, was right back in Marin Municipal Court the next day being arraigned on a misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Beard, a former candidate for the Sausalito School District board, was sentenced Tuesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman of municipal court to 50 days in jail for resisting a public officer in 1969.

That conviction stemmed from a scuffle outside Marin City July 23, 1969, when Marin County sheriff's deputies went to arrest another man on traffic warrants.

Following his sentencing Tuesday, bailiffs took Beard to the jail where a search during booking revealed a suspected marijuana cigarette in his pocket.

He is to plead to the charge Wednesday.

Art, Garden Show At St. Sylvester's

"The Pallette and Trowel", an art and garden show, will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 3 and 4 at St. Sylvester's parish in Peacock Gap, San Rafael.

Oil paintings, sculpture and other forms of art have been donated by parishioners, to benefit the church.

Challenge For Rail Car Ride

The League of Women Voters of Central Marin wants to take the Golden Gate Bridge District's transportation committee for a ride.

The committee unanimously approved a proposal yesterday by league member Judy Ainsworth that bridge officials, accompanied by league representatives, take a ride on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's self-powered passenger car.

The trip from Healdsburg to Sausalito would let the committee weigh for itself the possibility of using the rail line for commuters, Mrs. Ainsworth urged.

She stressed that her organization wasn't "supporting reinstating the railroad . . . we do feel that sufficient argument has been presented by those in favor of rail transit to warrant . . . looking into the situation. It could well be . . . that a system of rail commute could be integrated with buses and ferries and might well eliminate the necessity for a transit deck on the Golden Gate Bridge."

NWP plans to halt use of its Budd car on the Willits to Eureka run May 1, Mrs. Ainsworth noted.

She said the little-used section of NWP lines between Corte Madera and Sausalito would be safe for the trip because the rail line has been maintained under Interstate Commerce Commission orders.

The committee approved Bridge Director W. R. Lucius's motion to ask NWP for use of the car for a day. Chairman Michael Wornum instructed Lucius and Mrs. Ainsworth to arrange the loan of the 80-passenger, 60,000-pound car at no cost to the district.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

Ranee Bennett, 19, of San Pablo, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and credit card forgery.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

She was arrested Saturday, along with Mark Edward Terry, 26, of Richmond, at the Montgomery Ward's store in Corte Madera when a security manager caught Miss Bennett using an allegedly stolen credit card.

Corte Madera police said a search of Terry's car produced other stolen credit cards, as well as a stolen typewriter, radio and clothing.

Terry, also charged with burglary and credit card forgery, was to have appeared in Municipal Court yesterday for appointment of an attorney.

Statewide Property Tax Rate Eyed For Equality Education

A statewide property tax rate to equalize educational support for all California school children was proposed last night in Petaluma by the California School Boards Association.

The plan to assure a firm financial platform of support for all local school districts was outlined for educators from Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties by Alfred Newman of Vallejo, immediate past president of the association.

The proposal developed by the statewide council for long-range school finance planning would set a statewide property tax rate of $3.75 per $100 assessed valuation and would require anadditional $400 million from the General Fund.

Total cost of the program has been set at $3,836,316,200 with the proposed statewide property tax supplying an estimated $2,180,986,894. The plan would require an increase of $397 million over the $1,656,229,306 already being provided by the state.

Newman said that although additional state support would be received, districts would maintain complete local control on how the funds are spent.
spent.

Newman said the guaranteed state foundation program would provide $667 for each elementary child,$874 for high school students, and $917 for community college students.

In addition to the property tax and General Fund monies, local districts could levy override taxes without seeking voter approval to increase revenue if the statewide tax falls below the district's level of spending.

Newman said the override would be based on the 1969-70 spending level plus $60 for each elementary student, $78 for high school students and $81 for community college students.

Other overrides which would be permitted without voter approval would include programs for the physically handicapped, mentally gifted, transportation and a limited override tax for purchasing equipment of up to $10 per elementary child, $15 high school and $20 community college.

Newman said the proposal would require districts to hold their general reserve funds to 5 per cent of the total monies received from the state. He said an additional override could be levied locally if the reserves fall below the 5 per cent level.

The plan, which will be introduced as a bill in the Legislature next week, would eliminate local tax levies except for the specified overrides.

Newman said the new taxing method would represent a saving for 91 per cent of the state's property tax payers.

Newman cited the current financial problems of schools and said that eight years ago California ranked sixth in the nation in per-pupil spending and now ranks 24th.

Russell Kent, superintendent of San Mateo County Schools, explained technical points of the plan and answered questions on how specific school districts might be affected.

George W. Castleberry, business manager of Petaluma schools, said he was not certain how the new plan would affect local revenues,but said he believed the income might be increased.

Man's Body Washes Up On Beach

The body of a man believed to have been floating in San Francisco Bay for about a week was found washed up on the beach near the Fort Baker boat dock.

Deputy Marin County Coroner Bill J. Thomas said the body, that of a black man between 20 and 30 years old, was discovered at 5:50 a.m. today by a military policeman.

Thomas described the unidentified man as 6 feet tall, of slender build with a mustache, and wearing khaki trousers, a white shirt and white coveralls and a watch and a ring with a red stone.

The body had been in the water between a week and 10 days, Thomas said. There was no sign of foul play.

The coroner's office was attempting to identify the man today through fingerprints.

Los Angeles Feels A Small Earthquake

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A slight earthquake registering 3.7 on the Richter Scale jolted the Los Angeles area Thursday afternoon, rattling windows and knocking out electricity briefly in some parts of the San Fernando Valley.

Spokesmen at the Cal Tech seismological laboratory said the jolt was one of a series of more than 200 aftershocks from the destructive Feb. 9 earthquake. There were no reports of damage.

Some Petaluma Hospital Staffers Due Pay Hikes

The Petaluma Hospital District board last night approved salary increases for some employees at Hillcrest Hospital as well as the extension of physician staffing in the emergency room to week nights.

Hospital Administrator Joseph Horner said salary raises were approved for employees on the lower end of the salary scale. He said the increase would range from 2 to 7 per cent for employees in maintenance, dietary and housekeeping departments to bring them in line with salaries paid at other area hospitals.

Horner estimated the additional cost of the salaries at $28,000 a year and said the money would come from economies in operating.

He said the board approved the plan to extend the emergency room staffing to provide a doctor on duty week day nights.

All sporty cars look pretty much the same, cost pretty much the same, and act pretty much the same.

Except the 1980 looking Javelin.

The original idea of the sporty car was to give you a car with some individuality.

But lately, all the sporty cars are looking pretty much alike.

So, at American Motors, we went all-out to make our Javelin a really different-looking car. Even at the risk of scaring some people off.

The grill and hood slope to a canopy roof with a rear spoiler lip.

And on the inside, the smooth racy feeling of the outside carries through. The "cockpit" instrument panel. The high-back buckets in vinyl or optional fabric or leather.

But not only did we make the Javelin look good, we made it drive good. It's longer, lower, and wider for a smoother ride. The steering ratio is quicker and the suspension is tougher for faster, tighter cornering.

And to make the Javelin really go like it looks, we've got engines from a base 6 all the way up to an optional 401 cubic inch V8. Which are available in all the Javelin models: the Javelin; the luxurious Javelin SST; and the brawny Javelin AMX, the car Trans-Am race driver Mark Donohue helped us design.

All in all, we've achieved one very important thing with the new Javelin: Before, you were stuck with the choice of either getting a sporty car that looked like the others, or spending a lot of money for one that looked different.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Antilead Gasoline Bill Passes Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure reached the Assembly floor today requiring air-polluting lead to be nearly eliminated from gasoline sold in California by 1977.

The Assembly Transportation Committee Thursday approved a bill by Assemblyman Peter F. Schabarum, R-Covina, on a split voice vote.

Similar legislation cleared the Assembly last year but died in the Senate after a fierce intra-industry struggle involving the marketing practices of most major oil companies.

Schabarum said lead released into the atmosphere from gasoline was an "implied health hazard."

He said its removal would help the automobile industry develop mufflers which would trap smog-producing elements before they were dispersed into the air.

Witnesses at previous hearings testified that lead is poisonous and could be harmful to human health if inhaled into the body in large quantities.

Lead is added to gasoline to increase the performance level of vehicles. Several companies now offer no lead or low lead gasoline in California.

Schabarum said automobile manufacturers wanted the lead removed from gasoline to help in development of a "catalytic muffler."

The proposed special muffler contains chemical "catalysts" which neutralize the smog-producing effects of engine exhaust emissions before they are released into the air.

Schabarum said the automobile manufacturers contend lead in gasoline interferes with the beneficial work of the catalysts.

The Schabarum bill would require lead to be completely phased out of regular grades of gasoline by 1974. High octane grades would be limited to one-half gram of lead per gallon by 1977.

The lead restrictions on regular grades would be imposed in 1972 in the heavily populated San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco areas. By 1972, in those same areas, oil companies would be limited to three or less grams of lead per gallon of 97 octane gasoline.

SMOG DEVICES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill requiring automakers to pay for smog control devices on 1955-65 models has been proposed by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

Gov. Ronald Reagan in his clear air message recommended requiring owners of older cars to equip them with the exhaust emission devices.

But Beilenson said Thursday that the manufacturers and not the owners should pay for the devices which would cost about $50 each.

"The manufacturers designed the cars improperly in the first place and they delayed development of effective smog control devices," the senator said. "They should pay to remedy their failure."

QUEEN MARY

ACRAMENTO (UPI) —The State Lands Commission moved today toward answering Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke who wants to know whether money is being spent illegally on the Queen Mary project.

Reinecke specifically was pointed to how tidelands oil revenues were being used in the commercial phases of the multi-million-dollar project.

The commission Thursday ordered its staff to study the hiring of a private consultant to audit spending for the giant passenger liner.

State estimates of the private and public costs of coverting the ship into a museum-tourist attraction ranged from $50 to $60 million. Originally, the city proposed the conversion only to a museum at a cost of $9 million.

"If I were running my own business, I wouldn't run it this way," Reinecke said. "Can't we get an accounting system established" separating the museum and tourist portions of the project.

Deputy Attorney General Warren Abbott said, "Maybe the time is coming for an outside study."

Reinecke answered: "I think it's past. I think we need to take some action."

The commission asked its staff to study the prospect of having an outside consultant audit the project and make a recommendation at the April 29 meeting.

"There is an absolute obligation to make sure that the money is spent on the museum," the lieutenant governor said. "The people of the City of Long Beach should have had an opportunity to vote on this a long time ago."

The law allows the city to spend the oil revenues on the museum but not on the commercial phases of the project.

Commission members agreed it was difficult to determine how much money has gone to the museum and how much to the commercial part.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan post previously urged the commission to "impose the most stringent cost and budgetary controls possible under present law."

Toll Plaza Study Fund Is Requested

The Golden Gate Bridge District's building and operating committee voted yesterday to ask the full district board to budget $275,000 for engineering to modernize the toll plaza and reverse the collection pattern to have northbound traffic pay.

The committee decided to proceed despite the fact that the Army has not yet formally granted the district land to relocate its maintenance shops, which now stand on the site of a proposed four-lane southbound roadway.

Engineers for the project will be Parsons, Brinkerhof, Quade and Douglass of San Francisco.

Committee members revived the issue of whether reversing the toll pattern might hurt bridge income. They decided to reaffirm their decision of Jan. 27 favoring collection from northbound traffic. It would best fit the pattern for all Bay Area toll bridges, district engineer Robert E. Shields told directors.

The committee temporarily shelved approval of plans for conditioning and installing a district-owned float at the San Francisco ferry terminal, pending presentation of cost estimates. The figures were not ready yesterday.

Continued Oily Bird Help Asked

I-J Special Report

RICHMOND — A plea went out yesterday for Marinites to continue helping the oil-covered birds they rescued from the county's shoreline in January.

Ralph Stiner of the Bird Reserve Fund said the organization must care for a total of 308 waterfowl for another two to three months before the last of the survivors can be turned free. Two dozen birds have been released so far, he said.

Stiner said Standard Oil Co. will halt support to the volunteer bird care operation at the University of California's Richmond Center on Sunday. Costs have run as high as $1,000 a day for food, medication and bedding for birds harmed when two Standard Oil tankers collided Jan. 18, and nearly a million gallons of bunker oil spilled into the Golden Gate.

Many of the 1,400 birds originally taken to the Richmond center came from Marin County, Stiner said. He said the Center's survival rate of 26 per cent was far higher than that of the San Francisco Zoo, where 40 birds survive out of some 1,700.

Stiner said Standard Oil was willing to continue financing only if the birds were relocated at the San Francisco Zoo. The Bird Rescue Fund thinks its birds will survive better in shelters and pens at the Nature Conservancy wildlife refuge on Tubbs Island. There, Stiner said, the birds gradually can relearn to live in the wild.

Donations to the Bird Rescue Fund at 1414 South Tenth Street, Richmond, are tax deductible, Stiner said.

Bruce Claims Supervisors Get Commune Blame

Marin County supervisors are being blamed for an anticommune ordinance passed by the City of Mill Valley, County Administrator Alan Bruce announced this morning.

Bruce said he had received a half dozen letters addressed to the county supervisors, accusing them of passing an ordinance that allows no more than five unrelated persons from living in a single-family home.

Such an ordinance was passed by 4-to-1 vote of the Mill Valley councilmen on March 1. That ordinance applies in Mill Valley and has nothing to do with the county or with the board of supervisors.

Bruce said that correspondence relating to the anticommune ordinance should be sent to Mill Valley, not to the county.

Supervisors did consider a similar ordinance last October but decided to drop the idea because it would have been too difficult to enforce.

Moonlighting Practices Of Public Employes

Charges leveled against the county health department by County Administrator Alan Bruce have brought to the surface a practice which is known as "moonlighting on the company's time."

It is a practice frowned upon in private employment. But it occurs fairly often in some areas of public employment.

One of the charges against Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer, was that the half-time health educator in her office, Natalie K. Posner, was paid full-time by Marin County during the recent rubella inoculation campaign while at the same time receiving half-time pay from Contra Costa County, where she also serves in the health department.

It appears that Mrs. Posner either (a) worked 17 hours a day, (b) was moonlighting in Marin when she should have been in Contra Costa, or (c) was moonlighting in Contra Costa when she should have been in Marin.

IF IT WERE either of the latter two, she was not the first public employee to "moonlight on the company's time."

There was a great stir recently when the California State Colleges Board of Trustees fired a professor at Los Angeles State College for doing just that — the stir being because it was the first time anyone had been fired for it in the state college system.

This professor's case was a particularly aggravated one. As a department head, he was given only one class to teach. But he farmed that out to a teaching assistant while he moonlighted at University of Southern California, teaching a class there.

The faculty disciplinary committee at Los Angeles State indicated that such "moonlighting on the company's time" is quite acceptable. It opposed the firing. The rule that a department head must teach one class did not specify that it must be at the school where he drew fulltime salary, the committee claimed.

MOST SUCH MOONLIGHTING does not go that far. But it is not unusual for a public employee in the upper echelons to disappear from his office for a few days while he does a consulting job for some other employer. It is, however, very unusual for his pay to be docked.

Last summer, for instance, a couple of Marin County school administrators taught summer classes at Dominican College "during their four-week vacation." However, the summer classes were six weeks long. There appears to have been two weeks of "moonlighting on the company's time."

Sometimes what looks like such moonlighting may not be. For instance, schools Supt. John F. Plank was missing from his office in San Rafael the past two weeks as he was away on an accreditation team at another school. However, these accreditation team members get paid only expenses. The Western Association of Schools and Colleges, which does the accrediting, gets all its expert help free — at the expense of the taxpayers.

IT WOULD BE interesting to find out how many public employees in Marin County in the past year have "moonlighted on the company's time," as Mrs. Posner is accused of doing.

However many it may have been, it was too many.

Credibility Gap

Can anything be quite as lovely as this spring's surf of pinkish-white plum blossoms? Have the golden bunches of fluffy acacia balls ever lasted so long or been so beautiful before? Have the banks ever been so full of periwinkle blossoms? Have the birds sung as sweetly in the morning other springs?

Logic begs us to answer yes. But gorgeous Nature whispers never. There's a credibility gap.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Freedom For Prisoners Of War Should Rate Top Priority

(Reprinted from San Jose Mercury-News)

President Nixon is nothing if not an acutely perceptive politician, and he must therefore be aware that the prisoner of war issue is going to get hotter than ever in 1971.

As his Vietnamization program continues to work, freeing increasing numbers of American troops from frontline service in Vietnam, the war as a domestic political issue dwindles in importance. If, as is now anticipated, the South Vietnamese army continues to hold its own against the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, President Nixon can fairly claim that his "plan" for disengagement from Vietnam is a success.

However, the very success of that plan will make the POW issue all the more painful, personally and politically, at home. The American people will be thankful that the casualties are diminishing, but they will be all the more aware of the unfinished business represented by the several hundred Americans still held in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps.

THIS AWARENESS surely will be translated into pressure on the President to "do something," not that President Nixon has been reluctant to take a number of steps already. He has offered the most generous prisoner - exchange terms, aggregating 10 North Vietnamese prisoners for every American released. Hanoi said, in effect, "no thanks."

The American military has sought, unsuccessfully, to rescue prisoners from one camp near Hanoi; the President praised the action — and rightly so.

It is just possible that the North Vietnamese government was shaken up by the raid into the Hanoi suburbs; it was not long afterward that two American naval officers were paraded before the television cameras of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. in a patently propaganda pitch for unlilateral American withdrawal from Indochina. The unspoken threat underlying that Christmas day film was: If you want to see these men alive again, get out of Vietnam and get out now.

HANOI, WHICH has callously and inhumanly exploited the prisoners for years, really outdid itself this time. It may well have been an act of desperation; Hanoi, too, knows that successful Vietnamization will free American might and American attention for concentration on the repatriation of these prisoners.

The quieter the warfront becomes in South Vietnam, the more insistent the American people will become that their government take effective steps to free those Americans held prisoner in North Vietnam. This is as it should be, and President Nixon's own sentiments surely parallel those of all other Americans on this issue.

The point is, 1971 quite likely will be the year the POW issue comes to a head. The President is going to have to move and move decisively. He had best be sorting out his options and his alternatives early.

To Curb Pollution, Also Curb Growth

Air pollution will increase after 1985 in the Bay Area if all present air-quality standards are met by then, according to D. J. Callaghan, chief administrative officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The reason is growth, mainly growth in the numbers of people and automobiles. Only major breakthroughs in automobile and fuel technology would postpone the day of reckoning if growth should continue.

Those of your readers who wish to help prevent the general environmental deterioration due to unrestrained, uncoordinated development of our land and who want more effective smog control should endorse Mr. Callaghan's suggested long-range goals:

(1) Limit the number and usage of motor vehicles and aircraft;

(2) Tighten smog control regulations;

(3) Develop a non-polluting transportation system;

(4) Limit population growth by preserving open space; and

(5) Limit commercial and industrail growth.

Marin County residents should write to Mr. Wyman Hicks, board member and a member of the Sausalito City Council, urging support of a resolution containing Mr. Callaghan's proposal . . .

90-Day Wonders' Studies Of Prisons

I am overwhelmed by the logic of trying to resurrect simon pure, uncontroversial, uninformed novices, for appointments to boards examing the problems concerning penology, welfare, and morality. It reminds me of knowing a governor of an eastern state who appointed an outgoing nun to study the problem of prostitution in his state. She turned out to be quite uncontroversial as appointments go. Her ensuing report was likewise.

Outside of being rather illogical to continue the practice of staying away from anyone with the background to understand what's going on, because they might not muster up to the politically acceptable norms of mental and moral virginity, it appears to many the lack of answers to today's problems is that they are not being defined by today's people. . .

More specifically and intriguing is the current rehash of prison life by youthful semanticists whose possible zeal to become Pulitzer prize material takes them into areas in which thinking persons are quite aware a three months' stint in a "joint" doesn't start to get a man on the "inside" with even new fish and odd inmate types, let alone solid cons. . .

Some newspapers continue to send forth their youthful writers to restate their one-sided stands periodically, without the benefit of any new panacea. I presume this ritual sells papers. Those who could tell it as it is, with some suggestions of value, are not usually among those whose livelihoods are predicated upon sensationalism. Perhaps those who work in areas of reform from a solid basis of honest concern, not on ego trips or worse, may one day be heard . . .

It is a puzzlement to me that with all our so called sophistication today, these medieval study practices continue. The only factors that appear to change in this dreary approach to today's challenges are the costs which seem to escellate with the problems.

Concrete Channel Long Ruled Out

Reference is made to Mr. Robert B. Hull's letter printed in the Independent-Journal on March 18, under the heading of "Concrete Channel Should Be Fought."

It is hoped that the following will help to relieve the self-inflicted anguish suffered by Mr. Hull and other misinformed citizens . . .

A few years ago the Mill Valley City Council, Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission, and all other committees (too numerous to list here), officially went on record rejecting flatly "concrete ditch-flood control project in Mill Valley."

The above dismissal was recommended both by the city engineer and the community planner.

Since that time, no one (including the Army Corps of Engineers) thinks about a concrete ditch for Mill Valley except a few delayed action duds.

In fact, also a few years ago, the city planner and the city engineer suggested a solution which would provide flood control (no concrete ditch) and rehabilitate the existing creek which has been mutilated by men. The above suggestion was recently further developed by the city engineer and presented to the city.

The mayor appointed a town committee to study the situation and work closely with the Corps of Engineers to arrive at a Mill Valley-type solution. The Corps of Engineers offered full cooperation, and made it crystal clear that NOTHING will be done without the city's approval . . .

Egyptian Pre-Conditions Block Negotiations In Middle East

WASHINGTON — We need to clear away the false impression that Israel is blocking negotiations with Egypt for a Middle East peace settlement.

There can be honest differences over whether the Israelis are wise in turning away from the U.S. proposal for a Big Four military force as the primary guarantee of its future security.

It seems to me that Prime Minister Golda Meir is making a reasonable, realistic and persuasive case that Israel simply cannot stake its life as a nation on Soviet, American, British and French military assurances.

BASED ON PAST experience, how can Israel know how firm such outside guarantees will be under dire stress and whether they will be good 10 years or even 100 years from now? Israel plans to be a nation for quite some time.

Based on past experience, how can Israel trust Soviet "peace-keeping" forces to act against Egypt if there is a violation of Israel's rights and sovereignty? Can Israel rationally trust Russian troops on its own territory when Russian forces have already been in active combat against Israel? These are reasons enough why Israel must put the negotiation of "secure and defensible borders" ahead of outside military guarantees of its national survival.

But whatever the wisdom of Israel putting its top priority on defensible borders, it deserves to be understood that it is not the Israeli government which is blocking negotiations. Some have construed Israel's rejection of "total withdrawal" to pre-1967 borders as closing the door on negotiations. Not so.

ISRAEL STATES that it will enter negotiation with Egyptians, either directly or through U.N. Ambassador Jarring, without any preconditions.

The Egyptian government states it will not negotiate unless Israel will accept preconditions.

Egypt demands that Israel agree to total withdrawal before Egypt will negotiate.

Israel offers to negotiate every issue, including withdrawal.

Understandably, the Egyptians would like to persuade or to pressure the Israelis into total withdrawal from the territory acquired in the 1967 war. The Soviet Union unqualifiedly backs Cairo. Now the United States, anxious — perhaps overanxious — to get a quick settlement, advises Israel to accept on the grounds that outside military guarantees will be more protective than territory.

THIS PUTS ISRAEL in a momentarily isolated and awkward position. But the fact is that the UN. resolution, which both sides accepted as the basis or a negotiated settlement, did not call for total withdrawal, according to Eugene Rostow, then U.S. undersecretary of state.

"The resolution," says Rostow, "calls for the withdrawal of Israeli armed forces 'from territories occupied in the recent conflict."

Rostow points up the meaning of this: "Repeated attempts to amend this sentence by inserting the word 'the' failed in the Security Counsel. Thus the provision does not require Israeli withdrawal from all the territories now occupied under the cease-fire resolution to the armistice demarcation line."

This sounds complicated, but it is not. Israel is by its acceptance of the U.N. resolution only bound to limited withdrawal, not to total withdrawal. Certainly, Israel ought to be free to negotiate the best possible terms with Egypt without pressure from its friends.

Only when both sides voluntarily accept a settlement can outside military guarantees safely buttress it.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Eternal Vigilance Is Price Of Environment

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

MASON NECK, Va. — Spring came to the Great Marsh behind a rainstorm that drove the tide high and obscured vision out across the Potomac. Then the front blew past, and the March wind stirred a light chop across the inlet as the sun warmed the ducks and redwings, muskrat and otters into communion.

But even the change of season brought no new company to the loneliest creature surviving along our national river. It is the bald eagle, our national bird. Here, 20 miles below the capital, and across its once continental range, the bird that symbolizes America is near extinction.

The fight to keep the eagle alive on the Potomac, and specifically here at Mason Neck, within view of Washington's Mount Vernon, is a fair microcosm of the effort conscientious people are making all over the country to retain some balance in the world we live in.

THE ESSENTIAL LESSON here, as in Alaska, the Everglades or in midtown, is that that effort can never let up. Those who care whether eagles or virgin valleys or city parks survive can win victory after victory and celebrate hairbreadth escapes from the bulldozer, only to face tomorrow another menace, and the next day another. But the other side, symbolized by the bulldozer, need win only once for it to be final.

Those who care about Mason Neck were not alone when they fought the bulldozer. With timely help, they won. Now the menace is the hydraulic dredge, approaching from the other direction.

The neck under siege is a boot-shaped peninsula of about 14 wooded square miles, bounded mostly by tidal creeks and the Potomac. Because U.S. 1 and the railroads skirted inland behind the creek mouths, the peninsula was isolated and escaped intensive development. A decade ago it was not drastically changed from the days when Washington and his neighbor George Mason met here Sundays to ride together to Pohick Church. But through the '60s, pressure increased. A developer planned to convert the neck into a ready-made city of 20,000 persons. That alarmed residents who valued the area because there was no other like it near the capital.

A CONSERVATION committee was formed and sought help from the neighborhood to the federal level. National organizations stepped in. At the crucial moment Nature Conservancy came up with several million dollars to buy key parcels of threatened land until a series of adjoining parks, wildlife refuges and historical sites could be created to hold it largely inviolated. The battle seemed won.

But behind the defenders lies the state of Maryland, which legally begins at water's edge. The people involved in the Mason Neck struggle do not vote in Maryland. But the Potomac Sand and Gravel Co. does business there, and is willing to pay for the right to dredge gravel out of the water right up against the state line on the Virginia shore.

The company already has dredged at other points in the river. Now it wants to work across the mouth of the Great Marsh inlet, where the line cuts from Hallowing Point to Sycamore Point.

THE EAGLES that were plentiful around the inlet in Washington's time and still common through World War II have diminished as development has closed in and pesticides absorbed in the fish they eat slashed their reproduction rate. By last year a naturalist's survey of the entire Chesapeake Bay region, 200 miles long and the greatest cache of seafood in America, found only 60 nesting pairs. Only one of them was at Mason Neck.

Now this refuge is threatened anew. Residents say dredging will silt up the marsh, stir poison and other settled pollution off the bottom, and cause cave-ins and shore erosion. Not only the eagle, but all the other wildlife for which the neck was once saved, is threatened again.

Maryland authorities granted permission for the dredging last year. But a new law requires that the company go through the application procedure again. A public hearing will precede Maryland's final decision. And a federal environmental impact study will follow that. The defense cannot rest.

Eternal vigilance, the saying goes, is the price of liberty. So is it the price of eagles and intact mountains and decent rivers, all of them disappearing symbols of what we inherited with our liberty.

Gotta Maximize The Involvement For Collegial Communication

The propaganda war now being waged over the proposed reorganization plan for the Tamalpais High School District is almost classic in that as the terms become more sophisticated their meaning becomes more obscure.

Education must be "more responsive to the real needs of students."

And his reorganization would "maximize the potential for education change."

EXPECTING THE FIERY salvo, the Tamalpais District Teachers' Association (reinforced by the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers and the Tamalpais Administrators' Association) sallied back that the superintendent had disregarded the negotiated "Educational Democracy Document."

That document maintains, it said, "district management must be reoriented to encourage effective and meaningful involvement of all organizational components. . ."

Further, "decision making should ensue from collegial, not hierarchal, relationships in the process of management and as close to the operational level of those involved as possible."

And, "those who participate in management assume a commitant responsibility of accountability for their participation and evaluation of their decisions measured against mutually established goals."

WHILE ALL THAT is great for keeping the taxpayers wondering what's going on, is it any way to run a school district?

Superintendent Hawkins and Philip Peace, head of the teachers' association, must "communicate on a more meaningful level."

However far-out their public exchange may sound, perhaps when they get on the phone to each other they sound a little more like us ordinary folk. Thus:

Phil: "Hello, Will. This is Phil."

Will: "Hi, Phil. I meant to call you earlier but I've been kind of busy what with 'phone-ins' and all."

Phil: "Yes, I read where you received 30 calls, but actually it was only 27 because I called three times, remember?"

Will: "Now that you mention it, yes.

"I see by the newspaper you've been pretty busy yourself, lately. That full page ad last week was a masterpiece (chuckle, chuckle). Should keep people wondering, right? Keep up the good work. . ."

Phil: "Yes, I was proud of it myself. It's tough writing something that even you yourself don't understand."

WILL: "YES, I KNOW what you mean, Phil. There aren't many of us around and I want you to know there's always a place in my organization for someone with a way with words, if you know what I mean."

Phil: "I know what you mean about words but I'm not sure I know what you mean by 'my organization.' "

Will: "You know what I mean. . .and I need good men."

Phil: "I appreciate your confidence but I'm satisfied with my position in the association and I'd hate to see what little power the association has slip away. I'm just trying to spread it around a little."

Phil: "We're pretty satisfied with the way things are, Will. Don't try spreading too much because some teachers don't trust 'behavioral objectivists.'

Will: "You're looking at it all wrong, Phil. I'm not proposing to take any of the association's power."

Will: "There you go using vulgarities. I have to go now. I've got some people here from 'the community' who want to know where the three-R's fit into my plan."

Phil: "The what?"

Will: "Yea, that's what I said. What do you suppose they're talking about?"

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Administrator Finally Succeeds In Acutely Embarrassing Board

It was inevitable that ultimately Administrator Alan Bruce would embarrass the board of supervisors no end. In a three-page letter to them he lectured them on their duties respecting security and they took it sitting down. Now the latest is his insulting action in releasing a demand that the health officer be dismissed to the press for a Saturday issue, three days before the regular meeting of the board, instead of reporting to them first at that meeting.

This power hungry fellow not only will "run this county and don't you ever forget it" but in the attempt he will ruin it and any board that will continue to let him reign.

I HOPE YOU ALL read the editorial in the I-J Tuesday issue. It would be mighty hard to beat it for accuracy, reasoning and all-out clarity. Just in case some of you missed it here are some of the things that Bruce himself had attempted to put over:

He tried to have Dr. Clyde Miller paid full salary as county mental health director while he was suspended a month from his duties, and not only that but he also wanted to pay Miller for eight days he had overstayed his vacation.

The editorial called attention to the fact that Bruce's wife worked under Dr. Miller for five months as a psychiatric social worker and collected $3,415 also that his son worked as a county fireman during the summers of 1965 and 1966 for $14.48 per day.

NOW LISTEN to this and see if it doesn't wonder you just a bit more than a little. Bruce and his family took a 10-week vacation in Europe along about then. One day before leaving they appeared at the health department to get their immunization shots for free. This by the guy who is the highest paid man in county government except some judges. In addition to this he had fattened up the family echequer by the nepotism he complains about in the case of Mrs. Posner's family.

The best is yet to come. They had to wait some 45 minutes because there were others before them, and did they make the dust fly! Then because of some medical reason, the department, following an established rule, advised them to consult a private physician. More dust flew. Later his nibs wrote a letter to the health officer, who replied in a ladylike manner. How do I know this? Well, a member of the staff whom I had known for years, but who is no longer there, told me about it, in disgust, and sent me copies of the correspondence. The health officer was not aware of my knowledge. Gives room for some thought when one considers the present situation, doesn't it?

The interesting thing about Dr. Patricia Hallinan's statements as reported in Wednesday's I-J is that no place does the doctor say she has ever reported the things and the reason she resigned from the department to the health officer.

If she had knowledge of improper and illegal practices, why as a professional and a taxpayer didn't she? It seems like a long lingering grudge all around just surfacing. I doubt that the figure of $259,000 being requested for the venereal disease program is correct. That sounds more like a request for one of Bruce's department's requirements.

This just came to mind. Some time after Bruce was given the $5,000 raise he ordered a Porsche. One day the agency got word to him that his car had arrived. So what did he do? This is what. It seems he had been bringing several of his pals to work in his VW station wagon, so upon receiving the news that his new car was here, he dropped whatever county work he was doing and took his man John Barrows to Barrows' home to pick up Barrows VW to bring back to the Civic Center while Bruce took his car downtown to leave and pick up his Porsche — high priced men on company time. What do you think he would do to anyone else he might have caught doing such a trick, eh?

Birch Film Set At High School

"No Substitute for Victory," a color film of Americans resisting communists, with John Wayne as narrator, will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m., April 3, at San Rafael High School auditorium.

The color film feature is sponsored by Marin County Train Committee, a committee of the John Birch Society.

The film shows scenes from "no-win" wars. It has commentaries by Gen. Mark Clark, Adm. Grant Sharp, Gen. Paul Harkins and Gen. Albert Wedemeyer favoring a win policy.

It also has special appearances by Lowell Thomas, Martha Raye and Ezra Taft Benson, plus reports by combat veterans.

As centuries have passed the appreciation and value of oriental rugs have continued to rise as it would for any field of art. The Persian Carpet has commonly been referred to as the stocks and bonds of Iran (Persia) and since time began they have proven to be blue chip stocks for those who possess them. The future seems prosperous for those who now own oriental rugs as an investment, since the supply is rapidly decreasing, thereby resulting in increased value created by short supply and high demand.

In 5 minutes it had better turn into a station wagon.

The tent folds up in 4 minutes, the roof clamps shut in 10 seconds. Which leaves you 50 seconds to tidy up inside. Before the tide comes in outside.

Time enough to open all the curtains. Put the milk in the icebox. Rinse your coffee cup in the sink. Make the dining room table disappear. Turn the full-length double bed into a seat.

And that's it. You're ready to head for higher ground in a VW-type station wagon with all the VW-type virtues:

An air-cooled engine that presses down on the rear wheels, giving you extra traction in snow. And sand. (We got you into this mess. And we'll get you out of it.)

Gas economy. Up to 23 miles on a gallon of regular.

So if you wind up going home empty-handed in a Campmobile, you're really empty.

Pay Pupils To Behave, Says Doctor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A psychologist has advocated that schools pay misbehaving pupils to get them in line.

When everything else has failed Dr. William H. Farling said Wednesday, a problem youngster can be told : "You do something and you'll get paid for it."

Although some call it a bribe, Farling said, "we've changed more behaviors with this approach than with any other we've worked with."

Farling, of Akron, Ohio, is executive director of the National Association of School Psychologists, which is meeting here.

He said that "what we've got to do with some kids is to prime the pump." After they have been persuaded by a promise of money to behave they will gradually see the other advantages of good conduct and studies, according to the theory.

Farling said some large city schools already budget money for payoffs to problem youngsters. "This is a learning material, a learning cost," he said.

Edinburgh Goal: $200 Needed

The College of Marin Drama Department is only about $200 away from reaching its goal of $14,000 to send 35 students and faculty members to Scotland's Edinburgh Arts Festival in August.

The department said yesterday between $300 and $400 was raised from the College's opening night performance of "Cabaret," which was staged as a benefit.

Other donations include $5,000 from the Okes Foundation in San Francisco, $3,000 from the student-sponsored art auction, $3,000 from the college's student government and the remainder from individual donations.

The department was asked to the Edinburgh festival to perform its production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," staged in an Old West setting.

Public Reaps Cash In Harvest Of Cans

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Hermosa Beach man woke early recently in a pursuit of aluminum cans. Later he found himself the prime suspect in a neighborhood robbery as a swarm of police pondered his alibi.

He and his 60-pound bag of cans were allowed to leave.

Another aluminum collector who dropped in each week to his favorite tavern in downtown Los Angeles bagged enough cans to make a down payment on a new station wagon.

Teenagers at a Catholic high school in the San Joaquin Valley trucked in 1,500 pounds of cans from parks and sporting events and plan to buy a $16,000 school bus next year.

And in San Diego, the Alcoa Aluminum Co., which six months ago began offering a half-cent bounty on each can, also has begun rewarding its weekend conservationists with free basketball game and amusement park tickets, hot fudge sundaes and seedling trees.

Profit from paper drives and saving stamps pale before money from cans and the idea of combining cash with conservation now has a nationwide following of families, scouts, city councils, and an army of overnight conservationists.

The notion of "old aluminum" is absurd, since it doesn't have time to age. Scrap dealers with a canny eye for profits have, since World War II, hauled in used engine blocks or airplane wings for $200 a ton and the metal is remelted into storm drains, t.v. dinner trays or windshield wipers.

But the country's newest cash crop is the harvesting of soft drink and beer cans from the nation's parks and highways, with the annual profit to the public amounting to the millions of dollars.

The great aluminum can hunt began in California in 1968 when the Reynolds Co. inaugurated a pilot program in Los Angeles. Sometime after their splash of advertisements in magazines and local papers, the center settled down to permanency.

In one year the public responded by lugging in 1.6 million pounds of aluminum cans. In cold cash it meant $160,000. And on any given Saturday in Los Angeles some 200 cars, trucks and motorcycles are liable to unload bagfuls of cans.

Three of the country's giants in the aluminum industry — Reynolds, Kaiser and Alcoa — have in recent years divied up the state for their various reclamation centers and each operation is reported to be "breaking even."

In Northern California, Kaiser's "Can Do" project has up to 50 reclamation sites reaching to the Oregon border and centered on San Francisco. They anticipate reclaiming 50 million cans this year. Last year they disbursed $80,000.

"For years the aluminum industry has emphasized recycling," said Kaiser spokesman John Cashel. "And, realistically, each can means a conservation of resources . . . that much less Bauxite ore to dig from the earth."

"True, these recycling projects are an extremely small step in the fight against litter, but they're a step indeed," said Cashl.

Dimpfl-Kimbrell Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Bill L. Kimbrell of Denver, Colo., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Ann Kimbrell, to William Lawrence Dimpfl of Berkeley.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Dimpfl of Kentfield.

Deborah is a junior at Mills College in Oakland. She attended high school in New Jersey and is a graduate of Iver C. Ranum High School in Denver. Her brother, Steven, and sister, Marcia Lee, live in Denver.

William is the brother of Mrs. Donald Cobb of San Leandro, Mrs. Tighe O'Hanrahan of San Francisco and Joan Dimpfl, who attends Stanford University.

He is a graduate of Redwood High School and attended American Community School in Beirut, Lebanon. He was graduated from the University of California at Irvine and is in his third year of graduate studies toward a doctorate in physical chemistry at the University of California at Berkeley and is associated with Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

DEBORAH KIMBRELL

The couple plan to be married in early summer in Sausalito.

Invited Up On The High Wire

By PAT BALMES

"It was like being invited up on the high wire at the circus. Aunt Kay's encouragement was almost too strong," says Peggy Bridgman, niece of world-famous author Kathleen Norris. She refers to her late aunt's poem handwritten above the printed dedication in "Shining Windows:"

"Peg of my heart, be somewhere near —
(Yes, you of all the younger folk)
So when I have to drop it, dear —
You catch my cloak!
Aunt Kay"

Kathleen Norris, who wrote 80 novels, was an inspiration to the second generation of her family as writers and as people, accoring to her niece.

"Aunt Kay was in love with life."

And so is vivacious Mrs. John Bridgman of Belvedere, actress, writer and mother of three grown children.

Currently Peggy is in rehearsal with a newly-formed acting group, Actors Incorporated, for a fall production of a psychological drama about Henry VIII and his six wives, tenatively scheduled at the Kaiser Theater in Oakland. She plays Katharine Parr in "Royal Gambit" directed by A. J. Esta and written by Hermann Gressieker.

"ACTING IS like tennis," says the actress, "in that playing with more experienced players improves you."

Peggy started acting 30 years ago, when she joined the children's theater group of the Junior League in San Francisco as the young mother of Anita, new Mrs. Haley Fromhelz of Piedmont, and Julie, now Mrs. Lorcan Bowden of Mill Valley.

Then she was stricken with polio. During her convalescence she learned to type on a hospital table pulled across her bed, resorting to writing on a clipboard "in the sticky parts."

In 1953 Peggy gave birth to her son, Joseph, and published her novel, "Love is a Place." Today she thinks of it as having been written by "a youthful-somebody-else."

Next Peggy joined the Masque Unit of Marin's Junior Theater, now 10 years old, and began acting for children again. The 35 adult players perform an original play annually at no cost to Marin Junior Theater, which uses the proceeds to finance performances by troupes from outside Marin County.

"I never would have gone into playwriting except that most of the available material was so appalling," Peggy explains.

For four years Peggy wrote the Masque Unit's plays.

"I acted in every one. They couldn't keep me away! There's a magic in the group. The support we give each other is unbelievable. But we need younger members," says Peggy.

THE PLAYWRIGHT-actress tried directing, too.

"I was no good. I'm glad I learned that I had no talent as a director. But I rewrote the whole play that I directed," says Peggy.

Seeing the production is essential to her as a playwright. Peggy says.

"You finish writing the play and then it comes to life on the stage. You can see what is right and wrong."

Her plays for children are written in rhyme which disciplines the author to "stick to the plot" and add nothing extra. And it's good for the actors, too.

Writing a play occupies Peggy's mind constantly, as she tries to resolve the actors' problems.

"I was going to visit my daughter Julie in Mill Valley one day when I found myself on Waldo Grade. My mind had been busy trying to untie the knot I had written my characters into," she relates.

THE PLAYWRIGHT "went adult" the past three summers to write one-act plays for the "Sons of Art" summer series of artistic and cultural events presented before a small, invited audience on the grounds of the Joseph Henderson home in Ross. Again this year, Peggy has been invited to write a play for this series. She plans "a comedy with a twist at the end." Peggy is excited, but apprehensive about starting it.

"If you mention my play, I'll be sick right here in the kitchen sink!" she says, laughing.

When she asked A. J. Esta, for many years director of Interplayers Theater in San Francisco, to direct her plays, she inquired,

"Can you direct a play one of the actors has written?"

Esta replied,

"Once I did and it was a disaster." But the director has coped with the authoress-actress by splitting Peggy's personality. When he is consulting her as author, Esta decorously addresses her as Margaret. But when he is bossing her as acrtress, he may say,

"Peggy, shut up!"

Peggy and her family have lived on Corinthian Island for 28 years, the past 12 in a cozy home enjoyed for its view of San Francisco and its efficient size.

Peggy Thompson married Jack Bridgman when she was 18. He had just arrived from the East to work for McCann Erickson Advertising Agency. She was reared in Mill Valley and attended Tamalpais High School.

THE "OTHER love" of her husband's life is a ranch in Mendocino which the Bridgmans have owned for 33 years. There he works on weekends, planting trees, building things and cultivating a vegetable garden.

"Homegrown vegetables help when you only shop once a week during the summer because the nearest store is 25 miles away," says Peggy. None of the ranches in the area have electricity. Peggy speaks of the difficulty she had, as a young wife, adjusting to the loneliness of the ranch.

"But the best thing you cando with the 'other woman' (the ranch) is to make a friend of her," advises Peggy, who has come to love the mountans, the silence and the opportunity to enjoy her family without distractions. She has made pets of mice, tamed a wild bird and killed a few rattlesnakes.

Speaking of their own rustic ranch brought back memories to Peggy of many long, happy summers she spent as a child at her aunt Kathleen Norris's lavish ranch in Saratoga, "La Estancia" — the place in the sun. Her recollections unfold her aunt's spectacular rags-to-riches success story.

At 19 Kathleen Thompson found herself orphaned, impoverished and responsible with her brother Joseph, for four younger brothers and sisters in the "pretty little town of Mill Valley." The big, awkward redhead was brilliant. She had been told by her father,

"The prettiest girl in the room has only a 10 minute start on you, Kathleen." She was a witty and attractive non-stop conversationalist, according to another niece, Mrs. Benjamin Dreyfus of Mill Valley.

After struggling to rear the younger children, Kathleen married writer Charles Norris in New York City, but hated being separated from her family. Her new husband, "Cigi," was afraid he was "stuck with

Consumers Are Own Victims

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Consumers themselves are the trappers as well as the trapped when it comes to supermarket shopping according to Jennifer Cross, author of "The Supermarket Trap."

Affiliated with the Association of California Consumers and "an average housewife," Mrs. Cross was the guest speaker at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club's guest day tea, yesterday.

She shocked, enlightened and entertained the audience with her descriptions of conditions in the food industry.

Consumers are their own victims, she suggested, through their dishonesty, ignorance and carelessness and are also the victims of deceptive practices by stores, manufacturers and advertising.

"We, the public, pay the bill for all of it," she declared.

She said that stores suffer from losses caused not only by professional shop lifters but the stealing by amateurs like children — especially boys from 12 to 17 years of age — hippies, drug addicts and housewives.

"These are the very nice ladies — your next door neighbors," Mrs. Cross emphasized. They steal and cause loss through carelessness. There are the pokers who bruise fruit, the slobs who leave the ice cream in the vegetable department, their children who drop and break bottles and cartons, the grazers who feed themselves and their youngsters snacks as they shop, and the customers whose checks bounce.

"Store inventory shrinkage runs between $800 million and $850 million a year — most of it not covered by insurance," she stated.

Stressing that the consumer is the one who pays, she declared "theft actually costs every family in the country $38 a year.

"Why do so many people steal?" she asked. Perhaps because of boredom or to save some money, but poverty is not the reason, she believes. One man caught had $1,100 in his pocket.

Other sources of loss to stores, she said, are the "Sweetheart Checkers," who ring up sales for friends at lower prices, bag boys, clerks, night crews, delivery men and even the store manager, each using his own special tricks.

"The average store loses $28,000 a year in inventory shrinkage," she said.

Mrs. Cross then explained how the stores steal from the people.

She said a common method is short weight through such devices as tilted scales, weighing on the swing of the needle, not when it at zero, soaking chickens and ham in water overnight and even hanging a weight underneath the scale.

Confessing that accidental cheating is possible, she caused laughter with the story of a big-bosomed clerk who affected the weight of a purchase unconsciously by leaning over the scales. She also noted that some errors made by checkers in ringing up sales are really accidental.

Mrs. Cross said another easy way to cheat is misrepresentation of quality, such as selling chuck as round steak, since deception with meat is hard to detect. A special technique she warned against she called "bait and switch," in which the advertised bargain is always out of stock and another product substituted. "You should get a rain check for when they do have it in stock," she advised.

Guilty of deceptive practices,

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Make Arrangements In Advance If You Want To Pick Up Check

DEAR HELEN:
I frequently take my sister and her husband out for dinner, as they have been very kind to me since I became a widow.

But often it ends up the other way around, with the man paying for all of us. This is because the waitress brings him the bill, and if I ask for it, he is embarrassed, and I feel like a fool.

I've tried giving him the money before we enter the restaurant, but he refuses. What can I do? — SINGLE BUT SELF-SUPPORTING

DEAR SINGLE:
Make the reservations in your name, and arrange with the manager to pay at the desk, or by credit card. You can also tell the waitress beforehand that you want to sign for the dinners.

A man shouldn't feel embarrassed when a woman offers to pay — but he does, and so she must go to a little extra work, smoothing the way. — H.

DEAR HELEN:
Our daughter will be married soon. We have planned a nice wedding, but now she springs this on us: After she and the bridegroom leave, she wants her friends to stay on at the reception hall for a dance and beer bust. That means keeping the band for four more hours, providing drinks for a thirsty crowd, not to speak of the cleanup and possible breakage.

We aren't wealthy. Is this fair? — TOO MUCH

DEAR T.M.:
No. When a bride and bridegroom make a dash through the rice, the reception should end. — H.

DEAR HELEN:
My daughter works full time with a take-home pay check of $120 a week. She read in a 10-year-old magazine (where it came from I don't know) that $40 a month was right for at-home room and board. She considers this "high."

Ten dollars a week wouldn't even pay for her food these days. She also expects all her laundry done, comes and goes as she pleases, does no work in the house, and uses the telephone constantly. She is 22, and very picky, causing fights with the younger children.

What would you suggest that wouldn't be "holding her up?" — MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:
I'd suggest $20 a week minimum, and if she balks, I'd ask "What' s holding you up? Find an apartment." — H.

DEAR HELEN:
Referring to your piece on overkill in burglar alarms, we agree with the lady who said you can overdo protection of a private residence. There are certainly companies who take advantage of fear to make a fast buck.

However, most reputable organizations will give you no more protection than you need. For example, a good security system with a hot line to the police and fire department is available for as little as $300.

Installation of an alarm system is no job for an amateur. There is no need to spend thousands of dollars, but most people will sleep better if they have wise protection from intruders. — H. H.

ON BEING BLACK

The Differences In Bars

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"All right lady, what's your statement?" the police officer asked, unnervingly nonchalant. (I only hoped my husband would react in the same way.)

"Well, officer . . . (I was still in a state of shock) . . . "I honestly didn't even notice this, um, gentleman (who was now handcuffed). I was seated at the far end of the bar looking at the television anchored on the wall. There was this guy — on television attempting to milk a cow and he was failing miserably. It was so funny I started laughing and . . . Well, the next thing I knew, this man seated at the bar beneath the television set jumped up and shouted, 'Why are you laughing at me?' "

I CASUALLY pointed to the television set and indicated that the reason for my amusement was the man and the cow. But the, um, gentleman was not to be placated.

' 'So you think I'm funny, do you?" he roared toward my end of the bar.

In a flash the bartender, other male patrons and the paranoia-sufferer were engaged in a knockdown, drag-out free-for-all. The police (to my relief) had arrived in record time.

As I sat in the patrol car, I was both amazed and frightened at how a tiny misunderstanding could have ballooned into a major fracas so quickly. And, of course, I couldn't help but anticipate my husband's first question: What in the name of saints were you doing there in the first place?

THE TRUTH of the matter is, I was there in the name of research — social research. After talking to several GIs recently returned from Vietnam and hearing about the obvious differences in the black bars and the white bars in Vietnam, I decided to take a little observation tour of the local bars.

I conned another mother (for peaceful social research) into accompanying me. The idea seemed harmless enough — after all, it was midday in the middle of the week. Just an innocent research trip.

Before I was frightened silly and almost arrested, I did, however, make a few nonshattering observations:

In all the bars visited, the majority of the patrons was male. Those females sighted were primarily in the white bars.

THE MEN in the black bars were dressed casually and in work clothes, whereas the men in the white bars were well dressed — in suits and ties.

The white bars were more fancy and plush than the black bars, offering more extras — like toothpicks, corn chips and free matches.

The patrons in the black bars seemed to "nurse" drinks longer than those in the white bars, who reordered more often.

There was a difference in the music coming from the juke boxes. Mostly Western music was played in the white bars and jazz in the black bars.

The black bars were generally more noisy — voices louder — than the white bars.

The one sameness the bars shared was that the majority of the patrons seemed burdened and alone.

AS WITH all research, variables make a difference, and further observations should be made at different hours of the day and night. I know unescorted women in bars are commonplace today, but even in the name of research I, for one, won't be bar-researching without benefit of a male companion any time soon.

Mrs. J. W. Foster Is New Chairman

Mrs. J. Wentworth Foster of Mill Valley, vice chairman this year of Mill Valley's Tamalpais Nursery School Board of trustees, will be the chairman for the coming year.

A member two years, she was elected by other board of trustee members to succeed Mrs. Melvyn Mark at the annual meeting of the non-profit coporation Tuesday at the school, which is located on the grounds of the Mill Valley Methodist Church.

The school, whose executive director is Mrs. Robert Bastian of Belvedere, offers a three-day and a two-day a week program for three to five year-olds and a two-day a week special program for pre-kindergarten children who just miss the age requirement for kindergarten.

A native of Denver, Colo., Penny Holland Foster was graduated from the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. and from Smith College, where she majored in government.

Before her marriage she worked as a secretary in San Francisco and now works occasionally at the Spectrum Book Store in San Francisco that she and her husband own. He is assistant manager of the United California Bank in Sa Rafael.

They moved to Marin five years ago. Their three daughters are Diana, 6; Katharine, 4; and Abigail, 20 months.

The new president belongs to no other organizations but enjoys all sports, especially tennis, hiking, swimming and skiing.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Foster are Robert Wright, vice chairman; and Mrs. Douglas Ferguson, secretary-treasurer. New trustees elected for three-year terms are George Cagwin and Mmes. Horace Gilford and C. C. Collins.

'Aunt Kay' Inspires Creativity In Belvedere's Peggy Bridgman

her whole damn family," but grew to be very loving and family oriented. The Norrises were able to build their spacious ranch in Saratoga to enjoy their large family because of Kathleen's success "with her love stories of happy families with happy endings," and also due to Cigi's financial genius in managing her affairs.

THIRTEEN COUSINS, children of Kathleen Norris's brothers and sisters, (including her own son, Frank and adopted son, Bill) spent long summers with their mothers in cottages tucked under madrone and oak trees at "La Estancia."

"We all look back on it as though on heaven," says Mrs. Dreyfus then quoting Tennyson, "The land in which it seemed always afternoon."

Frequently there would be 28 weekend guests for big informal breakfasts and lunches in the redwood grove where Kathleen Norris would cook at the huge barbecue. Afternoons were spent at the swimming pool, tennis court and playing croquet. Among the many celebrities who came for weekends were Harpo Marx, Charles Lindberg and Francis Parkinson Keyes.

Ladies were long dresses and flowers in their hair for cocktails on the porch and the formal dinners at the main house.

"We'd stay up half the night playing games in the round," remembers Mrs. Bridgman.

AT HER RANCH Kathleen Norris wrote every morning, not in ivory tower seclusion, but with children playing in her room and all the interruptions due a hostess and matriach of a large family. Her writing seemed effortless because of her marvelous powers of concentration,

"Aunt Kay was never without something in her hands; a snarled fishline, a crossword puzzle or a clipboard with a list on it," recalls Mrs. Dreyfus. "They wouldn't let her answer the phone. She was hopeless! She would agree to anything or else forget what she was told."

Another of Mrs. Dreyfus's recollections was a day when all the little children summering at the ranch were pesky and underfoot.

"Aunt Kay cleared the room by saying, 'Any child that I can see by the time I count 10 will get a nice, hot, sudsy bath!"

Kathleen Norris was a suffragette and a prohibitionist. During the hottest summer days at La Estancia the young folks would slip down to the cool, dark laundry room beneath the house and drink beer. Accidentally discovering them one morning, Kathleen is remembered to have said,

"Oh dear, I wish we could find some nice place in the country where you kids could get out in the sun."

The author wore plain, blue cotton Chinese pajamas in her private life at the ranch. Cigi, despairing of interesting her in beautiful clothes, finally had some pajamas made in gorgeous material for their formal dinners. He gave her a full length mink coat one Christmas and Kathleen had to turn to her sister to ask what kind of fur it was, Mrs. Dreyfus remembers.

Another episode was a shipboard cruise when Kathleen took along her young son Frank, now a San Francisco gynecologist, and his cousin Joe.

"THAT'S THE rail," Kathleen pointed out. "If you fall over it I doubt that the ship would be able to come back and find you. If you do that, you were too dumb to rear anyway!"

As her beloved family multiplied, Kathleen Norris would stop in a San Francisco store to send her usual silver bowl to the newest baby. Standing there at the counter, she would compose a little poem to be engraved on it. On Peggy Bridgman's bowl is the legend:

"Here shall she find her
bread and cream
Her ease, when great adventures flout her
And o'er this brim shall Margaret dream
Of the mysterious world about her."

Kathleen Colla Is Bride Of Robert Howard Ridge

She is the daughter of Mrs. Jeanne A. Colla of San Rafael and Sylvester J. Colla of San Rafael.

Mrs. Karen Becker of Rohnert Park was her sister's matron of honor.

Burgess Ridge of Rockford, Ill., the bridgroom's brother, was the best man. Ushers were the bride's brothers Wayne S. Colla of Monterey and Craig P. Colla of San Rafael.

After a reception at the Marin's Memorial Club in San Francisco the couple left for a trip to Green Bay, Wis.

The bride is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, and she attended the College of Marin. Kim S. Colla is also her sister.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Budgess Ridge of Hammond, Ind. He is a graduate of Oliver P. Morton High School in Indiana. He is the brother of Richard Ridge, John Ridge and Mrs. Steven Peck.

Pamela Swanson Engaged To Wed

The engagement of Pamela Swanson to Dave Watson has been announced by her parents Eldon Swanson of San Rafael and Mrs. Jack Zeller of Sacramento.

She is the sister of Scott, Jim and Lisa Swanson of San Rafael, and she attended San Rafael High School.

Dave, son of Mrs. John Hegarty of San Rafael and Walter Watson of Oroville, is employed by San Dominico School for Girls.

He is the brother of Mrs. Gene Pennington of Novato, Mrs. Peter Escallier of San Rafael, Barbara Watson of San Rafael and Johnny, Michael and Steven Hagarty of San Rafael. His local grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce of Novato.

The couple plan to be married April 24.

Hill Junior High P-TA Sets Program On V.D. Education

"V.D. — a Threat to Novato Teen-agers" will be the topic of Dr. Ellis Mitchell, a member of Bay Area Venereal Disease Association at the Hill Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting in Novato at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Carol Cereghino, public health nurse assigned to Hill School, will also participate in the program. Dr. Mitchell will show a new film entitled, "Half A Million Teen-agers," preceding his talk.

A resident of Novato, Dr. Mitchell has offices in Novato and Greenbrae. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Medical School and served residencies at the University of California Medical Center and the San Francisco Veterans' Administration Hospital. He is an officer of the San Francisco Dermatological Society and has lectured on V.D. extensively in Marin County.

Teen-agers must be accompanied to the public meeting by their parent, the P-TA announced. Venereal disease education is a program of the national P-TA.

NOVATO FEDERATED Women's Club will hold its meeting on Thursday, at the Moose Lodge in Novato. Coffee will be served at 10 a.m., election of officers will be Held at 10:30 and games will be played following the meeting.

Mrs. Frank Traub and Mrs. Claude Lewin will be hostesses for the salad bar luncheon.

"DRUGS AND Their Usage," is the topic to be discussed by two speakers from Center Point at the Thursday meeting of the White Hill Parent-Teacher Association at 8 p.m., at the school in Fairfax. Center Point is a self-run half-way house in San Rafael.

THE SAN Geronimo Valley Nursery School will hold spring parents night Monday at 8 p.m. at the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church.

Miss Elizabeth Souza, a child and family counselor in Marin and San Mateo Counties, will speak.

THE WOMEN'S Club of Marin Catholic High School will have a luncheon and fashion show tomorrow at St. Sebastian's hall at noon.

Clothes will be modeled by members of the club, high school students and younger students. Luncheon and show chairmen are Mmes. Peter Molinari and Marvin Cerruti. Mrs. Kenneth Fuller is coordinator and models from the club will be Mmes. Cerruti, John Boito, George Monardo, Bruce Koppe, Joseph Maniscalco, Howard Richcreek, Paul Vogelheim and Keith Yetter.

THE WOMEN OF Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur will meet for luncheon and a program of television news at the 11:45 a.m. meeting in the fellowship hall Thursday. Allan Jones, producer of the 7 p.m. news broadcast, KPIX, will speak on "Preparation of News and the Decisions Behind It."

Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mmes. Alex Kazakoff, chairman, Harold Myers and David Zita. Child care will be provided.

MRS. SHIRLEY Walker of Corte Madera was honored at a Founders Day Dinner held by the Larkspur Corte Madera School and was awarded the Parent-Teacher Association's honorary service award for outstanding community service and direct service to the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District.

Mrs. Jackie Palmer, kindergarten teacher at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School, was awarded the honorary service pin for her services from the teaching profession.

THE CAROUSEL Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers raised a total of $2,100 last weekend in its auction of a 1929 Ford pickup truck and other vintage items at Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael.

Proceeds go toward the Carousel Branch's commitment to help meet the Volunteers' pledge of $23,000 toward the purchase of the linear accelerator at Marin General Hospital.

Young Girls' Fashions For Spring

As spring swings in this year, young girls will probably swing out in a grown-up pants outfit or give a happy-print prairie dress a whirl.

Fashion that's fun and fashion that's comfortable is what she wants — and what she'll find.

Of course, her new spring wardrobe is bound to include plenty of basics. Skirts, jumpers, blouses, shirts, vests and jackets provide a quick mix of classics freshened by lively prints and colors.

Right-now details such as suspenders, plenty of pockets and fringe make the spring difference for these separates.

But her newest basic fashion is pants. She can wear pantsuits, pants with coats, pants with dresses, pants with tunics and vests — and always pants.

This action-packed fashion suits a busy little miss to a T. Pants go to school, pants go to parties and, of course, pants are perfect for play.

The prairie — or country, or pioneer — dress with its swingy skirt promises to be a big winner in calico print, patchwork or madras.

Polyester and polyester knits, with their knack for taking rough-and-tumble wear and coming up fresh and pretty, are increasingly notable in all areas of fashion for her.

Shirtdresses, tailored A-lines, shifts and full-skirted styles follow the polyester route, as does sportswear.

Then there are madras and denim, still more knits, cottons and cotton blends, very much in evidence.

Capes — long or short — coordinate with dresses for some of the perkiest dress-up costume looks of the season.

CLUNKER BOOTS

One of the biggest new styles to come in are clunkers with yards of laces and soles thick enough to hike the moors and marshes of Heathcliff. The workman's boot is in, for men and women.

FOR AUTUMN IN LONDON

too, the speaker said, are manufacturers who short weight through putting air in bread, cookies and ice cream and water in poultry, soap and orange juice. They also cheat through adulterating quality — like putting too much fat in frankfurters and filler in peanut butter.

Deceptive advertising is another way of cheating the public, Mrs. Cross pointed out, through such practices as package design, taking out the best ingredients when cost goes up and making false claims of good nutrition or effectiveness for products.

What are the reason for all these deplorable conditions?

Some, she said, may be "the rottenness of human nature, pressures in the fiercely competitive food industry and failure of people to be alert."

"We are easy to cheat," she said, adding that the legal situation is very cloudy, making prosecution and establishing of standards difficult. Furthermore, agencies such as the food and drug administration, the Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission are not fully effective for various reasons. What can shoppers do to protect themselves?

Mrs. Cross concluded with these recommendations: 1. Never steal 2. Never let a check bounce 3. Report stealing you see 4. Watch the scales — one woman checks meat by weighing it on the produce scales 5. Take ads with you to check prices 6. Check the checkers — they make many mistakes 7. Watch what the legislature is doing about things affecting customers, and 8. Join or form a group to protect your rights as consumers.

She Seeks More Help For POWs

It's time that all people who care take the load off of the wives of American prisoners of war and shoulder the burder of concern themselves, believes a Corte Madera housewife, who herself spends all the time she can spare on behalf of the 1,600 American servicemen who are missing in action or prisoners of war.

She's Leslie Ann Callahan, and with her husband, Robert, has spent the past year coordinating the statewide campaign in behalf of prisoners of war and missing-in-action men for the California Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is chairman for the Jaycees efforts and she is executive secretary for the campaign.

Now Mrs. Callahan is seeking volunteer women and women's groups from Marin to form a separate incorporated organization of volunteers to extend the work she has been doing individually.

There has been a continued campaign by the Red Cross and help from several women's groups in Marin, but Mrs. Callahan hopes to coordinate efforts on the POW cause for groups of Marin citizens.

Leslie Callahan herself wrote to officials in all 125 countries which signed the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

She has also written to Secretary General U Thant at the United Nations, receiving "We have received your letter" style replies so far; to the office of the president in Hanoi, North Vietnam, and to American officials, expressing concern for American prisoners of war and missing-in-action men. The letters ask that pressure be put on North Vietnam to abide by the Geneva Convention it signed with regard to humane treatment of all prisoners of war.

"But everyone who wants to should do these things, and with a volunteer group we could be doing so much more to bring it to the attention of the public to also write letters," Mrs. Callahan explained. Volunteers may contact her at 736 Robin Drive in Corte Madera.

"It's all ready to be incorporated and we hope to get an office to use as a clearing house of activities," she said.

Special features you'll enjoy:

While nearly 750,000 visitors annually make the pilgrimmage to Muir Woods National Monument to stand in awe beneath its giant trees, it is astonishing, says Chief Ranger Marvin Hershey, how many Marinites have never seen this grand sight in their own backyard. For those who have not, Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax provides a memorable camera tour in tomorrow's Marin Magazine. After seeing it, neglectful Marinites will waste no time visiting Muir Woods in person.

For its popular profile series of prominent personalities of the area, the Marin Magazine goes outside the boundaries of Marin County tomorrow. The subject is Gene Benedetti, the personable head of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery and a recognized spokesman for the dairy industry. I-J reporter Bonnie Bard has written the story of the southern Sonoma civic leader for tomorrow's magazine, complete to his interesting views on a number of controversial topics.

OPERA REVIEW

'Don Pasquale' Is Highly Enjoyable

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Donizetti's opera "Don Pasquale" is all heart and flowers and cotton candy, too.

And what a way to escape from a stormy Bay Area night — at least that was the case last night at the Curran Theater where the San Francisco Spring Opera Theater presented a rousing production of the comic masterpiece.

The opera is like a dish of light and creamy pasta accompanied by a vintage champagne and topped by a giant cone of whipped cotton candy — which believe it or not was passed across the Curran's thrust stage during the finale.

After planting its feet firmly on the ground with an excellent reading of Verdi's "Rigoletto" last Friday night, the company really let go in last night's revival of "Don Pasquale."

Sung in English and updated to turn-of-the-century in San Francisco's North Beach, the opera's happy melodies, lovely arias and clever ensembles kept the packed house abuzz.

With only minute support Francesco Prestia's chorus — the four principals had an evening's romp in vocal agility and acting.

Richard Best, making his debut with the company, was an excellent Don Pasquale, the elderly bachelor who takes a sudden twilight fling, which he soon regrets. Besides his fine singing and acting, Best has a gift for the ad lib, cleverly demonstrated near the finale when another one of the principals had to go romping off stage, circle back and enter on the other side — and the audience loved it.

Shigemi Matsumoto, the lovely 1968 San Francisco Opera Auditions winners, is always a delight to hear for she has a voice and stage personality to match any young singer in the operatic world. Her Norina as definitely that cotton candy!

"DON PASQUALE" — An opera in two acts by Gaetano Donizetti. Test by Salvatore Cammarano. English translation by Phyllis Mead. The San Francisco Spring Opera Theater staff: Everett Lee, conductor; Richard Pearlman, production; Robert Darling, designer; Francesco Prestia, chorus director; Susan Webb, musical preparation; Goldstein & Co., costumes. The cast: Richard Best, Don Pasquale; John Walker, Ernesto; Shigemi Matsumoto, Norina; William Justus, Doctor Malatesta, and Carlo Micheletti, the notary.

Also in spring opera debuts were William Justus, a resonant baritone, as Doctor Malatesta, and tenor John Walker as Ernesto, the young "Yale" graduate nephew of Don Pasquale, whose lover is Norina.

Miss Matsumoto and Walker, who has a sparkling clear tenor voice, teamed together for a lovely duet "Only to know you are near me" in the finale scene of Act II. The orchestra under Everett Lee's direction was a perfect ensemble for the cast.

The idea of the thrust stage for a more intimate and European approach to opera was perfect for "Don Pasquale" because of the smallness of the principal cast.

In his debut as production chief Richard Pearlman waved a magic wand over the entire cast. ye would be a most welcome addition to Kurt Adler's fall production staff.

Robert Darling's garish Victorian set caught the spirit of the North Beach Italian community and was easy to manage on the small performing stage. He caught the flavor of early San Francisco with use of slides on the front skrim to introduce scenes.

The highly enjoyable opera will be repeated again Sunday night and also on April 2.

'A THURBER CARNIVAL' TO BE PERFORMED

Nanci Worner gets a lift from Philip Sheridan in a scene from "A Thurber Carnival" by James Thurber. Skip Sommer and Carol Stitt look surprised at the move. The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at San Domenico School, San Anselmo. John Brebner, managing director of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, is the director. Proceeds will benefit the school's scholarship fund.

Fulbright Hits Eban's Overture To The Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., playing the unaccustomed role of a solid Nixon administration supporter, has accused Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban of an unprecedented attempt to win a diplomatic victory in the U.S. Senate rather than at the negotiating table.

Fulbright criticized Eban's meeting last Friday with more than 40 senators at the Capitol, in which the Israeli representative explained why his country was balking at peace efforts made by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said it was "an unprecedented procedure" for a foreign minister "to come here and negotiate with the Senate" rather than sitting down with the Arabs and United Nations Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Fulbright spoke to newsmen Thursday following a 1 1-2 hour meeting between Rogers and 67 senators —the first time since World War II a Secretary of State has arranged a meeting with the full Senate.

It was felt the meeting was arranged to give Rogers an opportunity to present his side of the story

Loan Firm Accused In Quake Case

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI)—A man forced to evacuate his home because of earthquake damage has accused a savings and loan company of "breaking in" to his home and "looting" all the appliances, including the kitchen sink.

Dave Geml said Thursday that the city Department of Buildings and Safety ordered him to evacuate his home following the Feb. 9 earthquake because it was unsafe.

He told newsmen he locked all the doors and boarded up a window, which was broken in the quake, and moved out, leaving most of the family's possessions behind.

He said when he returned to the home March 12 he found a "dear borrower" letter from Fidelity Savings and Loan Association stating that the appliances had been removed as a precautionary measure. He said the firm even took the kitchen sink and door knobs, but left behind personal property that was not attached to the house.

"They later called my wife at work and told her they were foreclosing on the house," Geml said.

Leland L. Larsen, senior vice president of the association and the man whose signature was on the "dear borrower" form letter, said the appliances were removed from Geml's home and 24 other homes in the area for safekeeping because "we found the area was being systematically looted."

FAMILY

"My Fair Lady" — Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Tora, Tora, Tora" — Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese point of view. Excellent cast, amazing photography, well worth seeing.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Borsalino" — French gangster film about the 30's shows the violent exterminating practices to eliminate competition. The gory violence is almost continuous. Lavishly detailed sets produces a self conscious campy effect.

"Priest's Wife" — Satirical comedy deals with contemporary controversy about a Catholic Priest who falls in love and wants to marry. Actually it is a tale about hypocrisy.

"Raid on Rommel" — A British Army Captain disguised as a German officer, masterminds a hazardous attack on the deeply entrenched fortifications of Rommel's Afrika Korps. (Film Information)

"Sterile Cuckoo" — A kooky college freshman and her first love experience is told with insight that is a tribute to the director.

"THX 1138" — In the 25th century, in a computer controlled subterranean community, people are subjugated by drugs and watched by TV cameras continuously. Sexual union is a crime. But THX and his roommate skip their drugs and discover sexual love. Laws are enforced by mechanical men obedient tothe computer. Photographic techniques are imaginative.

"Wuthering Heights" — Adapted from Emily Bronte's mystical love story. An old fashioned brooding melodrama revolving around an unhappy family living on a farm in windswept Yorkshire. The stormy love affair which inevitably ends in tragedy is brilliantly directed.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Investigation of a Citizen Above Suspicion" — The head of intelligence in Rome commits a bloody murder leaving ample clues to his guilt to prove that police will disregard them due to his stature. A fascinating topic but overly long to maintain tension. Some sex and nudity. English subtitles.

"Little Fauss and Big Halsy" — Contemporary motorcycle drama about two men who compete both off and on the track. Fast pace covers shallow content. Lots of nude girls, a Johnny Cash sound track and a predictable ending.

"The Wedding Night" — The emotional turmoil suffered by a young bride whose mother just died in childbirth is powerfully and realistically portrayed.

ADULTS ONLY

"Arrangement" — A steamy melange of the personal and sexual hangups of an advertising executive. Adult drama, dialogue frank plus intimate sex scenes.

"Catch 22" — Satirical, unusually biting anti-war film with repetitive flashback and flashforwards sequences. Some are good, others bizarre, morbid and obscene.

"Five Easy Pieces" — Free-form portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle-class existence. Explicit sex and frank language.

"If" — Harrowing British study about students and faculty of a rigidly disciplined boys' boarding school. Sadistic methods used to maintain order lead to a violently rebellious revolt with weapons turned on the establishment by students. Much nudity.

"I Love My Wife" — Stylish comedy about an empty life. told in terms of sex.

"Loving" — Quiet desperation of suburban life is artfully explored in this story of a commercial artist living on the brink of disaster. A lewd escapade at a party brings matters to a shocking conclusion. Extremely frank language and sex scenes.

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant plus much profanity.

"Rosemary's Baby" — Suspenseful tale of modern witchcraft. A blend of horror-fantasy and everyday reality graphically portrayed about a young woman who is bearing Satan's child.

"Swappers" — A pseudo-documentary about affluent middle-class marrieds in Britain who trade mates in sexual games in hopes they will heal their own incompatibilities. (Catholic Films Newsletter).

"Women In Love" — D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

La Petite Auberge's Wisteria Is A Sure Sign Of Spring's Arrival

It definitely is spring, and if there is any doubt — all you have to do to confirm it is look at the wisteria now in bloom at La Petite Auberge in San Rafael.

This venerable old vine, which has thrived for a half-century or longer, is one of the main decor attractions in the dining room. It is highly respected and new improvements have had to conform with its seniority as part of the permanent scenery. And in recent years it has been nicely manicured from time to time to show off gracefully against the interior design of walls, ceiling and sliding Rollamatic roof. It is such an integral part of La Petite that the place would not look the same without it.

There is much more to this restaurant, of course, than its magnificent wisteria vine. Basically it is about as French as any place you can find — but it doesn't capitalize on that fact the way some restaurants do. In other words, it doesn't continually force the French theme down your throat with every bite between the hors d'oeuvres and entrements.

Therein is one reason for its popularity and success — its adaptation to American tastes and eating habits, making it a comfortable place for everyone to visit and enjoy good food and a bright, cheery atmosphere.

In a few days La Petite Auberge will celebrate its 12th anniversary. Most of those 12 years have been good years, from the time Paul Devaux started it, with his wife Renee as cashier, and then more expansively when he was joined by his present partners Pierre Grigaut and Roger Poli.

DOn't let anyone tell you it's necessary to have a large restaurant to have a successful one. La Petite started small, made the most of its space and natural assets — and look at its attendance now.

A NEW LITTLE RESTAURANT and pizzeria opening Tuesday at 633 Del Ganado Road in Terra Linda is Lococo's. This is in the Scotty's Market area.

Owners are three brothers, Giovanni, Filippo and Nicolo Lococo. Actually the place will be operated mainly by the two younger brothers — Filippo and Nicolo of San Rafael, and their Italian food should be pretty authentic, since they have been in Marin from Palermo only about 10 months. During that time they have had a restaurant in Jackson. Giovanni, who lives in Novato, works in San Francisco.

This is a table service and take-out operation, with the brothers Lococo turning out a dozen types of pizzas in several sizes. You'll also find them offering cannelloni and other oven-cooked Italian dishes — all a la carte.

Hours are from 2 p.m. to midnight. An application has been made for a wine and beer license.

DON FANDRE AND YORK FISCHER are now celebrating completion of their first year operating the Fondue Pot in the Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera.

Additional congratulations are also in order for their success with their new restaurant in El Paseo Building, Mill Valley. There has been a little delay in getting the one open on Nob Hill in San Francisco, but that should come to life very soon.

HOLIDAY INN at Terra Linda is now serving breakfast, lunch and dinner continuously on Saturdays and Sundays in the Alta Loma dining room — a cheerful spot to eat any of these meals.

And you'll also find luncheon fashion shows on Tuesdays.

A FASHION SHOW sponsored by thewomen's committee of the Redwood Coast Chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be held on Saturday, April 24, at Sonoma Joe's In Petaluma.

If you can't make that, try for their "Grand Opening Party" on Wednesday in the section of the restaurant that has been remodeled and will continue in service. Doors will be closed Monday and Tuesday to allow for completion of the work.

Sidney Koalkin of San Anselmo is general contractor, and Don credits him with doing a beautiful job on the remodeling. You'll find the place more attractive than ever, in spite of its smaller size — product of expert craftsmanship.

And if it happens that the present quarters need enlarging again, I'm told that this possibly may be arranged — not by expanding at the front or back or at the sides — but upward.

OCCASIONALLY I have had requests to express an opinion on how much to tip in restaurants.

As the matter of gratuities — not only to a waiter or waitress but in many other areas of service — is long steeped in tradition, it is the custom itself that counts, not my opinion of it. And tipping will continue to be a custom for many years to come, no matter what is said here.

The current guideline at restaurants is 15 per cent. Who determines that, I don't know. I can remember that at one time it was 10, but it went up — probably for the same reasons that everything else has gone up, including wages.

This 15 per cent is not absolute. But it's an accepted starting point. Variations — either more or less — are a matter of conscience and the type of service you receive. If the person who waits on you doesn't perform his duties the way he should, I know of no reason why he should expect to be rewarded as well as someone who does.

I have heard of one group of businessmen who cover this situation with printed cards left on the table after the meal according to the service rendered. As I understand it, if the service is satisfactory the current tipping rate is observed and no card is left. If not, there is a printed message to go with whatever money is left, explaining the reason for any reduction. And there is a special card to explain if nothing is left at all.

On the other hand, if the waiter or waitress performs some special service or does the job exceptionally well, there is no reason to say that you shouldn't leave 20 per cent.

To answer one specific inquiry received, restaurant owners generally do not determine or prescribe the size of the tip. A major exception to this is in arranging group lunches, parties and banquets, when an overall figure per person, including tax and tip, is requested.

Otherwise, if you were to ask a restaurant owner how large a tip you should leave, he might possibly say 15 per cent. But more likely he'd smile, shrug his shoulders and say it's up to you — which it is.

Tate Trial Cost Near $1 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The cost of the Tate-Labianca murder trial is approaching $1 million.

The 10-month old trial, delayed Thursday because of the illness of a defense attorney, so far has cost the county $915,172, supervisor Kenneth Hahn reported.

Guilty Plea To Pot, Drunkeness

Robert Eugene Pickens, 26, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana was smoked, as well as a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving.

He earlier had been charged with possessing and being under the influence of marijuana, in addition to the drunken driving charge.

He is to be sentenced April 30.

Pickens was arrested Dec. 15 after he was seen driving erratically on Highway 101 in Mill Valley, the California Highway Patrol said.

AFRICAS MOVING NORTH

Sausalito's Spike Is Splitting

By PAT ANGLE

Tomorrow, according to expert predictions, Sausalito real estate values will plummet to pre-1900 levels and art, humor and literature in the community will regress at least 20 years. Sausalito-based stocks will crash and half the city's female population will contemplate suicide.

All this, because on that day, Spike (Phillip) Africa, Esq., President of the Pacific Ocean, will load up his truck and roar away to the good life in the wilds of Washington State.

"I'm sure it will be a drastic change for everybody living here," Africa said modestly as he forecast the mass ruin.

On a happier note, he prophesied his leaving will eliminate Sausalito's weekend traffic jam which enrages residents and prematurely age city councilmen. "I take afternoon walks along Bridgeway on Saturdays and Sundays," he explained, "and the traffic stalls because so many people stop their cars to wave and talk to me. When I go, the problem will vanish."

To forestall mass panic, Africa quickly noted the move to his wife's family summerhouse on Lake Washington near Seattle will not affect the Pacific's tides and currents which, as president, he controls. Despite concerted efforts to oust him from his self-appointed office when he moves inland, he promised he will keep the post "because Lake Washington is hooked up to Puget Sound which is salt water."

Sausalito's favorite seaman, storyteller and bon vivant indignantly demolished rumors that he is moving to be closer to Canada to avoid the draft. Although he was a member of the Navy's elite officer corps during World War II ("the Navy made me a gentleman, but it took an act of Congress") "The chance that I would be recalled to duty ended yesterday when I turned 65," Africa said with obvious relief.

Then why leave Sausalito where for the past 12 years he has been the mainstay of the community's more eccentric elements? Africa smiled enigmatically and his eyes took on a mystical gleam. "The tides of empire, which for years have gone south and west, are now going north," he said with great dignity. His wife, Red, regarded him speculatively. "Oh Spike, you're so full of bull," she said simply.

How will a farm boy from Ohio who has worked as a seaman, rigger, crop harvester, treasury agent, oil driller, island builder, molasses runner and official host for the No Name Bar, to name just a few of his callings, spend his time in an isolated country house in the northwest? "Well, I'm not going to grow roses or play boccee ball or sit in the park," he replied.

REVENGE AT LAST — Spike Africa with characteristically fiendish glee prepares to execute a longstanding threat: To saw off the doors of Sausalito's No Name bar. The saw — with which ecology buff Africa claims to have cut down vast stands of virgin redwoods — has been in No Name proprietor Neil Davis's hands since the threat was first made. It was released Tuesday, handsomely decorated by Davis on the assumption that a departing Africa was a reformed Africa.

He mused: "Somebody might send me to the North Pole or I might cut the second timber growth at Gray's Harbor in Washington since I helped rape that area of virgin timber 45 years ago; I just can't stand to see a tree standing. "I'll have to work because my $208-a-month Social Security check will not support us in the style to which we have become accustomed."

Whenever he feels like it, he plans to return to Sausalito "for a weekend", thanks to a special fund which he said No Name owner Neil Davis has promised to establish by raising the price of steam beer from 45 to 50 cents. "Davis promised me that five cents will go to fly me down here. It's possible that when I return, there will be an uptrend in business, real estate, art and tourism." Mrs. Africa added: "And police activity."

In his spare time Africa plans to continue "My Life of Violence", do some humorous writing ("Blasting Somebody") and tow Alcatraz Island to French Polynesia in exchange for one of their islands. "I have an agreement with the French government," he confided. "Nobody know what to do with Alcatraz, but I do."

He regrets that no one in Marin is qualified to replace him as Sausalito's sartorial leader and, in a burst of enthusiasm, gave a brief lecture on how to be among the best dressed. All that is needed is a few really fine basic garments, Africa explained as he proudly displayed his entire wardrobe which lay in carefully wrinkled piles on a sofa.

"It's a matter of selection," he said. "These two Brooks Brothers' suits were given to me by a man who was getting fat and my Harris Tweed coat has lasted 21 years. This linen jacket I found in a garbage can at the Clipper Yacht Harbor, and my wife gave me the wardrobe's crowning touch, my sheepskin vest. I sew myself into the vest for months at a time to keep warm." At that point, he refused to reveal more secrets of his sartorial splendor.

When he leaves Sausalito, Africa said he will miss his clubhouse (the No Name), Neil Davis, his dear friends and the west wind. He will not miss the Sausalito police, Don Sherwood or the Golden Gate Bridge ("bridges are against nature"). So Sausalito can bear the loss of its answer to emperor Josuah Norton, Africa hopes his home at 220 West Street "will be made into a shrine."

Two of his children, Kit and Dede, will accompany the Africas north and a daughter, Dana, will remain behind in Sausalito where she makes jewelry and works in two shops. Africa is glad to have the family along. "We have successfully raised a family and if we hadn't done anything else, that would be enough."

He wants to be remembered as an ecologist and friend of nature. "I was in the ecology thing before most people ever heard of it," he said with pride. "I cut trees, hauled gasoline to Mexico and was the first to blast for oil along the coast from Mexico to Alaska, including the Santa Barbara Channel. When I read about an oil spill, I'm proud to know I started the whole thing." His wife shook her head: "He has absolutely no morals."

Tuesday night the Africas' tiny circle of friends gave them a surprise going-away memorial wake and birthday party at the No Name, an event which may be included as a footnote in future histories of the social life of our time. The excitement and noise was so great that many guests at the party thought a bomb blast which shattered two doors at the Bank of America just across the street was only a part of the celebration and paid scant attention to the explosion.

P-TAs Urged To Back Tenure Reform Proposal

I-J Special Report

SEBASTOPOL — Parent-Teacher Associations in Marin and Sonoma counties were urged yesterday to write their legislators about some Education Code bills now in the California Legislature.

Bryce W. Anderson, Independent-Journal associate editor and education columnist, suggested the P-TAs support AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, to reform the teacher tenure law, as well as AB 56 by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, an "accountability" bill. They might make themselves heard also, he suggested, in support of Assembly Concurrent Resolution 52 by Assemblyman Kenneth MacDonald, D-Ojai, which calls for a committee study of overhauling the whole Education Code to make it a permissive code rather than a mandatory one.

The speaker suggested opposition to SB 324 by state Sen. Mervyn W. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, which would negate the Winton Act by giving all employees of the state and its school districts who hold teaching certificates the right to be represented by unions in collective bargaining. This, he noted, would permit the closed shop in the schools.

Nearly 150 P-TA officers and school superintendents and principals attended the district P-TA gathering at Masonic Hall here. Anderson's speech followed a morning business session.

Stull's AB 293 would put the newly hired teacher on a purely probationary status the first year, permit a hearing by a state hearing officer on dismissal in the second and third years with decision remaining with the school board, and supplement such a hearing with review by a panel of three educators thereafter —with the board bound by a unanimous decision of panel and hearing officer but otherwise holding final authority. It would eliminate superior court reviews of teacher dismissals.

AB 56 requires simply that a pupil shall be passed, promoted or graduated "solely on the basis of his achievement in the course of study. . . and the age of the pupil shall not be taken into consideration." This, said the speaker, would do away with automatic promotions "until you graduate a kid from high school while he's still in the fourth reader."

Anderson reviewed bills in the Legislature on school finance, tenure, voucher plan, and unification.

Although not all finance plans are yet in, he said the best so far appears to be AB 65 by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, which provides for a $3 statewide property tax to equalize apportionments among school districts and guarantees 50 per cent state support for the schools based on the present cost per pupil plus an inflation factor based on the Bureau of Labor Statistics cost-of-living index. Deddeh's bill also greatly simplifies the system of state apportionments, he noted, which other bills so far introduced fail to do.

Carolyn Crabtree of Novato, who doubles as P-TA officer and Novato unified School District trustee, was program chairman.

Marin Trio Convicted In Big Coastal LSD Raid

I-J Special Report

UKIAH — Three Marin men have been convicted on three LSD counts, each by a Mendocino County Superior Court jury after a six-week trial.

Visiting Judge Kenneth M. Eyemann of Sonoma County ordered Craig B. Champie, 21, of Fairfax, and Timothy Wayne Butler, 24, of Forest Knolls, to return to court April 9 for probation reports and sentencing. Michael B. Alwyn, 23, of San Rafael, was ordered to return to court April 20 for report and sentencing.

The jury found each of the three guilty of conspiracy to make LSD, attempting to manufacture the drug and possession of it, after deliberating for six hours late Wednesday.

The three Marin men were among seven persons arrested June 16, 1970, in Fort Bragg, in what police described as a $3 million LSD ring raid.

John Rene Rodiou, 22, of San Rafael, also was arrested in the raid, earlier pleaded guilty to a plea of manufacturing LSD. He was ordered to the California Rehabilitation Center in Corona on March 16, for drug addiction treatment.

Bicycle Store Missing Cash

Approximately $1,000 in cash and checks was stolen from Mike's Bicycle Center, 1601 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The money, contained in a canvas bag, was taken from an unlocked drawer near the cash register between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, a sales clerk told police.

The clerk said she was away from the counter twice during the hour and that the drawer is accessible to persons on either side of the counter.

Construction Ban Pall Likely Til May, Pending Panel Report

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

OAKLAND — The threat of a ban on new construction will hang over much of Southern Marin at least until late May.

The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board yesterday had been scheduled to appoint a hearing panel to consider the ban, which has thrown a heavy pall on new development since it was suggested as a possibility by the board's staff on Feb. 25.

Yesterday, however, the staff said it would not have sufficient compliance data until late April on the effectiveness of emergency steps being taken to upgrade sewage treatment to avoid the ban.

The two dischargers under fire are the Richardson Bay Sanitary District and the City of Mill Valley, which also serves Tamalpais Valley.

If a hearing panel had been appointed yesterday, its recommendation could have gone to the full board on April 22, but the month's delay in its appointment postponed any chance of full board action until its May 20 meeting.

The possibility of a ban on all new construction was raised by the staff when the board gave unanimous approval last month to unprecedented new standards for sewage treatment by the two dischargers. Critical pollution problems in the shallow, constricted arms of Richardson Bay required the high degree of treatment, the regional board agreed.

The dischargers said the only alternative would be to pump out Tennessee Valley into the ocean.

The board's staff previously reported that both dischargers violated even the old standards during rainy weather. Representatives of both assured the board that they were working to control infiltration of storm water into their sewer lines.

The heavy infiltration overwhelms the treatment plants, and raw sewage bypasses treatment and is dumped untreated into the bay.

Board members praised Mill Valley for its "cooperative attitude," but were silent on Richardson Bay Sanitary District's attitude — perhaps because its officials yesterday disclosed that they had appealed to the State Water Resources Control Board to overturn the new standards.

Douglas de La Fontaine, chairman of the district board, said that the appeal was not intended "as a red flag" to the regional board, but "to protect us." The appeal had to be filed within 30 days of the Feb. 25 adoption of the new standards.

Both dischargers also repeated pleas to postpone enforcement of the new standards pending completion of plans for a joint sewerage system in Southern Marin. The plans, about to begin, were supposed to take two years to complete, but may be speeded up because of the regional board's pressure.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, which is organizing the planning, said that a definite timetable for its completion would be ready by the time the regional board's hearing panel meets in May.

Seeger, commenting on the possibility of a ban on new construction, said "the economy of Southern Marin is extremely important." he noted that the City of Mill Valley would vote in June on a $450,000 bond issue to replace defective sewer lines and upgrade sewage treatment.

Asked what the city would do if the bonds failed, he said, "I just don't know what we're going to do then. I just can't give you an answer on that."

Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the regional board, said that the bond issue would pay for improvements that "would provide an interim solution" until a subregional Southern Marin system could be built.

"It is probable that these improvements would permit the removal of a restriction on connections (construction) contained in a cease and desist order," he said, "or would preclude the inclusion of a restriction on connections if completed prior to the issuance of an order."

He made no similar comment on any plans by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, an attorney residing in the district, wrote urging a ban on new construction in the district. He said the district has "taken no steps and is taking no steps except nominal ones to cure the already dangerous situation. He said it was responsible for a shoreline "unusable because of slime, algae growth, pollution and the general unpleasantness of the odor."

Alcatraz Indians Warn Tourists To Stay Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Indians occupying Alcatraz Island Thursday claimed the San Francisco Bay waters extending 250 yards around the island as part of their domain.

Indian spokesman John Trudell told newsmen here that the Indians' claim was meant as a warning to tour boats which often carry tourists close to the old prison island which has been occupied by the Indians since November, 1969.

"We know it is good business for the tour boat companies to bring their tourists and sightseers near our island to look at the Indians," Trudell said, "but from this day forward we will not longer tolerate this type of exploitation."

Earlier this week one tour boat was fired upon by Indians on the island using slingshots and heavy steel nuts.

'Crash Course' Teaches First Aid

By JEFF GREER

Instead of going through five or six weeks of two-hour sessions once a week, a nucleus of Marin County police officers and firemen is getting the basic first aid picture in one day in the San Rafael Red Cross headquarters.

In the multimedia "crash course" the students watch and listen to a series of films, read and write their way through a set of four programmed workbooks and demonstrate on each other how to bandage wounds, splint fractures and give the "breath of life" with artificial respiration.

The eight-hour day ends with a written test and presentation of a Red Cross first aid certificate.

Seven Marin County police officers and firemen took the course Saturday and were to return to take a second course so they, in turn, can teach the multimedia course in their own departments and in their communities.

William L. Braden, Golden Gate and Marin chapter safety official, said that after completing the course — which is run on a timetable tighter than an airline's — students are "pooped" but have a sense of accomplishment to go with their certificates.

Braden said he asked 20 graduates of a crash course given earlier this month whether they felt qualified to handle emergencies and whether they liked the multimedia approach.

"Only two reactions were negative." One couldn't keep up with the fast pace of watching a four or five-minute film, leaving his desk to demonstrate such things as splinting fractures, and then hurrying back for a timed read-and-write session on the next topic. The other critical response was that the course should cover topics more deeply. The rest felt prepared to give first aid as needed, Braden reported.

"Anyone who has problems with the multimedia course should take the standard, two-hours-a-week course," Braden urged.

Police and firemen said they liked the crash course because it did not tie up a series of evenings or weekends, Braden reported.

The standard course is dependent on effectiveness of the Red Cross-trained first aid lecturer, Braden said. "He may be real strong on poisons who might not be lecturers to teach the multimedia course ; the films do the talking."

The multimedia course instructor makes certain the students demonstrate they've understood the lessons, and keeps the course on the timetable.

The crash course was the result of more than a year's experimentation in San Francisco with the cooperation of Pacific Telephone Co., television station KQED and others at a cost of nearly $300,000 in industrial grants.

The utility company is using the course for all its employees.

Other industries are following suit. Braden said he hopes Marin County service clubs, the county schools office and other agencies will obtain the $235 sets of 16 milimeter film and the sets of workbooks and test sheets, which cost $2.65 per student.

Since multimedia first aid courses came to Marin in January, Braden and others have trained 10 instructors in the Red Cross staff, fire and police departments, Synanon, and San Domenico and Katherine Branson schools.

The instructors have trained dozens of other Marin residents and students in first aid. Popular demand for the training may have been spurred by the February earthquake in Los Angeles, Red Cross workers noted.

Braden said he hopes to see the new course used in every Marin County high school. Although the films and projector are expensive, they can be shared by many classes, companies or organizations, he noted.

A major benefit of first aid training is increased safety consciousness, Braden pointed out. He said the Pacific Telephone Company trains all its employees — and has an accident rate one tenth that of similar industries.

Another obvious benefit is preparedness to cope with accidents in the home or on the highway.

"Even a little slip of a gal can tear off a car door "if she wants to give first aid to someone inside who is injured, Braden claimed.

Asked whether fear of legal problems makes citizens reluctant to give first aid, Braden stressed that the fear is groundless.

"There's never been a successful suit against a person who used 'reasonable care' in giving aid," Braden said.

"Reasonable care means that amount of care which would be exercised by the average prudent man under the same circumstances and in possession of the same information and skill" as the person who gives the first aid, he explained.

BREATH OF LIFE — Ronald Averiette demonstrates mouth to mouth resuscitation for drowning or electrical shock victims. After making sure the victim's head is tipped back to keep air passages clear, he pinches the nose of student Michael Ford and prepares to breathe into his mouth.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR STATE CERTIFICATION OF BACKHOE, CLAMSHELL OR SIMILAR DREDGING WITH CONTROLLED BLASTING WHERE NECESSARY, AND DREDGING DISPOSAL BY THE BOLINAS COMMUNITY PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Bolinas Community Public Utility District has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board, pursuant to the provisions of Section 21 (b), Federal Water Pollution Control Act, for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the dredging for construction of a sewage pump station and outfall and disposal of dredging spoils by Bolinas Community Public Utility District described below will be conducted in a manner which will not violate the California Water Quality Control Policy.

Bolinas Community Public Utility District intends to excavate 750 cubic yards of material for construction of a pumping station adjacent to the South end of Wharf Road. Earthen dikes and sheet piling may be utilized during construction but will be removed before the project is completed. The 500 cubic yards of excavated material remaining after backfilling will be hauled to a land spoil area approved by the District.

The District also intends to rip or chisel a trench with backhoe, dragline or other suitable machinery for an 18-inch diameter outfall pipe from its proposed sewage treatment plant. It may be necessary to use controlled blasting in hard rock areas. The dredging will begin at the mouth of an intermittent stream 900 feet north of Poplar Road and extend southerly 2450 feet into the ocean. A total of 1500 cubic yards will be removed and side-cast in the area adjacent to the trench. All dredging will be completed within twelve months following September 15, 1971.

Requirements to protect water quality have been prescribed by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board for the waste to be discharged through the proposed outfall. Initial discharge will amount to 0.5 mgd and ultimate discharge is estimated at 2.1 mgd.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364-14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by April 5, 1971.

SIGNALS WARN OF NAVY'S MINESWEEPERS IN OPERATION

Plans Set For Closing SST Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department, conforming to the rejection by Congress of further government participation in development of the supersonic transport plane, has started preparing legislation that would shut down all SST activity.

Undersecretary James M. Beggs, describing the SST project as "dead as a doornail," said Thursday the bill would go to Congress early next week. It was expected to seek $275 million to close the project out.

As the Transportation Department took the action, President Nixon went on a telephone hookup and told workers of the Boeing Co. in Seattle and Wichita, Kan., that the government was determined "that the remarkable combination of skills and talents your team represents should not be lost to the nation."

Boeing announced after the Senate rejected further funding of the SST in a 51 to 46 vote Wednesday that it plans to lay off 7,000 employes immediately. About 4,500 were directly involved in work on the 1,800-mile per hour SST.

In other developments Thursday, the State Department acknowledged that a Japanese trading company had expressed interest in buying America's SST assets, legislation was introduced in Congress to channel SST funds into safety and mass transit systems, and another bill was offered that would allow the sale of government-backed bonds to continue SST development.

The State Department said it had received a telegram from the Ataka Trading Co. of Tokyo which expressed "an undefined interest in the SST program." The telegram asked procedures the Japanese should follow if they decided to send a mission to the United States to gather more information. The message was forwarded to the Transportation Department.

Government officials said the possibility of a Japanese bid to buy U.S. prototype equipment and plans was "one of the things that is in the wind."

STARS ABOVE

Leo, The Lion, Is Very Well Named

By SHERMAN WALKER

Leo, the Lion, is a constellation that strongly resembles the animal it represents. The curved line of stars forming the head and mane of Leo form a subgroup called the Sickle.

At the end of the handle of the Sickle is a first-magnitude star called Regulus (Alpha Leonis), which is a double star with a companion of magnitude 8. The companion, however, cannot be seen without a modest telescope.

To locate the Lion in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. Standard Time and look at the region of the sky that is three-fourths of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

Regulus is almost exactly on the ecliptic — the imaginary path through the sky which is apparently traveled by the sun. The moon and all planets except Pluto stay very close to this path. Pluto strays a little further from it.

If you are looking for a planet in the sky, look along the ecliptic and a few degrees on either side.

If the path of a meteor is traced backward toward its apparent source, the paths of many of them will seem to originate at a certain point. This is called the radiant of the meteors. The meteor shower that takes place in November each year seems to originate in the top of the Sickle. For this reason the meteors are called Leonids.

No Charges In LSD Probe

No charge has been filed against two men arrested Monday in San Rafael on suspicion of selling LSD.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said yesterday that 26,000 suspected wsd tabs confiscated turned out to be nothing more psychedelic than an artificial sweetener.

Released were Sheldon Rambert, 21, of no known address, and Jack Rubin, 46, of San Rafael, who were arrested outside a San Rafael motel as the result of a month-long investigation by undercover agents, according to Marin County drug agents.

Auger Stolen From Vet's Auditorium

An earth boring tool valued at $400 was stolen from the parking lot at Veteran's Memorial Auditorium yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

The 110-pound auger belonging to Marin Storage and Trucking Co. of 449 DuBois Street was taken between 2 and 2:45 p.m. police said.

Hypoglycemia Victims Need Diet To Stop Insulin Formation

H. S. writes: "I read with interest your recent article on hypoglycemia. You suggested a diet low in carbohydrates and high in fats and proteins. What foods would a person have to eat to follow this regimen?"

To answer this, we must add background material on low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). Following an ordinary meal, the carbohydrates in food are quickly broken down into various sugars that are absorbed into the blood. This process leads to an increased level of glucose in the blood which reaches its peak within an hour. Meanwhile, the pancreas responds by producing insulin to metabolize or burn up the sugar for energy. Now the level begins to fall, except in diabetics who have little or no insulin. On the other hand, if the pancreas is overactive, the concentration of sugar in the blood may go lower than normal (hypoglycemia) causing a variety of symptoms.

IN ORDINARY hypoglycemia, a diet low in carbohydrates is needed so as not to stimulate insulin formation. Items high in proteins and fats are best because they have a staying quality that stabilizes the blood sugar level. Meals should be spaced so that the victim does not go for long periods without food. As a rule, dietary control of hypoglycemia can be accomplished via three meals a day and a snack between meals and at bedtime. Extra servings may be needed if the person has engaged in unusual physical activity.

Examples of protein-rich foods include meats, chicken, tuna, sardines, eggs, cheese, beans and peas. Fat needs can be met by using butter, margarine, peanut oil, olive oil, mayonnaise and vegetable shortening.

CARBOHYDRATES, such as fruits, honey, legumes, and beet sugars should be used in moderation. Sweetened orange juice, a piece of candy, cookies, and coffee or tea (with cream and sugar) bring immediate, but temporary, relief and are likely to be followed by a return of symptoms as more insulin is manufactured.

AORTIC TORTUOSITY

Mrs. E. C. W. writes: Please tell me if tortuosity of the aorta is dangerous and should be treated? The result of the chest X-ray was normal with negative findings of the lungs and a tortuosity of the aorta.

REPLY

Tortuosity of the main artery of the body is usually associated with arteriosclerosis. There is no need for concern so long as the blood flows freely through the hardened artery. This defect frequently is noted after the age of 60.

DAILY ENEMA

H.F. writes: What might happen to a person who has taken an enema every day for 5 years?

REPLY

Both an enema and a normal bowel movement clean out the rectum, provided, of course, that the procedure does not injure the membranes. Continuous enemas may eliminate the normal urge to have a spontaneous movement and in this way contribute to constipation.

DAILY AIRING

A.Y. writes: In cold weather, how much fresh air does a baby need every day?

REPLY

Exposure to fresh air is not absolutely necessary. However, it does no harm to bundle up junior and let him nap outdoors for 30 minutes or take him for a buggy ride around the block or to the store.

'Chicago 7' Case May Be Restudied

CHICAGO (UPI) —The federal government, at the direction of Attorney General John N. Mitchell, has moved to throw out the contempt sentences imposed on the "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial defendants and review their trial behavior.

The sentences, ranging as long as 29 months and 16 days, were imposed by U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman after a marathon trial on charges the defendants conspired to cross state lines to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention here.

Five of the defendants were convicted of inciting riots but all were cleared of the conspiracy charge. Two were found innocent of both charges.

While the jury was deliberating, Hoffman sentenced all seven defendants and two defense lawyers to jail for what he called acts of contempt during the trial.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said the appeal, filed Thursday, was ordered in a letter from Mitchell.

The decision, he said, was based on ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Mayberry vs. Pennsylvania, holding that a judge who is the subject of personal attacks amounting to contempt may not, at the end of the trial, fix the punishment for those acts.

At several points in the trial Hoffman was the target of verbal baiting and criticism from the defendants.

Mitchell's letter, Thompson said, said under the Mayberry criteria, "Judge Hoffman lost the power to cite and punish those contempts under which he was the victim of 'personal' attacks, since bias might be presumed from the nature of the attacks."

If the motion is granted, Thompson said, the chief judge of the Northern Illinois Judical District will appoint a new judge to review the incidents cited by Hoffman as contemptuous.

'71 Collier Trophy To Boeing Co.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Boeing Co. of Seattle has been named winner of the 1971 Robert J. Collier Trophy for successful introduction of its 747, the world's biggest jetliner, into commercial service, it was announced Thursday.

The trophy is awarded annually by the National Aeronautic Association "for the greatest achievement in aeronautics and astronautics in America with respect to improving the performance, efficiency and safety of air or space vehicles..."

The announcement was made a day after the Senate voted to cut off all federal financing of the supersonic transport (SST) meaning that thousands of employes would be laid off at Boeing.

The National Aeronautic Association said a committee appointed by former Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, composed of 26 aviation authorities, unanimously selected Boeing as the 1971 trophy winner.

It also paid tribute to the Pratt and Whitney Division of the United Aircraft Corp. and to Pan American World Airways for their roles in "the development and operation of the world's first advanced technology jet transport, the Boeing 747."

The trophy was established in 1912 by Robert J. Collier, publisher and pioneer aviation enthusiast. Previous winners include the crews of Apollo 8 and Apollo 11 moon missions, Orville Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss.

Drug Abuse Panel Asks Budget Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The executive director of the Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse today asked Congress to raise the commission's budget during the next two years from $1 million to $4 million.

Michael R. Sonnenreich told a House subcommittee that with the increase the commission could more effectively prepare a one-year study on marijuana and a two-year analysis of drug abuse.

The request fell on mostly sympathetic ears since subcommittee chairman Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., and Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., are on the 13-member commission, but Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., said he would carefully oversee the commission's activities.

"Is this another example of the American solution that if you throw more money at a problem it will go away?" asked Schmitz.

Rogers answered the question himself, saying that the commission's duties had been expanded and "I know of no problem that has greater significance today than the drug problem."

Schmitz, however, noted the commission plans to hire about 40 youth consultants for fees and expenses costing $340,000 and he told Sonnenreich "I'll be watching you."

Sonnenreich said after the hearing that the 10 to 25 young persons working on the marijuana study would be representative of all parts of the country and each ethnic group.

Our contribution to the space program.

There's still one place on our crowded planet where you can have a little elbowroom.
The Volkswagen Station Wagon.
In fact it has about twice as much of that precious commodity as the average station wagon.
With all this space, it can accommodate as many as 9 earthlings.
With the massive sliding door, it can accommodate the most outrageous objects.
With a special suspension system (and a lot of cushy upholstery), it can accommodate the most fragile housewife.
Of course even with all these assets, our space vehicle still can't leave the ground.
But then what do you expect for $3072.*

Sporting Family, Those Kilgores

I like to hear mothers speak like this: "It's not easy raising teen-agers these days. But in my case it's a delight because my daughter and son are deeply involved in sports. To some people they are considered 'square' but they are just nifty squares and I love every minute with them."

Thus spoke Mrs. Eugene S. Kilgore Jr. of Tiburon about her daughter, Bee, 15, and son, Eugene III, 17, whose athletic careers are taking on exciting aspects these days.

Miss Kilgore, a sophomore at San Domenico School for Girls, last weekend scored a major upset to advance to this weekend's final rounds of the Menlo Park Junior Tennis Tournament. She is ranked No. 10 in Girls' age 16 singles in Northern California and No. 1 with Anne LaMott of Tiburon in Girls 16 doubles. Last year Bee's major triumps included age 16 and 18 championships in the Canadian Nationals at Vancouver and a runners-up finish with Miss LaMott in girls 18 doubles.

See seems to be following in the footsteps of another Marin girl, Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, up the international tennis ladder.

And now for Master Kilgore III. A junior at the exclusive British Columbia's Shawnigan Lake School located 30 miles north of Victoria, Eugene has won a position on the varsity crew. Which is fine, but the really exciting aspect is that Shawnigan will send its varsity crews to Europe this summer for aseries of regattas at Henley, England and possibly Yugoslvaia. Eugene is a former I-J newspaperboy and champion in the annual I-J junior tennis tournament.

I am fascinated by Shawnigan Lake School because, according to clippings, "It is, at first glance, a page from Charles Dickens."

In this age of academic confrontation and dissidence, Shawnigan continues to believe in rules, regulations and disciplining and does not condone permissiveness or anarchy. The school's assistant headmaster and chaplain, Horace McClelland, has been quoted as saying: "A caning by the headmaster is the automatic punishment for a student caught smoking."

Try THAT at one of our local schools.

Young Kilgore's crew coach, Joe Grey, is noted for developing championship teams and provides a curious theory on the subject. Using a bullhorn, he yells to his high school eights at the start of a race: "Think beautiful thoughts and ready yourselves for the punishing work ahead. . . and remember your grandmothers on the bank!"

Why think of Nanas? "I tell each boy that if his grandmother is watching and says how easy it looks to do 44 strokes per minutes, that's good — he's rowing smoothly. Also, if he isn't completely exhausted at the finish, it means he should really be watching the race with his grandmother — not taking part in it."

By the way, a teammate of Kilgore at Shawnigan is Bill Hoefer, 15, of Belvedere whose father, John, president of a San Francisco ad agency, had quite a career in shells. As a student at Cal, he rowed for the varsity crew three years and in 1938 was a member of the famous Cal eight that competed at Poughkeepsie Regatta. Mrs. Hefer was former Sweetheart of Sigma Chi at Cal. The one they wrote the song about.

SPEAKING OF international sports, former Redwood High gridders Pete Richter and Buddy Lyons will be with the U.C. Berkeley rugby team that will tqay in Australia and New Zealand this July. It's an expensive trip that will require each player to pay $300. The rest of the financing will be done through a raffle.If you'd like to help, contact Pete or Buddy for a ticket that could win you a trip to Hawaii.

'No Retirement In Sight,' Says Frazier

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier says he will defy the advice of his friends and advisors to fight again.

"I don't see no retirement in sight," the 27-year-old Philadelphian said Thursday night. "I'm ready to fight right now, but I won't fight again this year. If Clay wants a rematch, I'm willing."

Without exception, Frazier's manager, trainer, friends, advisors and business associates advised him to retire after he successfully defended his title with a 15-round decision over Muhammad Ali on March 8. Only this week, Dr. Edwin Campbell of the New York State Athletic Commission added his encouragement that Frazier should retire.

After absorbing terrific punishment against Ali, Frazier complained of exhaustion, nausea and vomiting, and headaches. He was admitted to St. Luke's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia where it was revealed he had high blood pressure and a low pulse rate.

He still is a patient at the hospital although, he said, "I come and go pretty much as I please." He said he will be discharged on Saturday.

Frazier's first public appearance since his victory over Ali came Thursday at a news conference to announce a title bout between light heavyweight champion Bob Foster and Frazier's friend and sparring partner, Ray Anderson.

Anderson is managed by Frazier's manager Yank Durham and Frazier explained, "I promised Yank I'd come. I come to see Bob and Ray. I feel good, and it gives me great pleasure to be here after my funeral. I just think I was a little tired and needed some rest. It was nothing serious and my blood pressure is almost normal."

However, Dr. Campbell confirmed again Thursday that he thought Frazier had suffered a head injury against Ali. Both fighters have been placed on suspension by the state athletic commission until they undergo complete physical examinations.

Frazier's first day out of the hospital, however, gave all indications of a quick recovery. He chatted for more than a half hour with former champion Floyd Patterson at the hospital, and later drove to New York to attend the press conference and a performance of his band, The Knockouts, at a night spot.

KANSAS TO THE BOARDS — Bob Kivisto (45) of Kansas grabbed a rebound away from UCLA All-American Sidney Wicks (35) last night during the opening half of the NCAA semi-final championships at the Astrodome in Houston. Kivisto's teammate Dave Robisch (40) and UCLA's Henry Bibby (45) watched the action. UCLA won, 68-60.

Bruins Steamroll Into NCAA Finals

HOUSTON (UPI)—One of these years, UCLA is going to lose an NCAA championship. But it doesn't look like 1971 is going to be that year.

The Bruins toyed with Kansas for a little while Thursday night in the semifinals of the NCAA championships, and despite the fact they played a game Coach John Wooden considered disappointing, they still bumped off the Jayhawks 68-60.

That puts UCLA back in the finals once again—this time against the upstart Villanova Wildcats. (Tomorrow's game will be televised starting at 1 p.m. on Channel 4.

Villanova outfought Western Kentucky 92-89 in the other semifinal game in the cavernous Astrodome in a truly exciting contest that slopped over into two overtimes.

But Villanova, a team with six losses and a surprise visitor to this tournament in the first place, will go into the finals Saturday afternoon as the overwhelming underdog.

Wooden, of course, does not see things that way.

"What do I think of our chances?" he asked himself. "About the same as Villanova's."

The final game will bring together the most potent front line in college basketball—Sidney Wicks, Steve Patterson and Curtis Rowe—against a team that will have to depend on making the outside shot or else.

"We will play Villanova about the same as we did against Kansas," Wooden said following his club's victory over Kansas. "The things that got us here will be the things we generally go with."

But even Wooden can't ignore the fact he coaches the next thing to a basketball machine.

"I guess when they are shooting well they can compare with any of my other teams," he said.

UCLA's victory over Kansas seemed to be an easy one, and it was surprising to the record-breaking 30,148 persons who filed into the Astrodome to find at game's end the Jayhawkers were trailing by only eight points.

"I can't remember when we made so many turnovers (24)," said Wooden. "Our 13 turnovers in the first 20 minutes was very bad, horrible as a matter of fact."

Some of those turnovers early in the second half allowed Kansas to briefly tie the game, but during the last 15 minutes of the game the Jayhawks could not find the basket from the outside.

Wicks wound up with 21 points while guard Henry Bibby hit 18 for UCLA and Rowe contributed 16. Kansas center Dave Robisch led his club with 17 points.

Then the Hilltoppers missed the last shot again in the first overtime period and the score was left tied at 85-85.

Howard Porter's key basket in the final minute and two more free throws finally brought Villanova the victory after Western Kentucky's 7-0 center Jim McDaniels fouled out.

Dunn led Western Kentucky with 25 points while McDaniels had 22. The game's scoring honors, however, was Hank Siemiontkowski. He pumped in 31 points before fouling out in the final seconds of regulation play.

Young, Loose, Jerry Heard Takes Early Lead In Golf

Opening Round 66 Tops Field In Airlines Open

MIAMI (UPI)—It bothers Lee Trevino, a traditionalist in the matter of headgear on the professional golf tour, that young Jerry Heard wears his hat so jauntily.

"I can't see how he plays with that hat on the back of his head—it just sits right on the back. He must have been in the Navy," said funnyman Trevino Thursday after finishing second by a stroke to Heard in the opening round of the National Airlines Open golf tournament.

The hat, a floppy one like a turned-down sailor hat, does indeed perch on Heard's head in defiance of the brisk breezes whipping the 6,970-yard Country Club of Miami course. It's Heard's style–loose and easy.

"I just try to relax and play, and it's going very well. I'm real pleased," said the 23-year-old Visalia, Calif., third-year pro.

Heard eased through a fairly ordinary 35 on the outgoing nine in the first round of the $200,000 tournament, then sizzled to a 31 on the homecoming leg with five birdies for a six-under-par 66.

This put him a stroke ahead of Trevino, the defending champion, Hale Irwin of Boulder, Col., and old pro Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., a 12-year veteran of the golf circuit.

At 68 were Earl Fennell, Herb Hooper, Dow Finsterwald, Frank Beard, Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin.

Gary Player, winner of the Jacksonville Open last week, was among a group of 12 at 69, and so was Julius Boros. Arnold Palmer was tied with 17 others at 70.

Heard said improvement in his putting has gotten him off to a good start this year. He finished fourth in the Citrus Invitational at Orlando, Fla., two weeks ago—a tournament in which he also fired a 66 in the first round and shared the lead with eventual winner Arnold Palmer.

"I was hitting the ball well last year and started off that way this year, too. But then my putting got better and it sort of all fell together," said Heard, who earned $45,000 in 1970.

His birdies on the back nine included three gained with 20-foot putts.

Irwin, who said his iron play and not his putting was the key to his game, had a shot at a 66 until he three-putted the 15th green for a bogey.

Barber, among the last finishers of the day, was six-under on the 18th green, but his six-foot putt for a par curled in and then out of the cup, giving him a bogey and dropping him into the tie at 67.

But he didn't complain.

"Any time I can shoot five-under into a wind like that, why heck, I sure can't complain," he said.

BODY ENGLISH — Lee Trevino tried to use body english to make this birdie putt drop yesterday during the first round of the National Airlines Open in Miami. But the putt didn't go, and Trevinocame in with a 67, one stroke behind leader Jerry Heard.

Off To Good Start

Kirk Bromberg hit a home run and had four hits in five at bats and Pat Ross pitched a three-hitter and struck out 12 to give San Rafael Military Academy a 9-1 victory over Concordia High School in a Bay Counties League opening baseball game Wednesday in Oakland.

NIT: Georgia Tech Vs. North Carolina

NEW YORK (UPI) —It's a tossup whether Paul Hoffman's trip down nightmare alley that cost St. Bonaventure a shot at the National Invitation Basketball Tournament title will be worse than the bad dream Georgia Tech is expected to live through after meeting North Carolina in Saturday's championship game.

Hoffman missed two free throws with no time left in the first overtime Thursday night and Tech went on to beat the Bonnies, 76-71, in a second extra session of their semifinal match. A fast-breaking North Carolina team entered the title bracket by defeating Duke, 73-67, in the other semifinal.

"It's simply nightmarish," said the bespectacled Hoffman after flubbing a chance to win for St. Bonnie. "I usually hit 70-80 per cent of my foul shots. One thing for sure, I can't continue to worry about it."

The NIT, dubbed the tournament of losers because the second bests and conference also-rans received the invitations, is a Cinderella step for Tech, which ran off a 13-1 record at the season's start and then skidded. A fine recovery earned the Engineers a tourney bid.

Tech reached the title round by beating LaSalle, Michigan and the Bonnies. The Engineers next game, however, resurrects memories of an earlier encounter with North Carolina in which the Tar Heels beat Tech by 29 points.

Saturday's meeting marks the first time two Southern teams have met for the NIT title. Tech never actually scored a basket in its second overtime session with the Bonnies. There was one goaltending call against St. Bonaventure and seven straight Tech foul shots.

The score was tied 59-59 at the end of regulation time and 67-all after the first extra five-minute period. Jim Thorne led Tech with 27 points and Rich Yunkus added 19 as the Engineers built a bridgehead to a title shot. Carl Jackson paced the Bonnies with 18 before fouling out.

North Carolina made it three wins in four starts this season against Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke by breaking open the game with 10 straight points midway in the second half for a 52-39 lead. The closest Duke got after that was five points.

George Karl scored a game-high 21 points for Carolina, including 10 in the last five minutes. Richie O'Connor paced Duke with 18 points.

St. Bonaventure meets Duke in a consolation game at 11 a.m. EST Saturday, prior to the 1 p.m. nationally televised title contest.

Robertson Impressive For Giants

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants may have lost a battle and won a war.

The battle was a 2-1 squakers to San Diego, with whom the Giants do battle again today.

The war was the eternal struggle by the Giants to find a fourth starter. Rich Robertson appears to be the man.

Robertson dazzled with a six strikeout, no walk, five-hit job during seven innings against the Padres. Lefty John Cumberland was toiling when Ed Spezio homered in the 10th to decide it.

Pitching coach Larry Jensen said that if Robertson can keep it up, he'll be in the rotation.

Manager Charlie Fox says "the fourth job in rotation is just waiting there for the guy who wants it the most."

Baseball Tryouts In San Rafael

Minor League tryouts for the San Rafael American Little League will be held tomorrow, 9:30 a.m., at Davidson Junior High School for 8 and 9-year-olds who did not play last year.

In the event of rain, the tryouts will be rescheduled for Sunday.

Defending Champion Knicks Rally To Win

NEW YORK (UPI)—An offensive lapse and a defensive breakdown by the Atlanta Hawks proved the ingredients for the New York Knicks' 1-0 playoff lead today in defense of their National Basketball Association title.

The Knicks beat the Hawks, 112-101, Thursday just when it appeared Atlanta had the game in the bag. Bill Bridges missed an easy layup that would have given Atlanta a nine-point lead early in the fourth quarter and ultimately provided the momentum for a complete New York turnabout.

Atlanta will try to recoup here Saturday night in the second game of the best-in-seven series. The scene switches to Atlanta for the third game on Sunday.

Two other playoff series continue tonight when Baltimore plays at Philadelphia and Los Angeles entertains Chicago. The 76ers won the opener of their series against the Bullets 126-112 while Los Angeles holds a 1-0 edge over Chicago after nipping the Bulls 100-99 Wednesday night. The fourth playoff series between San Francisco and Milwaukee gets underway Saturday night at Oakland.

Dick Barnett, held to only three points in the first three quarters, turned in his pet brand of "money game," as he hit for 11 straight points in the final stanza that pushed New York into a 97-95 lead. He kept the Knicks' surge going with his 17th point of the period after Bill Bradley sent the team into the lead for good at 99-97.

Barnett, who started the game with a cold, suddenly set a feverish pace as he outplayed Walt Hazzard and forced the Atlanta guard to foul out.

"When we were behind in the last period, it was evident the team needed the momentum from someone," Barnett explained of his role. "I thought we were walking the ball, slowing down too much, playing too cautious. Since no one else was taking charge, I decided to. I started asking for the ball, which I didn't do earlier. I called a few plays myself and the ball started dropping.

"I'm a near 50 per cent shooter and if I take the shots I'll get my points."

He did, sinking six of seven shots in the torrid fourth quarter that ended with the Knicks outscoring the Hawks 37-21.

Both Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks and Atlanta coach Richie Guerin credited Barnett with making the difference.

A Rookie's Careful Move To Big League

PHOENIX — Steve Stone didn't make it to the major leagues by accident. He began mapping his career when he still was in Brush High in his native Cleveland. He is a methodical young man who has wasted little time in his 23 years.

STONE LEARNED in Brush High that if he hoped to compete successfully against the big fellows he would have to put in extra hours of practice. So he boxed the basement of his father's home with plywood and turned it into an athletic court. He spent hours in the Stone basement through the winter months when weather halted outdoor sports in Cleveland except football.

"There always was the height factor so I kept busy 12 months a year staying in condition," said Stone who now is listed as a 5 foot 10, 175 pound rookie pitcher on the roster of the Giants.

THE 5-10 measurement is generous. It's doubtful Stone is that tall barefooted or even in his baseball shoes. But whether he's 5-10 or 5-8, he is a powerfully built fellow. And he can fire a fast ball, throw a hard or soft curve and an occasional changeup with deceptive motion.

When Stone learned that the Giants were inviting him to camp on a non-roster basis this spring, he immediately stepped up his year round conditioning program.

"FIVE WEEKS before spring training started," said Stone, "I started my own work. I began throwing a baseball and I ran up and down bleacher stairs every day."

By the time spring training reached the midway mark, Stone already won a promotion from non-roster status. He has grown accustomed to fast promotions. It took him only two years to go through A, AA and AAA baseball competition since the Giants signed him in January, 1969.

STONE WON many admirers who watched him in Cactus League competition this spring. Nobody is predicting he will become a 20-game winner as a major league rookie. But a score of major league scouts who have seen him in action believe he can win 10 or 12. If Stone doesn't fulfill the predictions made for him, there will be a lot of red faces among the scouts who were virtually unanimous in their endorsement of Stone.

One person who doesn't doubt for one moment that Stone is going to make it big is his most ardent rooter and bride of nine months, Nancy Stone, a raven-haired beauty. Nancy Stone sits behind the Giant dugout in a box seat every time her husband pitches. She claps and cheers him on every pitch.

"NANCY," SAID Stone, "has really got involved. Of course, I'm aware that she is in the stands. I can hear her. I know she's with me even when I'm not good."

Steve and Nancy have known each other since high school but she went to Shaker High in Cleveland, not Brush. And when Steve went to Kent State, Nancy went to Ohio State.

"SHE'S A Buckeye," said Stone. "Did I ever pitch against Ohio State? Yes, four scoreless innings."

Who did Nancy root for that day, her Alma Mater or husband-to-be?

"She wasn't at the game," said Stone. "She was on a sorority trip to Maryland."

Gary Hansen demonstrated a home-made airplane yesterday at the Kimball, Minn., ski resort where he is a ski instructor. Hansen built the glider out of bamboo and pine strips, at a cost of only $25. After a skiing start downhill, Hansen was able to fly the craft about 150 yards. The only problem, he said, is that every landing is a controlled crash. (UPI Telephoto)

A FISHY STORY? NO, FAT WORMS

BURNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Bill Davis thought the story was fishy — so he arrested the two men and confiscated their hypodermic needles, syringes and a strange brown powder.

Davis, a Fish and Game warden, took them to a sheriff's substation in Shasta County, where they repeated the tale to deputy Bill Harrington.

Fishermen Robert M. Delgado, 23, and Gary W. Beliel, 30, both of San Leandro, said they were following the advice of a magazine article that suggested using a needle and syringe to inject air into worms because fish preferred the pudgy bait.

The deputy ordered them released, saying he's read the same article.

The two fishermen headed back for the river late Wednesday after telling Harrington the system had been working well.

The brown powder was cocoa.

Opening Day Assignments

By United Press International

Two more opening day pitchers were selected Thursday when Manager Eddie Kasko chose Ray Culp to start for the Boston Red Sox and Manager Bob Lemon named Dick Drago to start for the Kansas City Royals.

Culp, a 17-game winner last season who went seven innings in the Red Sox' 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday, will pitch Boston's season opener against the New York Yankees. Culp allowed six hits and two runs in becoming the first Red Sox pitcher to go seven innings this spring.

Drago, who had a 9-15 record in 1970, was named to face the California Angels in the Royals' opener. The 25-year old right-hander has won a total of 20 games for the Royals in the last two seasons and has been their most impressive pitcher this spring. Lemon made the announcement after giving the Royals their first day off since spring training started on Feb. 17.

Rico Petrocelli's two-run single was the big blow of a five-run eighth-inning rally which gave the Red Sox their victory. George Scott homered for the Red Sox while Luis Melendez connected for the Cardinals.

On other fronts: Tony Conigliaro's third single of the game climaxed a three-run ninth-inning rally which lifted the California Angels to a 7-6 triumph over the Oakland Athletics. Alex Johnson, hustling all the way after his recent fine by Manager Lefty Phillips, scored the winning run when second baseman John Donaldson bobbled the relay from the outfield on Conigliaro's hit.

Ed Spiezio's 10th-inning homer enabled the San Diego Padres to defeat the San Francisco Giants, 2-1 ... Eddie Leon had four hits, including a homer and knocked in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers, 13-8 ... Fifth-inning singles by Bobby Mitchell, Thurman Munson and Roy White provided the winning run for the New York Yankees in a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets. Jerry Koosman went seven innings for the Mets and was tagged for 10 hits.

Woody Fryman held the Houston Astros to three hits in eight inning as the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 2-1 victory. Fryman's performance was the sharpest and longest by a Philadelphia pitcher this spring ... Tommy Helms and Woody Woodward homered in leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 10-5 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bill Russell hit his first homer, batting left-handed, for the Dodgers.

The Washington Senators shaded the Atlanta Braves, 8-7, when Hal King hit a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Dick Bosman allowed only one unearned run in six innings for the Senators ... Tenth-inning singles by Walt Williams, Rick Reichardt and Bill Melton produced the run that gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 decision over the Minnesota Twins ... Gene Cline's two-run triple in the sixth inning enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to shade the Detroit Tigers, 3-2. Al Oliver homered for the Pirates off Joe Niekro, who pitched seven innings for the Tigers.

Clamping Down On Quarterbacks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Quarterbacks were the target yesterday as the National Football League gave officials more power to penalize a team for intentionally grounding the ball during a pass attempt.

At its spring meeting, the League rewrote the rule book to the effect that officials need consider nothing but whether or not they judge it "a deliberate attempt to prevent a loss of yardage."

"The old rule was too lenient," said Mark Duncan, supervisor of league officials. "We felt too many quarterbacks were getting away with it.

Tennis

CHICAGO (UPI)—Match play moves into the quarter finals today in the Sportface International Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Arthur Ashe already has gained a berth in the semi-finals, scheduled for Saturday. He earned it Thursday by defeating Australia's Ray Ruffels 6-4, 6-4.

Top-seeded John Newcombe remained in contention by defeating fellow Aussie Fred Stalle 7-6, 4-6, 6-4. Third-seeded Ken Rosewall dumped Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-0, 6-3.

NEW YORK (UPI) —Mrs. Billie Jean King and Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones renew their rivalry again tonight in the semifinals of the $15,000 Virginia Slims tennis tournament.

The two old rivals advanced to their meeting Thursday night when Mrs. King defeated Julie Heldman 6-2, 6-1 and Mrs. Jones beat Kerry Melville of Australia 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

After four of the ten rounds in the six-nation tourney, the Russians and the Swedes are tied for first place, both with seven points.

Indiana Swimmers Taking Command

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Two American and two NCAA meet records were set Thursday as Indiana took a commanding lead at the 48th annual NCAA swimming and Diving Championships here.

Indiana, which holds a 60-point lead over second place USC, was paced by Gary Hall's American record in the 200-yard individual medley and John Kinsella's NCAA meet record in the 500-yard freestyle.

"We are in better shape than I thought we'd be after the first day's events," said James Counsilman, head coach of the Hoosiers, who are looking for their fourth straight NCAA swimming title. The only disappointment of the night for Indiana was when Stanford's 400-yard medley relay team edged them in the final lap to establish a new American record of 3:22.51. The old record of 3:24.24 was set by the Santa Clara Swim Club in 1970.

Hall, a world record holder, defeated defending champion Frank Heckl of USC with a time of 1:52.8, eclipsing the old record for the 200-yard individual medley of 1:52.6 set three years ago by Charles Hickcox of Indiana.

The medley shaped up to be a three-man affair, but Long Beach State's Gunnar Larsson was ruled ineligible before the afternoon preliminaries. NCAA officials said the Swede violated certain financial rules in Sweden and was disqualified from the championship competition.

The event proved to be a valuable one for Indiana, which scored 53 points and rode to a 121 first-day total.

Tennessee's Dave Edgar set a meet record in the 50-yard freestyle in winning his second straight NCAA title in the event. Edgar, who has never been defeated in an intercollegiate meet, was clocked at :20.3, which bettered the mark he set in the afternoon preliminaries.

Kinsella, known more for his achievements in longer distances, set a meet record in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 4:27.9. His mark broke the record he set in the preliminaries earlier Thursday.

The one-meter diving finals were primarily a Big Ten affair, with Mike Finneron of Ohio State winning the title. Finneron, a fourth-place finisher in the event last year, edged out Minnesota's Craig Lincoln by 24 points. In all, Big Ten teams captured nine of the top 12 places in the diving event.

In the race for second place, USC held a one-point lead over crosstown rival UCLA, 61-60. Tennessee, sparked by Edgar's win in the 50-yard freestyle, wound up in fourth place. Stanford ended the first day of competition with 43 points and Long Beach State had 42.

Answering Questions On Fish Planting

By AL GIDDINGS

I received a long letter from Dave Yearsley of Corte Madera and he asked some pertinent questions about the Marin Municipal Water District lakes. Here they are:

1. Why is our lake fishing restricted to three or four days following a trout plant?

ANSWER: A few years ago at Lagunitas Lake, 10,000 catchables were planted. The first day 7,000 were caught, the second day 2,600 were caught and the third day 600 were caught. This shows the heavy pressure, and also shows that probably only about 200 fish were present in the lake from the previous year.

2. Why don't the trout planted by the water district take hold?

ANSWER: First of all, the Department of Fish and Game makes the trout plants. In 1971, approximately 85,000 catchables are slated for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas, Phoenix reservoirs and Rodeo Lagoon. Catchables cost about 20 cents per fish, so the total expenditure will be about $17,000. Alpine and Kent lakes received 150,000 fingerlings a few months ago. Fingerlings run about $50 per thousand, so the cost here is $7,500.

Why don't the fish take! Fishing pressure is one reason. A second reason is that the MMWD's prime function is to provide pure water for drinking. The use of copper sulphate (blue stone) stops algae growth, usually stopping the food chain. Pure water and fluctuating dams never seem to have good fish-producing quality waters.

MOST OF the lakes when first constructed have excellent food potential because of the trees, brush and live ground which is newly covered by the waters impounded. However, after a few years the lake becomes somewhat barren of food, and fishing slows. These types of lakes are planted with catchables, which are put there to be caught almost immediately.

One time, the DFG planted Alpine Lake —ith 27,000 catchables on the last day of the season. This was done about 20 years ago when catchable trout plants were just being started. On the opening day the following year everyone headed for Alpine thinking that it would be a bonanza. Seven fish were taken; the fish didn't make it through the winter without the food needed to keep them alive. We learned a costly lesson!

IN COMPARISON, Lake Merced in San Francisco, with its established food chain and the heaviest of fishing pressures, provides lunker fish every now and then. Lake Merced is not bluestoned, it does not fluctuate, and it has a fast growing food chain.

The plants of fingerlings in Alpine and Kent lakes are always problematical. If the plants 'take' on a certain year, fishing can be excellent with some fish actually reaching five or six pounds in two or three years time. A few years ago, one successful plant provided top fishing for trout weighing two or three pounds. Let's hope this year's plants are equally successful.

OF COURSE it will take a year or two for these fish to reach the 12 to 18-inch sizes that we all hope for. In past years an occasional lunker would be caught from Phoenix Lake, but these were usually caught below the dam by Moose Muzinich, the water district patrolman, and quickly replanted in the lake. He always enjoyed some fisherman catching a big fish thinking he had the biggest trout of the season, when really he had a creek steelhead. It always shook everyone up!

Yearsley feels that black bass and bluegill might be the fish that would fill the bill in our lakes for everyone. This could be so, but there would still be problems. Nicasio Lake when first opened provided top angling with fast growing bass, bluegill, and both trout and trapped steelhead. Now the fishing has slowed as expected. The lake fluctuates. That kills the top water grasses when the water levels are high, and kills the underwater aquatics when the levels are low; this tends to eliminate the food chain. Bluestoning just about takes care of the rest, but it is necessary for algae control.

RIGHT NOW Nicasio Lake is loaded with carp, a rough fish considered a further detriment to the other fish of the lake as they cause further declines in the food chain. The DFG will eventually have to chemically treat the lake to get rid of these undesirables. Then new plants of bass, bluegill, trout, or whatever, will have to be made. Last year, plants of bass and bluegill were scheduled for Lagunitas Lake, but some of the sportsmen sent the truck back. The plants were never made! These anglers only wanted trout.

Perhaps it is time to review the trout plants versus warm water fish plants at a future meeting at the Marin Rod and Gun Club. I think discussions about Nicasio Lake, Alpine and Kent lakes, and the other water district lakes — Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe — certainly would be in order.

LAST WEEK at a meeting at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, long discussions and a review of the proposed license increases helped clear the air on many important points. These meetings are worthwhile and helpful. Let's have the same kind of meeting about trout!

Marin CYO Officials In Spotlight

Athletic directors and coaches of championship teams in Marin County Catholic Youth Organization basketball programs will be honored tonight at an awards banquet sponsored by the Marin Youth Officials Association.

Starting at 7 o'clock, the affair will be held at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The sponsoring association provides officials for CYO and other youth activities and serves as a foundation for experience for young men who desire to move up the ladder of officiating.

Honorees tonight will be CYO athletic directors Edward Chavez of St. Anselm's Parish in San Anselmo; William Forde, Blessed Sacrament, Santa Venetia; Don Carlson, St. Hilary, Tiburon; Allan Farbstein, St. Isabella, Terra Linda; James Scannell, Mt. Carmel, Mill Valley; John Campbell, St. Patrick, Larkspur; Stan Rupiper, St. Raphael, San Rafael; Charles Donnellan, St. Rita, Fairfax; Harry Del Grande, St. Sebastian, Greenbrae, and William Fuller, St. Vincent, San Rafael.

The coaches to be honored for 1971 championships are Larry Fulton and Wayel Kubba of St. Raphael; Jim Hanretty, St. Patrick; Walt Johnson and John Coleman, Blessed Sacrament; Jeff Guidi and Wes Newbold, St. Rita; oe Burke and Jim Carty, St. Anselm.

Honored guests will be Monsignor Peter G. Armstrong, archdiocesan director; Adrian Gilbert, archdiocesan athletic co-ordinator; and Bruce Dreier, Marin County CYO director.

Seals To Host St. Louis Blues

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals host St. Louis tonight in a battle between two teams who have been disappointed with their goal-keeping.

The Blues' brilliant trio of Glenn Hall, Jacques Plante and Ernie Wakely gave up 168 goals last season. Plante has gone to Toronto and 192 goals have hit the Blues' nets.

As for the Seals, coach Fred Glover has indicated Gary Smith will be back tonight despite a horrendous six-goal performance on Wednesday.

BOB KURLAND, 7-FOOT OKLAHOMA CENTER, BECAME THE FIRST TO WIN TWO STRAIGHT N.C.A.A. TOURNEY SCORING TITLES WHEN HE TALLIED 23 POINTS TO LEAD HANK IBA'S AGGIES OVER NORTH CAROLINA 43-40 FOR THEIR SECOND CROWN IN A ROW.

A Record Catch By S. F. Bay Salmon Anglers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Department of Fish and Game reported today that sports fishermen landed a record catch of more than 10,000 salmon last weekend off San Francisco.

George Warner, chief of the department's anadromous fisheries branch, said per angler catch averaged three, a number he called "fantastic."

The figures for the "best-ever catch" were based on samplings by department biologists. The weekend catch compared with a 10-year average for March of 7,000 salmon, Warner said.

The average weight per salmon, most of them kings, was about six pounds. Some weighed in the 20-to 30-pound range.

Most of the salmon were caught beyond the Golden Gate between Lightship and Duxbury Reef.

Another Homer For Jackson

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—The season hasn't started yet and already Tony C and Reggie J are frightening the pitchers.

Tony Conigliaro's third single of the day capped a three-run ninth inning which allowed the California Angels to take the 7-6 win over Oakland Thursday. The two teams do battle again today.

Reggie Jackson of the Athletics pounded out a homer and now has driven in 18 runs and hit 8 homers in 15 spring games.

The A's also got a three-run shot from Rick Monday

Freeway World Series?

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—I've seen a few things I never thought I would.

Open heart surgery wasn't bad for a starter and then they went and put a man on the moon.

I've also seen a one-time Olympic "sub" come on to beat The Greatest; a defensive player so spectacular on offense that he has revolutionized hockey; another player who has done nearly the same thing in basketball, and still another who turned the world's largest city upside down with one mere swing of the bat 20 years ago.

An all-Freeway world series in California.

Primarily because I figure we're due for one, and partially because I can't wait to see how Alex Johnson and Rich Allen react to the entire media, and vice versa, I like the California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers to wind up in the world series this October.

Up and down in both leagues I line 'em up like this:

| NATIONAL LEAGUE EAST | NATIONAL LEAGUE WEST |
|---|---|
| New York | Los Angeles |
| Pittsburgh | Cincinnati |
| Chicago | Houston |
| Montreal | San Francisco |
| St. Louis | San Diego |
| Philadelphia | Atlanta |

| AMERICAN LEAGUE EAST | AMERICAN LEAGUE WEST |
|---|---|
| Detroit | California |
| Baltimore | Minnesota |
| Cleveland | Oakland |
| Boston | Chicago |
| New York | Kansas City |
| Washington | Milwaukee |

Why the Dodgers and not the Reds?

Well, it's like this.

Al Campanis, the Dodgers' head of player personnel, and Tom Lasorda, their manager at Spokane, have produced the best looking batch of kids since the days of Snider, Hodges and Reese. Allen gives the club the punch it needs and Duke Sims helps also.

To me, the Dodgers look stronger than the Reds with all their hitting. Take away Wayne Simpson and Jim Merritt from Cincy and pitching could be a problem. Bobby Tolan sitting on the bench doesn't make the Reds' outfield any stronger defensively either.

Houston also could pass the Reds providing Don Wilson and Tom Griffin give Larry Dierker some help. Doug Rader looks ready for a good year; a 20-year-old Cesar Cedeno is just starting to come, and Roger Metzger, the rookie shortstop, has been a pure delight so far.

Juan Marichal quite likely will bounce back for the Giants and Gaylord Perry will win his share after which Charlie Fox may have to scratch around for pitching. Shortstop and second base don't exactly remind you of Tinker-to-Evers either.

I still believe Preston Gomez did right by hitting for Clay Kirby last season, no-hitter and all, and I also believe he'll get San Diego out of the cellar. Which brings us to the Braves and especially now that Rico Carty is sidelined, what can you say about them after you say Hank Aaron and Orlando Cepeda.

A year ago I picked the Pirates to finish first in the National League East and said the Mets probably would come back and win this year and next. I still say so. The Mets' pitching should do it for them and their hitting should be better than it was last year.

Joe Brown made some good trades for Pittsburgh over the winter. Bob Johnson beefs up the pitching and Nellie Briles should also help. The Pirates could win 89 games this year the same way as last year, but this time it might not be enough.

The Cubs have stood still and sometimes when you do that the rest of the parade moves up on you. Montreal's pitching has all the earmarks you look for — the kind that makes even a three-year-old expansion club formidable. I look for the Expos to jump a couple of rungs.

Not the Cardinals though. They finished only 2-1-2 lengths better than fifth last year and didn't get any stronger since. I've got a hunch the Phillies will fall back a little on Frank Lucchesi although I hope not because he works so hard. The trouble is he doesn't have that much to work with.

Over in the American League West the Angels laid the groundwork for this year's world series during the last one. That was when they dealt for Tony Conigliaro's bat. Then they got Ken Berry's glove. That gives the Angels two big plus signs on offense and defense, and with Clyde Wright, Tom Murphy, Andy Messersmith, Jim Maloney and Rudy May, they also have the pitching to carry them past the Twins and A's.

The White Sox could climb a couple of notches. Under new manager Chuck Tanner, they showed more spirit than the majority of clubs I saw in Florida. Tanner has them running and cooking like the Go-Go Sox again.

Kansas City got the short end of that winter deal with Pittsburgh —the deal where they gave up Bob Johnson — and I think it's going to take Frank Lane and Dave Bristol a little longer to make Milwaukee a winner than it took Lew Alcindor.

Detroit is my choice over Baltimore for the title in the East mainly because so many "knowledgeable baseball men" say the Orioles are shoo-ins and I've spent a lot of time listening to knowledgeable men explain to me what went wrong with shoo-ins after they specifically told me nothing possibly could.

The Orioles' pitching could go wrong. So could any number of other things. Conversely, the deal the Tigers made with the Senators getting Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman plus two pitchers has created a new atmosphere already. Also Billy Martin has a way of extracting something extra out of a ball club. I believe he'll do it with the Tigers.

Cleveland looks like one of the improved clubs in both leagues, and Boston's defense is better with Luis Aparicio and young Doug Griffin around second but I'm not sold at all on the pitching.

The Yankees say forget their dreadful showing in spring training, things are going to change "dramatically" when the season starts, and that reminds me of the 1950 St. Louis Browns who dropped their first nine straight in the spring, then didn't do a whole lot better when the bell rang.

"Don't worry," Zack Taylor, their manager, said. "The league will come back to us by August."

By August you needed a telescope to find the Browns. That's how far behind they were. They finished seventh, strictly —as Branch Rickey used to say on merit.

That leaves only the Senators. Denny McLain and Curt Flood will win some games for them and so will Frank Howard if he isn't traded. Washington's best hitter unfortunately doesn't play. He's 52 and sits on the bench but owner Bob Short is trying to persuade him to pinch hit at least once this season.

Great as he is, Ted Williams is going to have all he can do lifting Washington off its wheelbase.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, March 26, the 85th day of 1971.

The moon is in its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

On this day in history:

In 1892 American poet Walt Whitman died in Camden, N.J., at the age of 73.

In 1952 Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine he said was capable of immunizing people against polio.

In 1965 President Lyndon Johnson ordered the Ku Klux Klan investigated after four men were arrested in the murder of civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo in Alabama.

A thought for today: American poet Robert Frost said, "A child misses the unsaid goodnight, and falls asleep with heartache."

Fine Or Jail On Grass Charge

George Martinez, 22, of Novato, has been ordered to pay a $150 fine or serve four days in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court also placed Martinez on probation for two years.

Martinez was arrested in Novato Dec. 21 when police allegedly saw him throw away a bag which contained marijuana.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even By Losing, Tourney Player Will Make A Profit

The typical rubber bridge player hates to lose any more than necessary, but he cannot get terribly excited about the difference between down three and down four. "It must be a bad overbid either way," he points out. To the tournament player, however, the difference between minus 500 and minus 700 may be enormous, as in today's hand.

PRO PLAY

A rubber bridge expert might not bid with the South hand at all and certainly wouldn't go on to give diamonds. Even if you're just playing for toothpicks, 500 toothpicks is more than you give up cheerfully.

A tournament expert knows that the East-West vulnerable game is worth about 620 or 650 points. South will have a fine tournament score if he loses only 500 points. It's true that he will have a horrible score if he loses only 500 points. It's true that he will have a horrible score if he loses 700 points, but an aggressive tournament player will take this risk in the hope that East will go on to five hearts and perhaps find a way to do down.

CAREFUL PLAY

South must find an expert play to hold the loss to 500 points. The defenders lead and continue hearts, and South ruffs the second round. South cashes the top clubs, ruffs a heart to return to his hand, and ruffs his last club in dummy. Then he leads the king of diamonds from dummy.

West takes the ace of diamons, cashes the ace of spades and leads a spade to the king. With all hands reduced to three cards, South has Q-10-7 of trumps, and West has J-9-8 of trumps.

RUFFS LOW

East leads a spade or a heart, and South ruffs low. West overruffs, but then has to lead from the J-9 to declarer's Q-10 of trumps. This end-play holds the loss to 500 points.

It's worth noticing that South must find a poor defense as well as a fine play of his own. West should ruff the fourth club with the eight of diamonds to make sure of six tricks and a penalty of 700 points.

DAILY QUESTION

Your partner opens with one heart, vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents. The next player bids three diamonds.

You hold:
♠ - A J
♥ - K 10 8 3
♦ - A J 9 8
♣ - 10 8 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

The jump is necessary to show the strength of your hand. You might double for penalties if the vulnerability were reversed, but you should not give up a vulnerable game for a mere 300 points or so.

Man Bound Over On Auto Burglary Count

John James Edmunds, 26, of no known address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of auto burglary.

He is to be arraigned in Superior Court Monday. Edmunds was arrested March 15 after he allegedly broke into a car parked near the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

NUE Is Secure Buy For Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $5 300 tied up in 100 shares of National Union Electric. I am retired and need income: Should I sell? — S.M.

A. If earnings recovery anticipated for this year materializes, it should generate better share price action. For the year ended last December, sales dropped 13 per cent and earnings, after special charges, were 14 cents a share, down from $1.58 in 1969.

Factors expected to contribute to recovery are: higher sales, stimulated by economic improvement; a manufacturing agreement with Admiral Corp. to produce company's home entertainment products and the absence of nonrecurring charges.

While I do not envision early recovery of your full cost, some worthwhile improvement should be forthcoming.

Q. There has been so much in the papers about Bell Telephone bonds that I foolishly went in through Hawaiian Telephone 8¾s of 2000. This I cannot find a record of anywhere. Should I sell for peace of mind? — E. A.

A. You are unduly concerned about this high-quality, high-yield first mortgage bond. Rated AA, this issue is currently trading at a substantial premium and was recently quoted at 107 ¼. The comparatively small $35 million bond issue is amply covered by earnings.

In addition, your holding is protected against refunding until Sept. 1, 1975. Relax and enjoy the generous income provided by this secure investment.

Q. Can you tell us what has happened to Scientific Resources? Why is it no longer listed on the New York Stock Exchange? — B. K.

A. Scientific Resources obtained a court order prohibiting delisting procedures initiated by the NYSE in February, although trading has been suspended. Earlier that month the company had announced that a $43 million deficit had been incurred for the year ending Sept. 30, 1970, reducing the company's net worth to $4 million.

Under the company's refinancing plan senior debt holders would receive cash, promissory notes and shares of a subsidiary. The refinancing plan represented $13 million of the reported fiscal year loss.

After an interval with the White House in Oakland, he rejoined Macy's in 1963 as assistant manager of the San Rafael and Stockton stores. He lives in San Rafael.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Little Known Deduction That Is Frequently Overlooked

If you inherit anything during the year you should check to be sure that all expenses of the inheritance are claimed by the estate in the final fiduciary tax return.

If there is not sufficient income of the estate to cover the expenses claimed on the final return, then they are "excess deduction" and are available to you for an income tax deduction.

Of course, anything you inherit is not subject to income tax.

Regulation Section 20.2053—3 (a) says: The amounts deductible from a decedent's gross estate as "administration expenses" are limited to such expenses as are actually and necessarily incurred in the administration of the decedent's estate; that is, in the collection of assets, payment of debts, and distribution of property to the persons entitled to it. Administration expenses include (1) executor's commissions (2) attorney's fees and (3) miscellaneous expenses.

Regulation Section 20.2053 — 3 (d) (1) says: Miscellaneous administration expenses include such expenses as court costs, surrogates' fees, accountants' fees, appraisers' fees, clerk hire, etc. Expenses necessarily incurred in preserving and distributing the estate are deductible, including the cost of storing or maintaining property of the estate, if it is impossible to effect immediate distribution to the beneficiaries . . .

The above defines administration expenses for purposes of the deduction on the federal estate tax return. It is well established that anything deductible on the estate tax return as an administration expense can also be deducted on the estate's income tax return form 1041, but, of course, not on both.

Code Section 642 (h) provides that on the termination of an estate or trust, if it has — for the last taxable year deductions (except personal exemption and charitable contributions) in excess of gross income then such excess shall be allowed as a deduction to the beneficiaries succeeding to the property of the estate or trust.

This is a very important point. The executor or administrator must cooperate because the expenses must be paid in the last taxable period of the estate.

For instance, if a calendar year estate pays its administration expenses, including attorneys' fees and executors' fees, in December and then distributes everything and terminates in January, you won't be able to claim the deduction because the expenses were not paid in the last taxable period of the estate. What should be done is to pay all of the expenses in December and terminate the estate in December or else don't pay any of the expenses until January of the following year and terminate the estate in the following year.

Manufactures At $25 Billion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bank of California says the states manufactures increased slightly in February to $25.19 billion, but were 1.45 per cent below the same month a year ago.

The bank reported Thursday, the state's manufacturing industries were now in better shape than at any point during the 1969-70 recession.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Union Branches To Be Purchased

The Union Bank in downtown San Rafael, which already has undergone name changes from Lincoln National to Commonwealth to Union in the past two or three years, may soon undergo another.

California Canadian Bank has announced an agreement whereby it will purchase from Union four of its Northern California branches for an undisclosed purchase price.

The branches are at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, San Rafael, Santa Rosa and Pleasant Hill. The agreement is subject to approval of bank regulatory authorities.

BROADWAY-HALE STORES, INC. and Bergdorf Goodman, 70-year old New York fashion store, have agreed in principle on a merger. Bergdorf Goodman would become a division of Broadway-Hale under its present management and staff. Broadway-Hale has reported sales of $662 million for the 52 weeks ended Jan. 30. This compares with $639 million for the preceding 52 weeks. Net earnings were $23 million compared to $22 million for the preceding year.

LONGS DRUG STORES announced a 15.5-per cent increase in earnings and a 17-per cent increase in sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31. It has also planned to increase its quarterly dividend from 16 to 20 cents per share. Net earnings for the year were $5.9 million or $2.30 per share, compared with $5.1 million or $2 per share the previous year.

GOODYEAR RUBBER CO., a 98-year old San Francisco manufacturer of custom industrial rubber products, has been acquired by Barnhart-Morrow Consolidated of Southern California. Goodyear Rubber has no connection with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio. The San Francisco company bought rights to the name fromthe family of Charles Goodyear, inventor of vulcanization, in 1872.

LEVI STRAUSS AND CO., San Francisco, which had its first public stock offering early this month, has reported first quarter consolidated sales and earning up 22.9 and 34.3 per cent respectively. Earnings were $4.2 million or 44 cents a share on sales of $79 million. Last year for the comparable quarter ended Feb. 28, earnings were $3.1 million or 33 cents per share on sales of 64 million.

MOTORISTS' HABIT PERSISTS

Widespread Fighting In Rebel W. Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Civil war broke out today in East Pakistan and East Pakistani leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman declared his province's independence from West Pakistan. Pakistani President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan declared him a traitor and ordered his army to crush the revolt.

Indian news agencies said there were heavy casualties in the fighting in Dacca, Chittagong and other East Pakistani cities. Diplomatic reports said there were antigovernment outbreaks in Karachi and other West Pakistan cities in support of the Rahman forces.

(In Washington, the State Department said it had no immediate plans to evacuate the 850 American citizens from East Pakistan. Of these Americans, 200 are U.S. government employes and their dependents. Officials said they had received no reports which would indicate the U.S. citizens might be endangered.)

Yahya Khan, in a nationwide broadcast heard in neighboring India, imposed press censorship throughout Pakistan and ordered the end of all political activity including that by Rahman's Awami League which won a majority in Parliament in the December general elections.

The broadcast, monitored in Agartala, the capital of India's Union Territory of Tripka, by the Press Trust of India, said the Sheikh declared the 75 million people of East Pakistan as citizens of the Sovereign Independent Bangla Desh.

Radio Pakistan, in a news broadcast before the speech by President Yahya Khan, said the army had won control of the situation in the East. But other reports by Indian news agencies said the East Pakistani forces were still battling the West Pakistani troops who outnumbered them 7 to 2.

East Pakistan was cut off from the world and word of the reported civil war came from radio broadcasts and from news reports trickling across the border into India.

In a broadcast to the nation, Yahya Khan announced he was suspending all political activities and imposing press censorship throughout Pakistan. He said he had ordered his troops "to do their duty fully and restore the authority of the government."

He branded East Pakistani leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman as a traitor, accused him of unleashing a reign of terror in East Pakistan, including murders, and said his own aim remained the same: "To transfer power to the representatives of the people as soon as the situation permits."

Any civil war would be an uneven battle. West Pakistan has a garrison of 60,000 troops in East Pakistan and Indian reports said 10,000 more troops had landed from six ships. Arrayed against them were a force of 18,000 East Pakistan Rifles, a few thousand police and civilian volunteers hurriedly armed with weapons smuggled in from unknown sources.

The reported civil war was a continuation of political troubles that have plagued Pakistan since it became independent on Aug. 15, 1947. Riots and public disturbances led to imposition of military rule under President Mohammed Ayub Khan in 1958. More disturbances — and a war with India — led to Yahya Khan taking over the presidency on March 25, 1969.

It was Yahya Khan's postponement of the meeting of the National Assembly to draft a new constitution that led to the present rebellion in East Pakistan. Sheikh Rahman's Awami League Political Party won an absolute majority in the Pakistani Parliament in elections last December on a platform of self-rule.

Rahman's forces called general strikes and there were a number of civil disturbances and demands that East Pakistan handle its own foreign trade and foreign aid programs.

Today an Indian news agency, said authoritative reports reaching Calcutta said there had been clashes at several places and civil war had broken out. Other Indian reports said there were heavy fighting in Dacca and several other cities, but gave no source.

The West Pakistan army seized Radio Dacca, formerly used by Rahman, and he turned to a clandestine radio broadcast to appeal to his people to resist enemy forces at any cost.

Saigon May Mount New Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnam dispatched the vanguard of 2,770 reinforcements to the Khe Sanh area on the Laotian border today. There were strong hints of a new attack against the North Vietnamese who shelled the base again today from positions inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

President Nguyen Van Thieu, opening his reelection campaign in Long Xuyen, said the recent Laotian incursion "still continues," an indication of further South Vietnamese attacks.

The U.S. Command disclosed today that about 20 U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets attacked a Communist surface-to-air (SAM) missile site one mile inside Laos from North Vietnam and one mile west of the DMZ on Thursday. This followed by three days a major U.S. strike against SAM sites and "related facilities" in North Vietnam.

While the first of the South Vietnamese reinforcements arrived, the Communists hit Khe Sanh late today with 40 rounds of 85 millimeter artillery, the 10th consecutive day of shelling there. The Americans were dismantling their landing strips there and a front dispatch today said they were blowing up a huge helicopter pad used by the choppers which operated in the Laos campaign.

Saigon's official military spokesman said he had no reports of the North Vietnamese building up troop strength in the DMZ but said there were "some artillery...some guns and other things in the DMZ."

All but a handful of the 24,000 South Vietnamese troops who crossed into Laos Feb. 8 returned to South Vietnam earlier this week, including some who were chased out by North Vietnamese tanks. There were indications of a North Vietnamese buildup around Khe Sanh and field reports said eight Americans were killed and seven wounded in new action around the outpost.

U.S. Air Force transport planes ferried the South Vietnamese reinforcements — battle tested marines—into the base in South Vietnam's northwest corner from rear areas. They replaced U.S. units which had supported the Laos thrust, officially named "Lam Som 719" by Saigon headquarters.

"Operation Lam Som 719 still continues," Thieu said in a speech in the Mekong River Delta.

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters reported that American aircraft losses in the final stage of the Laos campaign and strikes in North Vietnam and Cambodia were the highest since the spring of 1968 during a big Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

Figures released by headquarters listed 55 aircraft lost in the week ended last Wednesday, 22 of them in Laos

Calley Jury Still Out In Deliberation's 10th Day

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The jury in the murder court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley dampened speculation it was near a verdict today by beginning a detailed study of the mechanics of the massacre at My Lai.

The six-officer panel called for five different colored grease pencils and a map overlay of the My Lai area, and apparently used the materials in a painstaking reconstruction od the various troop movements through My Lai.

Calley remained at his bachelor apartment during the day and his defense attorney, George W. Latimer, said he hadn't been in touch with him.

"I don't like to call him," Latimer said. "You know—that phone rings ... it's almost like being on death row."

The jurors have appeared grim-faced at different times during the deliberations, but they seemed in a happier mood today. They could be seen smiling and joking among themselves when they broke for lunch.

This was the 10th day the jurors have had the case, and the defense has become openly restless.

When told the jurors had asked for a map overlay of the My Lai area Latimer commented: "I hope their drawings are sharp, precise and hurried."

The overlay was for prosecution exhibit No. 4, a huge blown-up aerial photograph of the hamlet of My Lai 4 where Calley is charged with ordering, presiding over and participating in a slaughter of 102 Vietnamese civilians on March 16, 1968.

The jury apparently was ready to make a detailed and painstaking reconstruction of the Army's infantry sweep through My Lai, the testimony about where killings occurred, and the facts to be believed.

The jury, which started deliberating Wednesday of last week, had made no request for additional information Thursday, touching off speculation it might render a verdict shortly.

"It's possible," said Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the military judge, of a verdict shortly. But then he added that he would wait until Monday to push them a little, if they hadn't delivered.

"It's possible," said defense counsel George W. Latimer. But then he added: "My timing has not been right on anything in this case. I'm the one who expected a verdict in three days at the most."

"Nope —don't think so," said Capt. Aubrey M. Daniel, the prosecutor. He shook his head in firm emphasis.

The government has asked the jury to find Calley guilty as charged, which would make a penalty of death or life imprisonment mandatory.

Building Industry Making Comeback

By JEFF GREER

Marin's construction industry is waking up after a drowsy 1970.

One reason may be that a presidential election is on the horizon. Declining prime interest rates and financial firms "loaded with money" also were cited as probable causes by spokesmen in the building, real estate and financial fields in Marin. To say nothing of the fact that Marin's percentage of vacant dwelling units is less than half what it was a decade ago, and the pressure for new housing is increasing.

Marin's residential building permits for January and February totaled $7.1 million, according to figures compiled by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. The comparable total for the first two months of 1970 was only $4 million.

Novato has issued building permits for 110 residential units so far this year, leading the parade with a total value just under $2.8 million. Corte Madera town officials reported they expect work to begin on at least 600 new units in coming months.

Mill Valley's planners and other officials turned down several high-density dwelling plans in recent months, but are expected soon to approve a 203-apartment project near Richardson Bay.

Alameda Homes, owner of the 700-acre Sartori Ranch in southeastern Novato, is expected to submit plans leading to some $8 million in townhouses this year or early in 1972. The development is planned for an ultimate value of $80 million over a decade.

The slump in Marin's building pace during 1970 saw building permit totals fall to half the value for 1969 — but the 1971

Headliner Award For Jim Kean

I-J Special Report

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The National Headliners Club award for best spot news photography went today to Jim Kean of the Independent-Journal for a series of pictures on last summer's shoot-out at the Marin Hall of Justice.

The pictures recorded the Aug. 7 kidnapping of Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court, then Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas and three women jurors by a group of San Quentin inmates and their 17-year-old accomplice.

Haley, two of the convicts and their accomplice were killed and Thomas was seriously wounded in a resulting shoot-out with authorities outside the Hall of Justice.

The award is the second national honor accorded Kean's photographs. Last November, the pictures won first place in the monthly competition of the National Press Photographer's Association.

Collection Of Ferry Fares Draws Attack

Charges of bad management in collecting ferry fares were leveled today at a high-tempered meeting of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Director Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco, often at odds with Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring, complained that tickets had been stolen several times from the Sausalito ferry and that passengers often managed to ride without paying fares.

Luehring immediately insisted that there had been only one incident of theft and that new procedures had assured toll collection from passengers.

Luehring's assurances angered Lerer, who said "it annoys the britches out of me" to claim there are no problems. "Who are you trying to kid," Lerer said to Luehring.

Lerer declared that Luehring's assurance "insults the intelligence of every member of the board." Lerer then moved to transfer all jurisdiction over ferryboat fares to district auditor Gordon E. Dahlgren. He later temporarily withdrew the motion and called a special meeting behind closed doors for 9:30 a.m. next Friday.

The District's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, said the closed session would be legal because of the charges made.

Luehring, apparently feeling that some of the directors suspected ferry crews of mishandling fares, said, "we've got honest people and they're quite upset as I am at this sort of report."

Luehring, whose report to the board today included an item on the theft last month of 30 tickets, said that the incident had been reported the next day by the crew to Dahlgren's office.

Dahlgren, however, said, "that's not true,; that's a lie. There was no report made to me at any time."

The charges came before the board's finance-auditing committee, which will discuss the issue at next week's closed meeting.

Heavy Rain Hits Marin, S. Sonoma; More Seen

Heavy rain pelted Marin and Southern Sonoma counties overnight, with more than two inches reported in some areas.

Although the sun peeked through the clouds this morning, rain was expected to resume with a 60 per cent chance of rain tonight and 40 per cent chance tomorrow.

Ross recorded 2.34 inches of rain in the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today, followed by Larkspur with 2.25 inches; Woodacre, 2.09; Tamalpais Valley, 1.95; San Anselmo 1.86, and Sausalito with 1.85.

In the same period, Mill Valley recorded 1.72; Fairfax, 1.6; Santa Venetia, 1.56; Tiburon, 1.53; Bolinas and Belvedere, both 1.52, and Point Reyes Station, 1.5.

Nixons Deluged With Wedding Offers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon says she has been deluged by letters from persons across the country who want to provide the music and flowers for her daughter's June wedding to Harvard law student Edward Finch Cox.

She told reporters Thursday she was surprised at the public interest in the wedding, adding "it's amazing how romance is still so much a part of our lives."

JUST PLAIN TALK IS A WAY TO BRIDGE THE GAP

Parents and eighth graders of Kent Junior High School have been discovering that a good way to reach each other is through a no-holds-barred rap session. Small groups of students and parents met last Wednesday night and the week before in separate rooms and discussed the problems paramount in the students' minds: sex, parent relationships, ecology, drugs, sibling rivalry and world events. Later, comparing notes on their "night at Generation Gap," one student seated on the gymnasium floor remarked: "It's the first time I have really been able to tell an adult what I wanted to without being put down . . . " The parents, seated in chairs behind the students, were also surprised at the level of the eighth graders understanding.

Forum Due For Mayoral Candidates

Candidates vying for San Rafael mayor and city council posts are scheduled to express their views at a candidates' night at 8 p.m. April 14 in the council chambers at city hall.

Participants will include incumbent mayor C. Paul Bettini and his opponent, Richard Alan Raznikov, as well as incumbent councilmen Fred S. Jensen and John A. Miskimen and challengers George S. Burton, Thomas R. O'Tolle, Don J. Urquhart and Benjamin F. Walton.

Helene Guinther, chairman of the committee of the League of Women Voters, Central Marin, which is sponsoring the event along with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, said that candidates will be asked to answer the question, "How To Increase Citizen Participation in City Government."

The answers will be included in a brochure to be handed out at the meeting, she said.

Candidates will also discuss transportation, regional cooperation and housing and will answer questions from the audience.

Population Problems On Larkspur Agenda

The environmental and economic impact of future population growth in Larkspur will be the central theme of the city's second Town Meeting slated for May 1.

According to Joan Sestak, chairman of the Town Meeting, the meeting will follow the same general format as the last but will concentrate on population growth and density, preservation of open spaces, traffic circulation and park development.

She said the group, following an introductory session, will divide itself into four groups to discuss the city's expected growth.

The workshop dealing with population growth and density, she said, will study the relationship between growth and costs to the community.

Traffic will be studied to determine where and how commuter traffic should be funneled through Larkspur.

Other workshops will deal with preservation of open space in the city and development of additional parks.

"Since the topics to be discussed involve problems that are countywide we have invited people from throughout Marin to participate in the meeting," Mrs. Sestak said.

Like the last meeting, she continued, recommendations developed in the workshops will be voted upon by the general assembly and forwarded to city agencies.

The meeting will be held at Henry Hall School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Kennedy On Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says the U.S.-supported Laos operation turned into a humiliating setback as part of pursuit of "the phantom of military victory" in Southeast Asia.

Kennedy told a gathering Thursday of party state chairmen—at a gathering to map strategy for the 1972 effort to unseat Nixon—that "the time to end the war is now and we must carry that message to every corner of the land."

Further meetings were held today along with smaller gatherings by commissions charged with drawing up plans for the 1972 convention.

Hope For SALT

VIENNA (UPI)—The United States held out hope today of eventual progress at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) despite reports of growing Soviet reluctance to do business.

The fourth working session of the Vienna round of SALT was being held today in the U.S. embassy.

Diplomatic sources said the Soviet SALT team has run into military opposition within the Kremlin and increased fears of China and is under orders to agree to nothing beyond a possible "token" pact in the foreseeable future.

Peaceful Power

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists today applied new tests to what they say is the first power plant anywhere that can turn atomic energy directly into electricity.

The Soviet Union announced the innovation Thursday and proclaimed it a major triumph for Soviet science in the atoms-for-peace field—"a world first."

But Western scientific reaction to the vaguely worded announcement ranged from downright skepticism to tentative admiration. The scientists said they did not understand just what the Soviets had created or how it differed from Western experiments in the same area.

Gambling Counts

MIAMI (UPI) —Reputed Mafia mastermind Meyer Lansky and Miami Beach hotel owner Morris Lansburgh were among five persons indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of illegal gambling in connection with the Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

A grand jury returned the indictments against Lansky, who recently moved from Miami Beach to Tel Aviv, Israel, and Lansburgh, Miami Beach's biggest hotel operator.

Lansky also was indicted Wednesday on a contempt charge for failing to appear before the grand jury. Federal Judge James Lawrence King set bond at $200,000 on the contempt charge.

Indicted with Lansky and Lansburgh on the illegal gambling charge were Samuel Cohen, 44, both of Las Vegas, and the Flamingo Co., which operated the Flamingo Hotel from 1969-67.

Each was charged with one count of conspiring to engage in illegal gambling activity and to conceal and distribute proceeds from the hotel, both in violation of Nevada law.

Budget Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's budget for the fiscal year that ends June 30 shows a $19.38 billion deficit through the first eight months.

The report issued Thursday by the Treasury Department showed the current deficit to be more than double the $8.15 billion the government was running in the red during the first eight months of the last fiscal year.

April and June are usually the best months of the year for the government's revenue collectors, however. A year ago, the deficit was trimmed by $5.3 billion in the final four months of the fiscal year.

Kidnaper Hunt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —A gunman kidnaped the 14-year-old son of a college professor Thursday night and held him captive until four pictures of "stark naked women" were removed from an exhibit at the Memphis Academy of Arts.

The boy, Eddie Batey, was released unharmed after his father, Dr. Richard A. Batey, confirmed on television and radio that the pictures had been taken down by academy officials.

Additional police details searched the city early this morning for the kidnaper, who had disguised himself in a wig and false beard. The wig and whiskers were found abandoned near the Batey home.

New War Talk

The editor of the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today another war in the Middle East is inevitable.

Mohamed Hassanein Heikal said in his weekly column a new war "will be long, fierce and complicated, but we have no alternative to accept its risks."

He said "war with Israel is inevitable now" because of Israel's expansionist policies and its refusal to leave room for diplomatic action that could lead to peace."

Heikal added that Egyptian strategy has been to involve the Soviet Union in the Middle East in an effort to offset any intervention on behalf of Israel by the United States or Britain. As a result, he said, "the Soviet Union now finds itself in a similar situatioon to 1956" when Moscow warned Britain and France it would intervene militarily unless they withdrew troops from Egypt.

Annexation To Be Eyed Tuesday

Annexation possibilities will be considered by the Terra Linda Recreation Park District board, the community services district board and San Rafael city officials at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the community center on Del Ganado Road.

The meeting is the first of three scheduled before any annexation measure could be submitted to Terra Linda voters.

Court Strikes Down State Welfare Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The State Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Gov. Ronald Reagan's cuts in welfare violate state law.

The court held that action by the legislature is necessary to carry out any percentage reduction in welfare payments.

The ruling affects 400,000 families and the state's billion dollar welfare program, increasing welfare costs by millions of dollars.

The state administration can legally establish maximum payments allowed welfare recipients, but cannot limit payments to a percentage of the recipient's determined need, the court said.

In the emergency regulations issued last November, the Welfare Department adjusted its maximums upwards in order to comply with federal law, but also imposed a payment limit of 69 per cent of the determined need.

The department contended that it had to do this in order to stay within the budget. The resulting cuts were challenged by groups representing welfare recipients.

The state supreme court, acting unanimously only three weeks after taking up the issue, said it was aware that restoring the aid payments to their previous levels might endanger the budget. But it said this was the legislature's problem, not the court's.

Providing for generous welfare payments and at the same time limiting the budget, the court said, "the legislature has failed to lay down directives providing authority to reconcile these various instructions when, as here, they appear to conflict."

California had been ordered cut from federal welfare grants because of non-compliance with federal regulations in the November revision of welfare rules. However, a temporary extension was granted at the request of Gov. Ronald Reagan pending outcome of the cases decided yesterday.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling to which the state court referred held that a state can either impose a dollar ceiling on welfare or a percentage of need. The state court said, however, a percentage-of-need formula is not legal under state laws.

In attempting to impose the percentage reduction the state welfare director exercised powers which belonged to the legislature, the court said.

"We are unable to discern in any of the provisions of the 1970 budget act a legislative intent to bestow upon the director of social welfare the power to convert the California plan from one of payment of full need but subject to a schedule of maximums into a plan for payment of full need but subject to a per cent reduction system," the opinion said.

The ruling said California has "at no time operated a per cent reduction plan and in our view the conversion to such a plan would require a clear expression of intent by the legislature."

The court also struck down the regulation establishing $44.45 per person as a monthly statewide standard of need. It said the legislature intended that the standard of need must be "adapted to prices of the area in which the recipient resides."

The California welfare cuts had come under federal criticism because they did not take into account cost-of-living increases over the years.

A federal judge last year ruled the changes disqualified the state for millions of dollars in federal welfare money. But the federal government later agreed to hold off any action until the court's decision.

New Detection For Oil Slicks

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI)— Oil slicks can be detected and their size determined from an aircraft using a new method developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The Ames Research Center said Thursday the sensing devices may be carried by satellite and could detect slicks resulting from spills of both heavy and light crude oils and light diesel oil.

$11,000 Paid For Kennedy's Famous Quote

NEW YORK (UPI)—The quotation "And so, my fellow Americans: Ask not what your country can do for you —ask what you can do for your country," written and signed by John F. Kennedy, was sold at auction Thursday night for $11,000.

The hand-written document sold for the highest price ever paid for a presidential document except for those written by George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

Kennedy wrote the 22-word quotation, which he used in his inaugural address, on White House stationery.

Dr. Maury A. Bromsen, a Boston dealer, bought the object at a sale conducted by Charles Hamilton Galleries. At the auction price, Bromsen paid $500 per word.

Two Alternatives To Welfare Quandry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chairman William T. Bagley of the Assembly Welfare Committee has proposed two alternatives for bringing California into conformity with federal welfare regulations and preventing the state's loss of about $700 million in federal funds.

Bagley said yesterday's state Supreme Court decision requires legislative action "at once to bring California's AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) program into conformity with federal law."

The San Rafael Republican said if the legislature does not act swiftly, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare may "no longer lelay its legal obligation to discontinue federal grants-in-aid to California for the AFDC program."

One alternative would allow Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration to institute a "rateable reduction" system which would mean that as the AFDC caseload increased the amount of money given individual welfare families would decrease.

"The second alternative proposes to adopt the 'flat grant' theory advocated by the governor in his major welfare reform package, said Bagley.

Bagley amended the alternatives into two "spot" bills he introduced earlier in the year. Bagley said a hearing on the bills is scheduled for March 31.

However, the lawmaker said eithr proposal would be "temporary solutions."

Public Excluded From Hearing In Napa Murder

ST. HELENA (UPI)—A judge ordered the public excluded Thursday from the preliminary hearing in the case of a Napa County woodcutter accused of the murder of a 20-year-old Pacific Union College coed.

St. Helena Judicial District Judge David York closed the hearing to the public and news media at the request of the defense lawyer for Watler Boyd Williams.

Williams is accused of murdering Linda Kanes, whose body was found near a rural road in Napa County.

Judge York said that since most of the evidence introduced in the preliminary hearing is unfavorable to the defendant "widespread prejudice to the defendant can develop if evidence is given widespread publicity ... in a county as small as this."

Report Asks Protection Of Lagoon

Marin County should protect Bolinas Lagoon from pollution, motorboating or any major development because it is a "precious jewel" where man and nature can still meet in quiet communion.

That was the message presented yesterday in a 37-page report by The Conservation Foundation of Washington, D.C.

David W. Walker, senior planning associate for The Conservation Foundation, supervised and prepared the Bolinas Lagoon report. The study was financed by grants from the Ford Foundation.

Walker met at the Civic Center with about 20 representatives of Marin's conservation groups. He said the conservation study concentrated on the preservation of environment and not on comprehensive planning for the future of the lagoon.

Walker warned that the lagoon's aging process has been speeded up by logging and excavations. Unless countermeasures are taken, the lagoon will become a marshy meadow, said Walker.

He listed these recommendations for the lagoon:

1. Halt sewage pollution by waste-treatment facilities and either an ocean outfall line or a recycling system whereby treated effluent can be returned to the soil.

2. Don't build on the central slopes of Bolinas Ridge or the sandspit because they lie along the San Andreas fault.

3. Limit recreation use to fishing, nature study, canoeing and sailing, photography, painting, hiking, cycling, and picnicking.

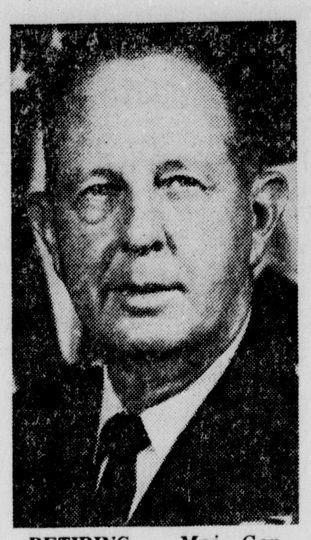
4. Prohibit motorboats and hunting. Continue the county's ban against logging on the ridges above the lagoon.

5. Restrict land development because disturbance of natural vegetation increases sedimentation and shortens the life of the lagoon.

6. Protect the over-harvesting of shellfish by designating the lagoon and Duxbury Reef as a state ecological preserve.

7. Establish a Marin Environmental Conservation Center for nature education, in conjunction with the Audubon Canyon Ranch, College of Marin Bolinas Marine Station, and the Point Reyes Bird Observatory.

The report also stressed that the lagoon should not be opened up as a harbor of refuge.



RETIRING — Maj. Gen. Richard W. Whitney, deputy commander of the Sixth Army, whose command includes Forts Baker, Cronkite, and Barry in Marin County, will retire Tuesday after 36 years of military service. He and Mrs. Whitney will make their home in South Carolina.

Judge Reduces Count In Father's Slaying

A Marin Superior Court judge ruled yesterday that Ronald Rivas, 21, was guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of his father at their Novato home in 1969.

Rivas had been charged with murder, but Judge Thomas F. Keating opted for the lesser offense, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Rivas is scheduled to be sentenced Monday, although sentencing will probably be delayed by defense motions.

Keating's decision was based on testimony given during a three-week trial last August and on briefs submitted by prosecution and defense attorneys.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony had described how the family had been entertaining visitors and singing on the night of the shooting.

During the trial, Rivas related how he took his brother's gun out of a dresser drawer, loaded it, took off the safety and cocked it before confronting his father.

"I knew I wanted to protect my mother," he said.

Anthony said Rivas returned to the kitchen and fired four shots at his father, hitting him with three of them. The elder Rivas was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital.

Defense attorney Robert R. Carrow had cited "unbelievable brutality" toward the family by the father and said that Rivas had repeatedly tried to protect his mother from the father's violence.

The August trial began with jury selection, but both sides waived trial by jury during its first day and the trial proceeded before Judge Keating.

Black Caucus Leader Is Cautious On Nixon Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. William Clay, D-Mo., said today President Nixon has a "below zero" standing among American Negroes and that only time would tell whether a White House conference with black congressmen Thursday would change "devastating effects" of administration policies.

Clay is a leader of the Black Caucus, composed of the 13 Negro members of the House all Democrats—who met 95 minutes with Nixon and handed him a list of 60 recommendations for improving the economic and social conditions of minorities.

Of the meeting, Clay said: "He listened. We don't know if he heard, but he listened. I think time will tell whether he listened, and heard ... and understood."

Clay was interviewed on the CBS-TV Morning News program.

Nixon's standing in the black community, Clay said, "is now not at zero, but below zero ... He's in the minus column now." He said whether that changes depends on the President's response to the Black Caucus's requests for actions to alter "the devastating effects that policies of this administration have had on our 25 million blacks."

Clay said that during a two-way exchange, the congressmen expressed their concern about policies in many areas, such as unemployment and education, involving blacks.

He said "I think perhaps he was surprised" when the congressmen questioned the relevancy to blacks of Nixon's expressed hope of getting national unemployment down from 6 per cent.

Clay said that was "totally meaningless" to blacks when joblessness among them was about 18 per cent, with the rate among teen-agers running at 42 per cent.

8 Pct. Pay Hike Sought At College

The College of Marin faculty salaries committee has presented three proposals aimed at increasing teacher pay next year by at least 8 per cent.

In a document presented to the Marin Junior College District board Tuesday, teachers suggested two possible new salary schedules or a flat 8 per cent increase for all instructors.

The first salary schedule alternative asks for a maximum base salary of $13,500 per year for an instructor with ten years experience but no college units beyond a bachelor of arts degree. For each unit beyond that degree, the instructor would be entitled to $32 per year more.

Thus an instructor with 10 years experience and 100 post-graduate units would earn $16,700 plus an additional $400 if he holds a masters degree and $800 if he holds a doctorate.

Currently a 10-year instructor earns $13,515 base and $15,186 at the top of his scale (a masters degree plus 60 additional units). A $500 supplement is given Ph. D holders.

Under the proposal, first year instructors' pay ranges from $9,000 to $12,200 dependent on the number of post-graduate units.

Currently, first year instructors earn from $9,002 to $10,672 per year.

The teachers say if this schedule were adopted it would mean a budget increase of $165,000 next fiscal year and would be a 6.5 per cent salary increase. However, the teachers add, since the increase in only 6.5 per cent they want an across-the-board increase to bring the total to 8 per cent.

The second proposed schedule is about the same as the first except it sets the 10-year maximum base at $14,539 plus $32 per unit earned over the bachelors degree.

It would cost the district about $215,000 more next fiscal year and would be an 8.5 per cent salary increase.

The teachers say if the second proposal is accepted, they will not ask for any additional across-the-board increase next year.

"Or," their document states, "we could forget the whole thing (schedule change) and go for an 8 per cent on the current structure."

Jerome B. York, a business instructor and head of the salary committee, said today the two salary schedules were proposed to eliminate gaps in the schedule used now.

He emphasized the cost figures used were only rough estimates developed by his committee.

That schedule, he said, is broken into four ranges: bachelor degree with less than 28 units, masters with 28 units; masters plus 30 units or bachelors plus 60 units, and masters plus 60 units or bachelors plus 90 units.

Thus, he said, an instructor with a masters and 59 units is paid the same as one with a masters and 30 units.

The board, which did not delve into the proposals Tuesday, is expected to schedule another workshop in about three weeks, according to Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent.

ASIA

The total of 55 was the highest since the week ended June 18, 1968, when 101 American aircraft were lost.

At Khe Sanh, UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported officers decided today not to dismantle the 360,000 square-foot helicopter assault pad used for the 600 choppers involved in supporting the Laotian operation and ordered GIs to "blow it up" instead. However, dismantling of two 1,300-foot aluminimum-matted runways for fixed-wing planes continued.

The C130 transport planes that brought the vanguard of a 2,770-man South Vietnamese regiment to Khe Sanh took off again filled with equipment that had been used by the Americans while there. The exodus of U.S. personnel at the base also continued.

Only one rocket was fired into Khe Sanh by the Communists today, field reports said, but heavy North Vietnamese shelling was underway in areas along Highway 9 to the west.

U.S. military spokesmen said Air Force F4 Phantom jets Thursday bombed and strafed a North Vietnamese surface-to-air (SAM) missile complex inside Laos near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) but the results of the raid were not immediately determined.

In one attack Communist troops ambushed an American patrol, killing five GIs and wounding one before the Americans called in support. Three Americans were killed and six wounded when North Vietnamese attacked a U.S. armored patrol 15 miles northeast of Khe Sanh. An armored personnel carrier also was destroyed.

The U.S. Command said today officers were keeping a close watch on Communist activity in the northern half of Vietnam's Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Under American rules of engagement, U.S. troops are forbidden to fire on Communist troops in North Vietnam's half of the Zone unless the North Vietnamese fire first, military sources said.

But the sources would not rule out a possible attack which the U.S. military terms "protective reaction" against newly built artillery and rocket sites in the six-mile wide DMZ.

Diplomatic reports reaching London, meanwhile, said massive new Soviet and Communist Chinese arms shipments recently have reached North Vietnam and more are under way.

The shipments include automatic weapons, heavy armor and rockets. They were designed to make up partly for the losses suffered by the North Vietnamese during the American action in Cambodia and currently by the American-backed South Vietnamese action in Laos, the reports said.

The flow of arms from Moscow slowed down considerably last year and the year before, but it has been resumed fully following the new developments in the Southeast Asia conflict and the specific American decision to destroy Hanoi's arms depots and supplies in Cambodia and along the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos, the reports said.

It is the Communist losses in Cambodia which were said to have set off pressing Hanoi demands for more arms from its two big power allies.

More arms also were said to have been required for the buildup of Hanoi's positions along the Demilitarized Zone in Vietnam. Some of the arms supplied more recently also have gone apparently to that area.

Hanoi negotiated new Russian arms—as well as other aid—in special talks with the Kremlin in Moscow and through diplomatic channels in Hanoi, both preceding and following the Moscow negotiations, the diplomatic reports said.

than a dozen awards since joining the I-J photo department nine years ago, was one of 28 winners in newspaper, radio, television and special categories announced today by the Headliners Club.

The award for "best domestic news feature by a team" was won by Lucinda L. Franks and Thomas M. Powers of United Press International for their series "The Making of a Terrorist."

The series, which appeared in the Independent-Journal last September, examined the background of Diana Oughton, one of the persons who died in the explosion of a Manhattan townhouse a year ago.

Medals commemorating the awards will be presented the winners during the National Headliners' annual meeting here April 16-17.

The Headliners Club was organized in 1934 by the press club of Atlantic City. It announces the Headliner awards annually to bring attention to the best efforts of journalists in all media, "to honor those behind the news."

Fairfax Planners Move On Creeks

Fairfax Planning Commission members approved a watercourse ordinance last night, and asked the city council to budget for a master plan on Fairfax creeks.

The master plan would provide guidelines for construction involving watercourses, commission chairman E. Ross Parkerson explained. The ordinance, now passed to the council for adoption, would require action by the design review board and planning commission to secure permits for bulkheads or any construction affecting creeks, or removing any trees in the flood plain of any creek, Parkerson said.

The planning commission also granted a zoning permit to Tony Juliano for a coffee shop at 58 Bolinas Road.

Directors Against Abolition

Golden Gate Bridge District directors looked into the mirror this morning and liked what they saw.

At issue was a requirement by the California Legislature that they recommend how the district could be abolished. The recommendation must be part of the long-range transit plan the district is due to submit to the Legislature by next Friday.

The directors' statement drafted to be included in the plan strongly defended the district as the most appropriate agency to do the job, and said that no other existing governmental agency had the power and experience to handle transportation in the Golden Gate corridor.

But if the Legislature insisted on abolishing the district, the statement said, then the Legislature should create "another governmental agency with almost identical structure and power."

The directors, however, balked at giving final approval to galley proofs of the plan, and set another meeting to go over them at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The language of the plan, totalling some 40 pages of galley proofs, had never been reviewed by the board until parts of it were read to them today.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, said that the language was "simply a compilation of previous actions by the board." An outline of the plan was adopted by the board two weeks ago, but it was left to the staff to draft the final language.

The plan calls for a $301 million bus rapid transit system using tunnels in San Francisco and second deck on the bridge.

Directors decided to go over the galley proofs after discovering that the staff had used the word "second deck" instead of "transit deck." Several directors objected that the staff's words would give the public the wrong impression since the second deck would be reserved to transit.

Director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley objected that it would be "like signing a blank check" if the board were to approve the staff language without review.

Copies of the galleys were to be provided directors later today.

$1,800 Worth Of Burglaries In San Rafael

Burglaries of more than $1,800 in merchandise and cash from three San Rafael businesses were reported to police yesterday.

Burglars took approximately $1,600 in antiques and cash from the Northgate Park Antique Shop at 4240 Redwood Highway between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 10 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Tires and tools valued at $157 were stolen about 11:45 p.m. Wednesday from Lynch and Sons Automotive Co. of 722 West Francisco Boulevard, police said.

Burglars took $100 from Kaiser Permanente of 1930 Fourth Street between 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday, police said.

Sunnyhills Boys Admit Bomb Call, Police Report

Two Sunnyhills School youths were taken into police custody yesterday after investigation for curfew violation disclosed they were responsible for bomb threats against three schools.

Both youths, 14 and 16 years of age, were released to Sunnyhills officials, San Anselmo police said.

Officers said they received three calls from the youths between 1:25 and 1:27 a.m. saying bombs were set to go off at Sir Francis Drake High School, Red Hill and Isabel Cook schools.

The boys were picked up walking city streets at about 1:30 a.m. and later admitted making the calls.

San Rafael City Council To Meet

The San Rafael City Council scheduled a special meeting for 5:30 p.m. today in city hall in order to adopt a resolution providing for the sale of $1,105,000 sewer bonds approved by voters last June.

Part of the work to be done with the bond money is aimed at correcting the annual problem of sewage boiling out of manholes in lower areas of the city during storms.

BUILDING

rebound may exceed the new building of 1969.

David Greenlee, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, said the awakening may be "primarily because of political considerations."

"I doubt that the president is going to go into an election year with a dead building industry," he said.

Despite a recent warning by Bank of America forecasters against "overbuilding" in apartments and similar units in the state, most of Marin's new construction is apartments.

Several architects reported their drawing boards will be fully loaded for six to eight months, with large apartment buildings, townhouses and the like.

This, after the Marin Builders' Exchange "has not built any major apartments for three years," Greenlee said.

Union construction workers and the builders' exchange report a confusing picture on the employment situation. Many men who are small independent contractors during building booms re-enter the labor market themselves when bidding for contracts becomes more competitive and favors larger firms. Thus the number of men in the hiring halls may be unrelated to the number of construction projects at a given time, union members explained.

Marin's real estate sales also are zooming. Daniel F. Deedy, manager of the Marin County Board of Realtors, said his office's records show January and February total multiple listing sales of $15.65 million, up more than 50 per cent from the first two months of 1970.

"I've done better the first two months of 1971 than I did all of 1970," reported one salesman for a Mill Valley real estate office.

"More people are putting their houses on the market."

Several real estate men agreed that not only did high interest rates and "tight money" discourage home buyers last year, but a lack of houses for sale hurt Marin realty offices.

"I don't know why people are suddenly putting houses up for sale now, but they are," the Mill Valley man said. "It's not competition from the new apartments — rents are as high as they ever were."

That may be because county-wide, only 5.1 per cent of Marin's housing units are vacant, compared to 10.8 per cent in 1960. The vacancy rate ranges from a low of 2.7 per cent in Mill Valley, with 2.9 per cent vacancies in Novato and 3.1 per cent in San Rafael, according to chamber of commerce and federal census figures.

Student Teacher's Clarinet Stolen

A clarinet and accessories valued at $554 were stolen yesterday from the car of a student teacher at San Rafael High School, police said.

Charlene F. Wilkerson of Daly City said the instrument was taken from her auto in the school's south parking lot between 7:45 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., according to police.

OBITUARIES

Helen Rowe Rite Set

Memorial service for Helen McLaren Rowe, a teacher in Mill Valley and Marin City in the 1940s and 1950s, will be Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley Community Church. Burial will be in the family plot in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mrs. Rowe died Wednesday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 67.

Born in Brooklyn, Mrs. Rowe lived in Essex Falls, N.J., until she was 12, when she moved with her father and sister to a sheep ranch near Chinook, Mont.

She was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1926 and taught more than 25 years in high schools in Montana and Minnesota and in elementary schools in California.

In 1937 she married Victor H. Rowe, a fellow teacher at Great Falls High School in Montana. They moved to San Francisco in 1943 and to Marin County in 1944.

Mrs. Rowe taught at Park School in Mill Valley and Marin City School, now Manzanita School, from 1945 to 1956, when she retired. Her husband retired in 1965 as head counselor at Tamalpais High School after 21 years as a teacher and counselor.

She was a member of the Gamma Phi Beta International Sorority, the Mill Valley Community Church, Triple C., the Outdoor Art Club and the Sierra Club. She and her husband traveled extensively throughout the United States, Europe and the Far East, and Mrs. Rowe enjoyed many outdoor activities, such as hiking, fishing and horseback riding.

The family requests contributions to the American Cancer Society or a favorite charity.

OLGA WHEELER

Olga Wheeler, a resident of 114 Del Casa Drive, Mill Valley, since 1955, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 82.

She was born in Minnesota and came to California in 1930 with her husband, Elisha Wheeler, a frozen foods salesman. After living briefly in Seattle and San Francisco, they moved to Mill Valley in 1955.

Mrs. Wheeler was a member of the Chi Omega sorority at the University of Washington, Seattle, which she attended two years, and of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Catherine Lincoln and Dorothy W. Ortman, both of Mill Valley, and three grandchildren.

Private service will be held tomorrow, with private burial to follow. The family requests contributions to the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour.

MAX POPKENS

Private funeral for Max Popkens, a Marin resident for about 10 years, was held today in San Anselmo.

Popkens died Wednesday in a local convalescent home after a long illness. He was 77.

A native of Denver, he came to San Francisco as a youth. Popkens worked at B. Mersky and Sons, wholesale tobacco and candy distributors in San Francisco, retiring as credit manager in 1958.

Popkens came to Marin shortly after his retirement but returned to San Francisco for a short stay. He returned in 1969 to reside at the Rafael Convalescent Hospital in Santa Venetia.

He is survived by two daughters, Jane Cooper of San Anselmo and Maxine Cohen of San Francisco; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

DOROTHY CUNNINGHAM

Dorothy Cunningham, a former Larkspur resident and the first woman president of the Marin Mineralogical Society, died yesterday in a San Luis Obispo hospital after a long illness. She was 83.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Cunningham came to Marin shortly after her marriage to Alexander (Sandy) Cunningham in 1909. They resided in Larkspur where Mrs. Cunningham was active in a Larkspur theater group that performed Shakespearean plays. The couple moved to Santa Barbara in the early 1920s but returned to Larkspur in 1953, where Mrs. Cunningham resided until the death of her husband in 1958.

Mrs. Cunningham later moved to San Luis Obispo where she was past president of the Mid-Coast Mineral Club. She was also past president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West of the Santa Barbara Parlor.

She is survived by her son, Alexander Cunningham of Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo County, a daughter, Krille A. Reid of St. Petersburg, Fla.; a sister, Agusta Elizabeth Jepson of Oakland; and a grandson, Kenneth Rowland of San Rafael.

Funeral will be held 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Wood Funeral Chapel in Arroyo Grande. Interment will be at the Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

EDITH LEWIS

Edith Greenough Lewis, 89, of Palo Alto, mother of retired Navy Capt. John G. Lewis of Nicasio, died yesterday in Palo Alto after a long illness.

A native of Southampton, N.Y., she was the wife of the late Edison Lewis.

In addition to Capt. Lewis, she is survived by another son, the Venerable C. Pendleton Lewis, rector of Calvary Church, Stonington, Conn.

The funeral service will be held at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of Grace, Grace Cathedral, San Francisco. Interment will be in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

College Board To Interview Candidates

The Marin Junior College District board, meeting in closed session with its screening committee, last night was given the names of the four top candidates for the position of president of the proposed north campus.

Dr. John A. Grasham, district superintendent, said today the board will begin interviewing the four Monday at 7 p.m. at the county schools office in Corte Madera.

Interviews will continue, he said, on Wednesday at the same time and place followed on Thursday with another meeting with the screening committee to discuss the candidates.

The meetings, including Thursday's at 6:30 p.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall, will be closed.

WINNERS — Ruby A. Myles (left) and Georgia M. Payton of Marin City study with pride and pleasure their Ford Foundation scholarship grant. But the announcement yesterday that they were winners was a mixed blessing; they may not be able to take advantage of the chance to complete their education.

A MIXED BLESSING

Ford Grant No Assurance Of A 'Good Ship Lollipop'

Mention a Ford Foundation scholarship and most Marinites would think of an all-expenses-paid ticket through college for some lucky student.

Not Ruby A. Myles and Georgia M. Payton, each married and the mother of five children. The two College of Marin students who expect to graduate in June were informed yesterday that they have won foundation grants to cover 40 per cent of their educational expenses when they transfer for four-year institutions.

Where does that leave them? Looking for the other 60 per cent of the cost.

Mrs. Myles, 24, and Mrs. Payton, 32, enrolled in the College of Marin in the Spring of 1969. Both have worked for the past two years as educational aides in the Sausalito School District.

Both want to complete their educations, obtain teaching credentials and ultimately — though the job forecast is gloomy — begin careers in primary education in Marin.

One thing stands in their way — money to finish college.

"We're still a long way from home, even though we won the foundation money," said Mrs. Payton, of 275 Drake Avenue, Marin City. "We've been accepted at Dominican College but we just can't afford to go there."

Dominican is their first choice because of its proximity to their homes, but they may be forced to attend another less convenient school — perhaps San Francisco State College — because of the higher cost of the Marin college.

Whether the aspiring teachers go to Dominican — with its $1,300 tuition and fees per year, to San Francisco State, which costs about $500 — the foundation will cover only 40 per cent.

"Without another scholarship or more money from somewhere, we can't even use what we've won. We couldn't continue our schooling," said Mrs. Myles, who lives at 82 Buckelew Street.

A scholarship from Dominican to make up the difference — or part of it — is possible, but competition is keen and funds are few. The women aren't counting on it.

"I don't know how we'll make it," said Mrs. Payton with a slight smiie, "but then, two years ago I didn't see how we'd go this far in school, and look what we've managed to do."

The Ford Foundation grant is part of a new program designed to help minority group members transfer from two-year colleges to four-year programs.

Some 1,009 winners from 417 junior colleges will split $2.1 million between them. The scholarships will cover between 20 and 80 per cent of the students' total cost of attending the final two years of college.

Winners include Black Americans, Mexican-Americans, American Indians and Puerto Ricans.

In addition to Mrs. Myles and Mrs. Payton, four College of Marin students received honorable mention. They are William A. Hinzo of 25 Manzanita Avenue, Fairfax; Rhoda M. Knighten of 681 Del Ganado Drive and Bernard Stewart of 55 Bahia Way, both San Rafael, and Merdic McNair Jr. of 1307 Leafwood Drive, Novato.

The uphill struggle for an education has been hard work for the last two years, both women say. "Working five hours a day, going to the College of Marin and raising five kids takes a lot out of you," said Mrs. Payton.

Why, then, are they willing to endure even more inconvenience and plain hard work to finish their educations?

"I used to be a domestic worker," Mrs. Payton said. "That helped support my family but it was hard work at low pay. By being a teacher I can earn a living and at the same time do something my children can be proud of."

'Zodiac' Resurfaces With Note Boasting Victim 12

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Zodiac," wanted by police for six slayings, has sent another cryptic message hinting about the location of the body of "victim 12."

The boastful killer said earlier this month that he has slain "17-plus" victims and taunted police that he was "crackproof."

The postcard was send to reporter Paul Avery of the San Francisco Chronicle, who received it Monday and turned it over to police. The newspaper made its contents public in today's editions.

Investigators are trying to decipher the note and to decide whether Zodiac does refer to the missing nurse.

Miss Lass disappeared Sept. 6 after leaving a South Lake Tahoe casino where she worked as a nurse.

"From the beginning we have believed she was abducted and is dead," said police chief Ray Lauritzen.

The note was signed with the same cross and circle symbol Zodiac has used on past notes to newspapers and left at the scene of some of his slayings.

Sea Adventurer Postpones Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— British adventurer John Fairfax, who plans to row across the Pacific Ocean in an open boat with a London woman, has postponed his departure until April 2.

The start of the trip from San Francisco Bay originally had been set for today.

Fairfax, 35, figures he and Sylvia Cook, 32, will reach Australia in their 35-foot rowboat in 10 months.

He rowed alone across the Atlantic Ocean from London in six months in 1969.

Innocent Plea In Ignacio Incident

Anthony Bouttie, 21, of Oakland, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of assault with a deadly weapon and robbery.

His brother, Earl Sam Bouttie, 23, also of Oakland, was to have pleaded to the same charges yesterday.

They were arrested Tuesday when a Novato policeman saw them beating an Ignacio service station attendant. The men fled when they saw the policeman, but stopped their car after the officer fired three shotgun blasts.

Heiner To Quit Race For Bolinas Board

Gordon Heiner, candidate for the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, said yesterday he will withdraw from the race.

Heiner, who was running for one of two seats open for a four-year term, said he is dropping out because there are too many candidates with the same ideas.

Bagley Foresees Income Tax Hike

The state of California needs at least $250 million more revenue than provided in Gov. Ronald Reagan's budget, and that means increasing the state income tax, Assemblyman William T. Bagley told a Marin audience last night.

Bagley offered little hope to the Marin County School Boards Association for what they would like most: a big increase in money for the schools. But he said "I will guarantee' that enough additional state money to cover cost inflation — about 5.25 per cent — will be added to school allocations.

The governor, he explained, is required by the state constitution to submit a balanced budget. But to do it, he had to wipe out all inflation factors, reform the welfare system, and transfer $72 million from the State Teachers Retirement Fund to the general fund. This transfer and ignoring inflation are unrealistic, said Bagley, which is why the budget —and the income tax — will be increased.

The Marin-Sonoma assemblyman, speaking at the school trustees' dinner meeting at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio, said a statewide property tax to equalize the funds behind each school child in California is included in a tax package he is preparing for the administration.

Prospects for the package, he said, are ''sort of in Never-Never Land . . . The governor and I are negotiating with the Democrats."

The statewide property tax has little appeal by itself, said Bagley, "because it has no constituency."

What it would do, he explained, is shift part of the schools' property tax to a statewide basis which then could be distributed equally among all districts to wipe out an imbalance which finds some school districts with four times as much money per pupil as others, because of differences in assessed valuation.

Bagley came out strongly for such a tax, which he said he prefers to call an "equalization tax." But state Sen. Peter H. Behr, Marin's other legislator, expressed some reservations.

Behr expressed approval of AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, which would reform the teacher tenure law.

Stull's bill would, among other things, eliminate superior court review of teacher dismissals. It would protect tenured teachers by providing that any attempt to dismiss them be heard by both a state hearing officer and a panel of three educators. If these agreed, their decision would be binding on the school board. if they did not, the board would have final say.

This, said Behr, "seems to be very sensible."

Behr said the much-discussed voucher system "isn't going to go anywhere" although "it really isn't all that eccentric." He pointed out that the GI Bill does the same thing as the voucher plan: gives the student money he can use at any education institution, regardless of whether it is a public or a private one.

Bette Wallace, Tamalpais High School District trustee who was co-chairman of the dinner with Sally Rakow of Ross School District, asked how school trustees can influence the Legislature. Both Bagley and Behr said the best time to do it is between legislative sessions. "Don't expect to come screaming to Sacramento in May and get action," each said in his own words.

Neither held out hope for passage this year of a bill backed by the San Rafael Board of Education which would eliminate mandatory physical education in the last two years of high school. Bagley pointed out that Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Anaheim, has a bill to do the same thing in junior colleges ' 'and he can't get 41 votes (the necessary number) for that bill" in the Assembly. Behr said he could not think of "any significant piece of legislation which has been begun and gone into law in one session."

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr., San Rafael Board of Education member and association president, chaired the meeting, which drew attendance of nearly 200 school board members, candidates, and superintendents.

Addition To School Is Approved

Final plans for an eight-classroom addition to Rancho Cotate High School were approved yesterday by the Petaluma Board of Education.

The plans prepared by the architectural firm of Reynolds and Chamberlain, also include enlargement of the library, remodeling of the business area to accommodate home economics classes, tennis courts and additional parking facilities.

Cost is estimated at $369,000. The addition is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1972 and will permit a total enrollment of 1,000 students.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

MEETING — Tentatively set a meeting for April 22 with the Rohnert Park City Council. A place and time have not been selected.

EMPLOYMENT — Approved hiring of Anita Hubbell to teach at Petaluma Junior High School for the remainder of the school year at a salary of $2,555.

APPOINTED — Approved appointment of Ronald Baker and the reappointment of Harry Anderson to the Penngrove Citizens Advisory Board.

Young Scientists To Study Under Grant

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan State University will host more young scientists than any ot the other 251 American educational institutions taking part in the National Science Foundation's summer Undergraduate Research Participation Program.

Sixty-five undergraduate science majors will conduct research in such areas as degradable pesticides, air pollution and nutritional value of plant seeds in a 10-week program beginning in June under a $73,710 grant.

Arraignment On Burglary

Pamela K. Donaldson, 21, of Novato, and Kurt T. Kaikinger, 22, of Boyes Springs, have been arraigned in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court on a charge of burglary.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon scheduled Miss Donaldson to enter a plea next Wednesday. Kaikinger pleaded innocent and a preliminary hearing was set for Wednesday.

They were arrested Tuesday on suspicion of stealing a crucifix and candle from the St. Francis Solano Church in Sonoma.

Former Novatan Out Of Prison On Contempt In Dynamite Probe

I-J Special Report

TUCSON, Ariz. — Former Novato resident Karen Duncan, 24, and four other Californians were released from federal custody here yesterday.

The five had been jailed late last year for contempt in refusing to testify before a federal grand jury secretly investigating Weatherman activities, including the alleged purchase of dynamite in Arizona last May and transporting it to Southern California last May.

The grand jury panel was disbanded when its term expired. The five witnesses were ordered to return here April 7 when a new grand jury will be seated. If the Californians again refuse to testify, they may again be jailed for contempt, according to Ann Bowen, assistant U.S. attorney.

The non-defunct jury indicted John A. Fuerst, 21, of Berkeley, on one count of failing to register his purchase of dynamite and blasting caps, as required by federal law. Fuerst still is being sought by federal authorities.

Released yesterday were Miss Duncan, a 1963 graduate of Novato High School; Terri A. Volpin, 23; David A. Scheffler, 24; Lee Weinberg, 38, and Pamela Donaldson, 23, all of Venice, Los Angeles County.

Miss Duncan, jailed Dec. 3, was released temporarily last Christmas Eve while her indeterminate sentencing was appealed to a federal district court. She was jailed again Jan. 18 when the court ruled against her.

Novato Players To Install Slate

The Novato Community Players will install officers at its ninth annual dinner-dance April 24 at Nero's Restaurant, Novato.

Awards will be presented to outstanding actors, director, producer and staff worker and the outstanding member of the group.

Donald A. Leaf will be master of ceremonies. Social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

A Victory For Keg Beer Lovers

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI)— Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis approved an antilitter law Thursday permitting individuals to buy beer in kegs.

The "Act to Relieve Pollution Resulting From Malt Beer Sales" supplants current regulations preventing individuals from buying beer in containers holding more than three gallons.

Its sponsor, Rep. Earl H. Smith, D-Waterville, said the measure would help prevent pollution caused "by the litter of cans, bottles, paper and cardboard containers."

STRAIGHTENING OUT THE CURVES

Traffic detours cautiously past San Quentin homes (left) while Ghilotti Bros. contractors of San Rafael work on a major cut and fill as part of a $150,000 improvement to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard East between Highway 101 (in background) and Highway 17. County traffic engineer James B. Robertson said it's hoped the project will be finished by June, although stormy weather could delay the relocation of a large water main. The new road will be safe at 45-miles-per-hour speed, Robertson said. Federal and state funds are financing the project.

Gail Lavery Is Discovered Dead

Gail Woodfield Lavery, former Strawberry resident who shot her husband to death in San Francisco in 1965, was found dead at Mendocino State Hospital Monday, it was learned yesterday.

She had apparently hanged herself in a small shed near an unused hospital incinerator sometime Sunday night, according to the Mendocino coroner.

Mrs. Lavery, 53, had originally been placed on probation for five years after her conviction in 1966 on the condition that she receive regular psychiatric treatment.

In 1969, however, her psychiatrist reported that she was severely paranoid and possibly homicidal and she was arrested in her Marin apartment on a warrant issued by Judge Francis McCarty of San Francisco Superior Court.

The judge committed her to Mendocino where she remained until her death.

Mrs. Lavery, an artist and the daughter of San Francisco financier William Woodfield Sr., shot and killed her husband of ten weeks, George Lavery, a 44-year-old real estate broker.

After the shooting on July 30, 1965, Mrs. Lavery told police that she killed her husband because he beat her mercilessly. This story was supported by numerous witnesses at her trial.

The much-publicized trial was recessed for more than two months after Mrs. Lavery had a breakdown in court. After its resumption in San Francisco Superior Court, the late Judge Harry J. Neubarth found her guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

(She had waived a jury trial, saying, "I preferred to go before one cerebral person for judgment than 12 people, half of whom would not understand what I was talking about.")

Private funeral for her was held yesterday in San Francisco.

She is survived by a son by a previous marriage, Carlyle M. Dunaway Jr. of New York and her father, who is a former Imperial Potentate of the Mystic Shrine of North America.

Size Of Marin City Council Cut

Marin City Council last night amended its bylaws to reduce the size of the council from 13 members to nine.

Chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. said no active council members will be eliminated because of the change. "The only members affected are those who have disqualified themselves by unexcused absences," he said.

The council also voted to request the Marin City to work toward undergrounding utilities.

Undergrounding should start on new construction and eventually be expanded to include all of Marin City, Banks said.

In other business, the council directed a letter be sent to the Sixth Army requesting that trees be planted on Army property on the ridge overlooking Marin City.

Banks said the council will ask the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department to support his group in its request to the Army.

Tomorrow Is Last Day To Take Books Out

Tomorrow is the last day to take books out of the Novato branch of the Marin County Library in the Tresch Building and Librarian Martha Van Etten hopes cardholders will take many.

There has been some confusion because the library won't completely close until 5 p.m. Wednesday, Mrs. Van Etten said.

It will be open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only for the return of books as the staff packs for the move to the new library at 1720 Novato Boulevard, she emphasized.

Mrs. Van Etten said the more books residents take out the less will have to be moved and noted that no fines will be charged during April.

Sonoman Reports Hitchhiker Robbery

A Cotati man was robbed of $15 in cash by three hitchhikers he picked up Tuesday night on Highway 101, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said Andrew R. Harris of 105 West Railroad Avenue, told them he picked up the men, who were between 20 and 30 years old, near San Rafael and gave them a ride into Marin City, where they took his wallet and money from the glove compartment and fled.

Santa Cruz Officers Nab Kidnap Suspect

Terry Ring, the 14-year-old boy sought for the kidnapping of a Santa Rosa woman on Wednesday, was arrested last night in Santa Cruz.

Sonoma sheriff's inspector Edward Mayburn said Ring would be returned to Sonoma County today and would be charged with kidnapping, armed robbery and violation of parole. He will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

Ring, of Santa Rosa, is accused of taking Doris Davis captive for three hours after a burglary attempt at her home failed. The boy had been released Feb. 20 from the California Youth Authority after serving a three-year term for a kidnapping committed at the age of 11.

Mayburn said another youth called the Santa Cruz sheriff's department, reporting that Ring had been bragging about murdering a Santa Rosa police officer. Deputies made the arrest at 9:30 p.m. without incident. Ring, who had had a rifle during the kidnapping, was unarmed when arrested.

Mrs. Davis told officers that Ring had forced her to drive around Sonoma and Marin counties before she could talk him into releasing her in Petaluma. She was not harmed.

Vincent Hallinan Denies Patrick Marxist Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorney Vincent Hallinan charged on the witness stand yesterday that William Penn Patrick, wealthy San Rafael cosmetics manufacturer, accused him of being a Marxist and a paid propagandist for Fidel Castro.

Hallinan, formerly of Belvedere but now living in San Francisco, testified as jury trial opened in superior court in connection with his $2 million libel suit against Patrick.

Hallinan testified that Patrick, head of Holiday Magic Cosmetics, was "so insolent in his wealth he thinks he can get away with anything."

One thing I have prided myself on," the attorney told the jury before Judge Charles S. Perry, "is that I am not For sale. To be called a propagandist is injurious. To be a propagandist is to be a liar. To be a paid propagandist is to be for sale. I am not for sale."

Hallinan, who serves as secretary of the American Institute for Marxist Studies, said he was "no more a Marxist than the man from Mars."

The attorney made his remarks following opening statements by attorneys in the trial.

Fireman's Fund Will Purchase Marin Land

Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, San Francisco, has announced completion of negotiations with American Savings and Loan Association to purchase the 38-acre Lucas Green property west of Highway 101 and south of Lucas Valley Road.

It was reported on Wednesday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks that negotiations for the purchase were being carried on.

It is now reported that the site is being considered as a possible location for Fireman's Fund's local data processing and equipment and operations and the construction of a computer facility, contingent on annexation and rezoning by the City of San Rafael. The property is in an unincorporated area and is not zoned for this type of administrative-professional use.

Gardiner's Civil Suit In Crash Is Under Way

I-J Special Report

WOODLAND — Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner's civil suit against the state over a 1967 auto collision near Knights Landing is under way before a Yolo County Superior Court Jury here.

Gardiner is seeking a total of $4,700 damages for personal injuries and damages to his auto.

Gardiner alleges his head-on crash with a sports car Oct. 7, 1967 was caused by a dangerous curve at the intersection of highways 113 and 99E.

The judge, who was injured along with his wife and the driver of the sports car, is asking for $4,000 for "pain and suffering" and $700 for damages to his auto.

(Gardiner reported from his office in the Marin County Civic Center today that the state had settled out of court for an undisclosed amount for injuries suffered by his wife. The judge is represented by attorney Robert Harlem in the case.)

According to Kenneth Nellis, attorney for the state's Department of Public Works which is being sued, the state is contending the intersection is safe and the accident was caused by the judge speeding.

The trial, which started March 16, is expected to end sometime next week, Nellis said.

At the time of the accident, Gardiner was cited by the California Highway Patrol for failure to drive on the right side of the road. Charges against him were later dismissed by the Yolo district attorney who said "the facts do not warrant further prosecution."

Weinberger Has No Mayoral Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Caspar Weinberger, deputy director of President Nixon's Office of Management and Budget, and a native San Franciscan, said He has "no plans, no considerations" to run against Mayor Joseph Alioto in next fall's election.

After a luncheon at which he praised the President's proposed national health care program, Weinberger was asked if he had any designs on the mayor's post.

"Heavens, no," he said. "I've got too much to do in Washington to give that job my consideration."

Weinberger, who maintains his voter's registration in San Francisco, said the President's health care plan was better than a rival proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., because of its "self-restraint and cost consciousness."

"The increase on all health costs has been enormous in recent years and while we can all recognize and trace causes the fact is some restraint has to be exercised here too," he said.

Tentative Reed Pact Reached

A tentative agreement between Reed School District teachers and trustees on procedures to settle future disagreements has been reached, according to acting Asst. Supt. Lester Dunn.

The proposed agreement will be submitted to the Reed District Teachers Association for its approval and then to the school board for adoption.

Dunn said teachers and trustees, in a three-hour special meeting Wednesday night, decided to strike numerous provisions contained in the proposed policy in answer to objections by teachers, board members and Richard V. Godino, deputy county counsel.

Eliminated, he said, was a provision for choosing a chairman for a three-man fact-finding panel formed to solve disagreements between the board and teachers.

Under a previously suggested procedure, the county schools superintendent would have selected a chairman if the two fact-finders were unable to agree on a third member — who also would be the panel's chairman — within seven days.

With this provision stricken, Dunn said, a fact-finding committee unable to choose a chairman would be dissolved and two other fact-finders appointed.

For now at least, however, the question is moot, since the fact-finding committee has been formed and the first two members appointed have named a third member and chairman, Dunn said. He is Morris L. Meyers, a San Francisco attorney.

Meyers and the other two members, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and Dr. Donald H. Wollett, will study the current contract impasse in the Reed district and suggest nonbinding solutions to the board and teachers.

Also stricken from the proposed procedures were sections dealing with internal workings of the Reed District Teachers Association, specifying that teachers may suggest how the board may define educational goals but not recommend the goals themselves, and defining under what conditions the board may adopt emergency policies without consulting teachers.

The procedures also set up a type of grievance organization for teachers and guidelines for "meet and confer" sessions between the board and teacher representatives.

Dunn said the board agreed to meet with teachers at 7:30 p.m. April 6, 30 minutes before the regular board meeting, to iron out any last-minute problems in the proposed procedures. The board could adopt them at that meeting, he said.

Plea Set On Two Charges

Phillip Eugene Butler, 20, of Petaluma, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges of possessing marijuana and indecent exposure.

He is to plead to the charges Wednesday.

Butler was arrested Tuesday after a woman reported to police that a man walking along Lucas Valley Road had exposed himself to her as she drove along the road.

Black History Course Offered

Afro-American history for teachers, a three unit class sponsored by the University of California's Adult Education Extension, will begin Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Room CA-6 at San Rafael High School.

The ten-week course is taught by Dee Schilling of Marin City and is open to elementary and secondary school teachers.

Topics for the quarter will include the Supreme Court school desegregation decision of 1954 and the revolution in education, the non-violent civil rights movement, the Black Muslims, black power, the Black Panther Party and racial conditions in Marin County.

The philosophies of Malcolm X, Martin Luther King and Stokely Carmichael will be reviewed and guest speakers from the black community and several films will be presented.

Dress Case Appeal Lost

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An appeal by an attorney from Mill Valley, fined $100 in October for appearing tieless and in dungarees in Marin Municipal Court, has been dismissed by the state's District Court of Appeal on a legal technicality.

The court dismissed the appeal by Peter Pipe, 28, because he failed to serve the proper papers on former judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. who imposed the fine.

Pipe in December lost an appeal of the fine in Marin Superior Court. He contended his clothing was "reasonable" courtroom attire.

Eight Drivers Sentenced

Eight persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Peter Allen Smith for drunken driving.

Sentenced Monday were:

Andres Roberto Rienteria, 22, of 11 Burlington Avenue, Petaluma, arrested Sunday on High 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $175.

Lee Vogal Landis, 33, of no known address, arrested Feb. 3 in Sausalito, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $250 fine or serve four days in jail.

Raymond William Zurcher, 47, of 4 Embarcadero Way, San Rafael, arrested March 18 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Steven Todd Rose, 21, of 130 Cresta Drive, Apt. 7, San Rafael, arrested Oct. 14 in San Rafael, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $250 fine or serve four days in jail.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

James B. Neil, 66, of Nashville, Tenn., arrested Aug. 28 on Highway 101, was placed on probation and fined $600.

Earl O'Dell Karinen, 50, of Vallejo, arrested March 19 on Highway 37, was placed on probation for one year, sentenced to five days in Marin County Jail with credit for time already served and ordered to pay a $250 fine or serve an additional five days in jail.

Merrel Tandy Davidson, 50, of Richmond, arrested Oct. 1 in San Rafael, was placed on probation for two years, sentenced to five days in jail and fined $302.

Rodger Clyde Jacobsen, 32, of 55 Fremont Road, San Rafael, arrested March 19 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Attorney Not Only Wins Case But Saves Judge

TEHACHAPI, Calif. (UPI)—Defense attorney Allen H. McFarland had a good day in court —he won his case and perhaps saved the judge's life.

McFarland was defending a trespassing case before Tehachapi Justice Court Judge Wesley Patton when the judge suddenly gasped and called a recess during the reading of final instructions.

Patton nearly fell from the bench and was collapsing in a doorway, the apparent victim of a heart attack, when McFarland caught him. He eased the judge to the floor and loosened his tie and shirt. Patton gasped again and stopped breathing.

The attorney struck him several times in the chest with his fist and began administering mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Patton revived after a few minutes and was taken to a hospital, where officials said he was "holding his own."

After the courtroom resuscitation Wednesday, the court clerk received permission to complete the reading of the instructions to the jury. The panel deliberated 75 minutes and found McFarland's client innocent.

For Better Water

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Public Health Service states that municipal tap water in most areas is below standards because of chemicals and dissolved salts. To upgrade drinking water, one plastic membrane available in a home water purifier uses reverse osmosis. With the membrane, it is now possible to convert tap water into drinking water which is equivalent to bottled water in quality and taste.

Legislation Seen As Key Now To Awakening Health Industry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Executive Director Thomas G. Moore Jr., of the California Council for Health Plan Alternatives, said today the only way to make the health industry responsive to public needs was through legislation.

Moore, speaking before a three-day meeting of the American Assembly at the University of California at San Francisco, said "voluntarism has had its day before the court of public opinion" and failed.

"Obviously," he said, "in our society, even legislative mandates are ineffective without the cooperation of the parties involved. Failure to cooperate leads us inevitably to the courts."

Moore said legislation should be enacted specifically to bring the health industry out into the open and to measure the quality and effectiveness of the health industry with performance standards developed for all providers with public review of the standards and results of performance testing.

Moore said it was his "feeling that once providers and consumers are brought together by legislative mandate, we will discover that we are no real threat to each other and that we can plan and work together."

The Assembly was founded by Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1950 when he was president of Columbia University. It is a national organization holding regular meetings on vital current topics.

Charles Payton, UC medical student, replied to Moore, who represented union interests. He said "users of health services should begin exercising more control over the course of our health system.

"With due respect to Mr. Moore and the California Council for Health Plan alternatives, we must listen to more than the voice of unionized labor."

Margaret S. Godron, associate director of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, said curriculum reform, greater emphasis on problems of health care delivery "in both the education and research programs of university health centers ... all these recommendations and many others would make a substantial contribution to more effective and efficient use of health manpower and to overcoming the problem of geographical maldistribution."

Make Their Point

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two mountain lions contributed a few snarls to a news conference called to urge passage of a bill to protect the remaining 600 mountain lions in California.

Deadline Near On Commune Petition

With five days to go, volunteers working to put Mill Valley's anticommune ordinance to a vote of the people have about one-sixth of the signatures required to call a referendum election.

David W. Olson, secretary of the city youth commission, said yesterday 10 petitions containing 100 signatures of Mill Valley voters have been collected. Signatures of 592 voters are required.

Olson said that 140 petitions still are being circulated and must be returned to him by Tuesday night in order to be submitted to the Mill Valley city clerk by 5 p.m. Wednesday.

More voters are needed to collect signatures, Olson said. "We've had offers from several churches to set up tables but we need voters to man them," he said.

Members of both the youth commission and human rights board have joined in the petition drive, but youth commission members are not allowed to collect signatures as they are too young to vote.

If 592 valid signatures are collected, the city council either may repeal the anticommune law or set a special referendum election.

The law, adopted March 1, prohibits more than five unrelated persons from living together in a single-family zone. It was enacted, councilmen said, to combat increasing density in residential neighborhoods.

Beard Back In Lower Court

Brian V. Beard, 26, of Marin City, who finished up one court case Tuesday, was right back in Marin Municipal Court the next day being arraigned on a misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Beard, a former candidate for the Sausalito School District board, was sentenced Tuesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman of municipal court to 50 days in jail for resisting a public officer in 1969.

That conviction stemmed from a scuffle outside Marin City July 23, 1969, when Marin County sheriff's deputies went to arrest another man on traffic warrants.

Following his sentencing Tuesday, bailiffs took Beard to the jail where a search during booking revealed a suspected marijuana cigarette in his pocket.

He is to plead to the charge Wednesday.

Art, Garden Show At St. Sylvester's

"The Pallette and Trowel", an art and garden show, will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 3 and 4 at St. Sylvester's parish in Peacock Gap, San Rafael.

Oil paintings, sculpture and other forms of art have been donated by parishioners, to benefit the church.

Challenge For Rail Car Ride

The League of Women Voters of Central Marin wants to take the Golden Gate Bridge District's transportation committee for a ride.

The committee unanimously approved a proposal yesterday by league member Judy Ainsworth that bridge officials, accompanied by league representatives, take a ride on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's self-powered passenger car.

The trip from Healdsburg to Sausalito would let the committee weigh for itself the possibility of using the rail line for commuters, Mrs. Ainsworth urged.

She stressed that her organization wasn't "supporting reinstating the railroad . . . we do feel that sufficient argument has been presented by those in favor of rail transit to warrant . . . looking into the situation. It could well be . . . that a system of rail commute could be integrated with buses and ferries and might well eliminate the necessity for a transit deck on the Golden Gate Bridge."

NWP plans to halt use of its Budd car on the Willits to Eureka run May 1, Mrs. Ainsworth noted.

She said the little-used section of NWP lines between Corte Madera and Sausalito would be safe for the trip because the rail line has been maintained under Interstate Commerce Commission orders.

The committee approved Bridge Director W. R. Lucius's motion to ask NWP for use of the car for a day. Chairman Michael Wornum instructed Lucius and Mrs. Ainsworth to arrange the loan of the 80-passenger, 60,000-pound car at no cost to the district.

Innocent Plea To Burglary Charge

Ranee Bennett, 19, of San Pablo, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and credit card forgery.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

She was arrested Saturday, along with Mark Edward Terry, 26, of Richmond, at the Montgomery Ward's store in Corte Madera when a security manager caught Miss Bennett using an allegedly stolen credit card.

Corte Madera police said a search of Terry's car produced other stolen credit cards, as well as a stolen typewriter, radio and clothing.

Terry, also charged with burglary and credit card forgery, was to have appeared in Municipal Court yesterday for appointment of an attorney.

DOWNHILL RACER

Officer Ronald M. Averiette of the San Rafael police charts the course of a runaway pickup truck. The vehicle belonging to Douglas Elliott of 17 Hillside Drive rolled from Elliott's driveway and plunged backward through a fence before crashing into the house at 20 Hillside Drive owned by Dante Marcolina. Police indicated the truck's downhill journey shortly before 4 p.m. yesterday was the second time it yielded to gravity. However, it was stopped by Marcolina's fence the first time. # Statewide Property Tax Rate Eyed For Equality Education

A statewide property tax rate to equalize educational support for all California school children was proposed last night in Petaluma by the California School Boards Association.

The plan to assure a firm financial platform of support for all local school districts was outlined for educators from Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties by Alfred Newman of Vallejo, immediate past president of the association.

The proposal developed by the statewide council for long-range school finance planning would set a statewide property tax rate of $3.75 per $100 assessed valuation and would require anadditional $400 million from the General Fund.

Total cost of the program has been set at $3,836,316,200 with the proposed statewide property tax supplying an estimated $2,180,986,894. The plan would require an increase of $397 million over the $1,656,229,306 already being provided by the state.

Newman said that although additional state support would be received, districts would maintain complete local control on how the funds are spent.

Newman said the guaranteed state foundation program would provide $667 for each elementary child,$874 for high school students, and $917 for community college students.

In addition to the property tax and General Fund monies, local districts could levy override taxes without seeking voter approval to increase revenue if the statewide tax falls below the district's level of spending.

Newman said the override would be based on the 1969-70 spending level plus $60 for each elementary student, $78 for high school students and $81 for community college students.

Other overrides which would be permitted without voter approval would include programs for the physically handicapped, mentally gifted, transportation and a limited override tax for purchasing equipment of up to $10 per elementary child, $15 high school and $20 community college.

Newman said the proposal would require districts to hold their general reserve funds to 5 per cent of the total monies received from the state. He said an additional override could be levied locally if the reserves fall below the 5 per cent level.

The plan, which will be introduced as a bill in the Legislature next week, would eliminate local tax levies except for the specified overrides.

Newman said the new taxing method would represent a saving for 91 per cent of the state's property tax payers.

Newman cited the current financial problems of schools and said that eight years ago California ranked sixth in the nation in per-pupil spending and now ranks 24th.

Russell Kent, superintendent of San Mateo County Schools, explained technical points of the plan and answered questions on how specific school districts might be affected.

George W. Castleberry, business manager of Petaluma schools, said he was not certain how the new plan would affect local revenues,but said he believed the income might be increased.

Man's Body Washes Up On Beach

The body of a man believed to have been floating in San Francisco Bay for about a week was found washed up on the beach near the Fort Baker boat dock.

Deputy Marin County Coroner Bill J. Thomas said the body, that of a black man between 20 and 30 years old, was discovered at 5:50 a.m. today by a military policeman.

Thomas described the unidentified man as 6 feet tall, of slender build with a mustache, and wearing khaki trousers, a white shirt and white coveralls and a watch and a ring with a red stone.

The body had been in the water between a week and 10 days, Thomas said. There was no sign of foul play.

The coroner's office was attempting to identify the man today through fingerprints.

Los Angeles Feels A Small Earthquake

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A slight earthquake registering 3.7 on the Richter Scale jolted the Los Angeles area Thursday afternoon, rattling windows and knocking out electricity briefly in some parts of the San Fernando Valley.

Spokesmen at the Cal Tech seismological laboratory said the jolt was one of a series of more than 200 aftershocks from the destructive Feb. 9 earthquake. There were no reports of damage.

Some Petaluma Hospital Staffers Due Pay Hikes

The Petaluma Hospital District board last night approved salary increases for some employees at Hillcrest Hospital as well as the extension of physician staffing in the emergency room to week nights.

Hospital Administrator Joseph Horner said salary raises were approved for employees on the lower end of the salary scale. He said the increase would range from 2 to 7 per cent for employees in maintenance, dietary and housekeeping departments to bring them in line with salaries paid at other area hospitals.

Horner estimated the additional cost of the salaries at $28,000 a year and said the money would come from economies in operating.

He said the board approved the plan to extend the emergency room staffing to provide a doctor on duty week day nights.

All sporty cars look pretty much the same, cost pretty much the same, and act pretty much the same.

Except the 1980 looking Javelin.

The original idea of the sporty car was to give you a car with some individuality.

But lately, all the sporty cars are looking pretty much alike.

So, at American Motors, we went all-out to make our Javelin a really different-looking car. Even at the risk of scaring some people off.

The fenders rise and fall in an aerodynamic whoosh around the tires.

The grill and hood slope to a canopy roof with a rear spoiler lip.

And on the inside, the smooth racy feeling of the outside carries through. The "cockpit" instrument panel. The high-back buckets in vinyl or optional fabric or leather.

But not only did we make the Javelin look good, we made it drive good. It's longer, lower, and wider for a smoother ride. The steering ratio is quicker and the suspension is tougher for faster, tighter cornering.

And to make the Javelin really go like it looks, we've got engines from a base 6 all the way up to an optional 401 cubic inch V8. Which are available in all the Javelin models: the Javelin; the luxurious Javelin SST; and the brawny Javelin AMX, the car Trans-Am race driver Mark Donohue helped us design.

All in all, we've achieved one very important thing with the new Javelin: Before, you were stuck with the choice of either getting a sporty car that looked like the others, or spending a lot of money for one that looked different.

American Motors

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for Javelin 2 Dr. H.T., federal taxes included. State, local taxes, if any, destination charges excluded. White walls $37.30 extra. Destination charges for California $137 extra.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Antilead Gasoline Bill Passes Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure reached the Assembly floor today requiring air-polluting lead to be nearly eliminated from gasoline sold in California by 1977.

The Assembly Transportation Committee Thursday approved a bill by Assemblyman Peter F. Schabarum, R-Covina, on a split voice vote.

Similar legislation cleared the Assembly last year but died in the Senate after a fierce intra-industry struggle involving the marketing practices of most major oil companies.

Schabarum said lead released into the atmosphere from gasoline was an "implied health hazard."

He said its removal would help the automobile industry develop mufflers which would trap smog-producing elements before they were dispersed into the air.

Witnesses at previous hearings testified that lead is poisonous and could be harmful to human health if inhaled into the body in large quantities.

Lead is added to gasoline to increase the performance level of vehicles. Several companies now offer no lead or low lead gasoline in California.

Schabarum said automobile manufacturers wanted the lead removed from gasoline to help in development of a "catalytic muffler."

The proposed special muffler contains chemical "catalysts" which neutralize the smog-producing effects of engine exhaust emissions before they are released into the air.

Schabarum said the automobile manufacturers contend lead in gasoline interferes with the beneficial work of the catalysts.

The Schabarum bill would require lead to be completely phased out of regular grades of gasoline by 1974. High octane grades would be limited to one-half gram of lead per gallon by 1977.

The lead restrictions on regular grades would be imposed in 1972 in the heavily populated San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco areas. By 1972, in those same areas, oil companies would be limited to three or less grams of lead per gallon of 97 octane gasoline.

SMOG DEVICES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill requiring automakers to pay for smog control devices on 1955-65 models has been proposed by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

Gov. Ronald Reagan in his clear air message recommended requiring owners of older cars to equip them with the exhaust emission devices.

But Beilenson said Thursday that the manufacturers and not the owners should pay for the devices which would cost about $50 each.

"The manufacturers designed the cars improperly in the first place and they delayed development of effective smog control devices," the senator said. "They should pay to remedy their failure."

QUEEN MARY

ACRAMENTO (UPI) —The State Lands Commission moved today toward answering Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke who wants to know whether money is being spent illegally on the Queen Mary project.

Reinecke specifically was pointed to how tidelands oil revenues were being used in the commercial phases of the multi-million-dollar project.

The commission Thursday ordered its staff to study the hiring of a private consultant to audit spending for the giant passenger liner.

State estimates of the private and public costs of coverting the ship into a museum-tourist attraction ranged from $50 to $60 million. Originally, the city proposed the conversion only to a museum at a cost of $9 million.

"If I were running my own business, I wouldn't run it this way," Reinecke said. "Can't we get an accounting system established" separating the museum and tourist portions of the project.

Deputy Attorney General Warren Abbott said, "Maybe the time is coming for an outside study."

Reinecke answered: "I think it's past. I think we need to take some action."

The commission asked its staff to study the prospect of having an outside consultant audit the project and make a recommendation at the April 29 meeting.

"There is an absolute obligation to make sure that the money is spent on the museum," the lieutenant governor said. "The people of the City of Long Beach should have had an opportunity to vote on this a long time ago."

The law allows the city to spend the oil revenues on the museum but not on the commercial phases of the project.

Commission members agreed it was difficult to determine how much money has gone to the museum and how much to the commercial part.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan post previously urged the commission to "impose the most stringent cost and budgetary controls possible under present law."

Toll Plaza Study Fund Is Requested

The Golden Gate Bridge District's building and operating committee voted yesterday to ask the full district board to budget $275,000 for engineering to modernize the toll plaza and reverse the collection pattern to have northbound traffic pay.

The committee decided to proceed despite the fact that the Army has not yet formally granted the district land to relocate its maintenance shops, which now stand on the site of a proposed four-lane southbound roadway.

Engineers for the project will be Parsons, Brinkerhof, Quade and Douglass of San Francisco.

Committee members revived the issue of whether reversing the toll pattern might hurt bridge income. They decided to reaffirm their decision of Jan. 27 favoring collection from northbound traffic. It would best fit the pattern for all Bay Area toll bridges, district engineer Robert E. Shields told directors.

The committee temporarily shelved approval of plans for conditioning and installing a district-owned float at the San Francisco ferry terminal, pending presentation of cost estimates. The figures were not ready yesterday.

Continued Oily Bird Help Asked

I-J Special Report

RICHMOND — A plea went out yesterday for Marinites to continue helping the oil-covered birds they rescued from the county's shoreline in January.

Ralph Stiner of the Bird Reserve Fund said the organization must care for a total of 308 waterfowl for another two to three months before the last of the survivors can be turned free. Two dozen birds have been released so far, he said.

Stiner said Standard Oil Co. will halt support to the volunteer bird care operation at the University of California's Richmond Center on Sunday. Costs have run as high as $1,000 a day for food, medication and bedding for birds harmed when two Standard Oil tankers collided Jan. 18, and nearly a million gallons of bunker oil spilled into the Golden Gate.

Many of the 1,400 birds originally taken to the Richmond center came from Marin County, Stiner said. He said the Center's survival rate of 26 per cent was far higher than that of the San Francisco Zoo, where 40 birds survive out of some 1,700.

Stiner said Standard Oil was willing to continue financing only if the birds were relocated at the San Francisco Zoo. The Bird Rescue Fund thinks its birds will survive better in shelters and pens at the Nature Conservancy wildlife refuge on Tubbs Island. There, Stiner said, the birds gradually can relearn to live in the wild.

Bruce Claims Supervisors Get Commune Blame

Marin County supervisors are being blamed for an anticommune ordinance passed by the City of Mill Valley, County Administrator Alan Bruce announced this morning.

Bruce said he had received a half dozen letters addressed to the county supervisors, accusing them of passing an ordinance that allows no more than five unrelated persons from living in a single-family home.

Such an ordinance was passed by 4-to-1 vote of the Mill Valley councilmen on March 1. That ordinance applies in Mill Valley and has nothing to do with the county or with the board of supervisors.

Bruce said that correspondence relating to the anticommune ordinance should be sent to Mill Valley, not to the county.

Supervisors did consider a similar ordinance last October but decided to drop the idea because it would have been too difficult to enforce.

Moonlighting Practices Of Public Employes

Charges leveled against the county health department by County Administrator Alan Bruce have brought to the surface a practice which is known as "moonlighting on the company's time."

It is a practice frowned upon in private employment. But it occurs fairly often in some areas of public employment.

One of the charges against Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer, was that the half-time health educator in her office, Natalie K. Posner, was paid full-time by Marin County during the recent rubella inoculation campaign while at the same time receiving half-time pay from Contra Costa County, where she also serves in the health department.

It appears that Mrs. Posner either (a) worked 17 hours a day, (b) was moonlighting in Marin when she should have been in Contra Costa, or (c) was moonlighting in Contra Costa when she s h o u l d have been in Marin.

IF IT WERE either of the latter two, she was not the first public employee to "moonlight on the company's time."

There was a great stir recently when the California State Colleges Board of Trustees fired a professor at Los Angeles State College for doing just that — the stir being because it was the first time anyone had been fired for it in the state college system.

This professor's case was a particularly aggravated one. As a department head, he was given only one class to teach. But he farmed that out to a teaching assistant while he moonlighted at University of Southern California, teaching a class there.

The faculty disciplinary committee at Los Angeles State indicated that such "moonlighting on the company's time" is quite acceptable. It opposed the firing. The rule that a department head must teach one class did not specify that it must be at the school where he drew fulltime salary, the committee claimed.

MOST SUCH MOONLIGHTING does not go that far. But it is not unusual for a public employee in the upper echelons to disappear from his office for a few days while he does a consulting job for some other employer. It is, however, very unusual for his pay to be docked.

Last summer, for instance, a couple of Marin County school administrators taught summer classes at Dominican College "during their four-week vacation." However, the summer classes were six weeks long. There appears to have been two weeks of "moonlighting on the company's time."

Sometimes what looks like such moonlighting may not be. For instance, schools Supt. John F. Plank was missing from his office in San Rafael the past two weeks as he was away on an accreditation team at another school. However, these accreditation team members get paid only expenses. The Western Association of Schools and Colleges, which does the accrediting, gets all its expert help free — at the expense of the taxpayers.

IT WOULD BE interesting to find out how many public employees in Marin County in the past year have "moonlighted on the company's time," as Mrs. Posner is accused of doing.

However many it may have been, it was too many.

Credibility Gap

Can anything be quite as lovely as this spring's surf of pinkish-white plum blossoms? Have the golden bunches of fluffy acacia balls ever lasted so long or been so beautiful before? Have the banks ever been so full of periwinkle blossoms? Have the birds sung as sweetly in the morning other springs?

Logic begs us to answer yes. But gorgeous Nature whispers never. There's a credibility gap.

Freedom For Prisoners Of War Should Rate Top Priority

(Reprinted from San Jose Mercury-News)

President Nixon is nothing if not an acutely perceptive politician, and he must therefore be aware that the prisoner of war issue is going to get hotter than ever in 1971.

As his Vietnamization program continues to work, freeing increasing numbers of American troops from frontline service in Vietnam, the war as a domestic political issue dwindles in importance. If, as is now anticipated, the South Vietnamese army continues to hold its own against the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, President Nixon can fairly claim that his "plan" for disengagement from Vietnam is a success.

However, the very success of that plan will make the POW issue all the more painful, personally and politically, at home. The American people will be thankful that the casualties are diminishing, but they will be all the more aware of the unfinished business represented by the several hundred Americans still held in North Vietnamese prisoner of war camps.

THIS AWARENESS surely will be translated into pressure on the President to "do something," not that President Nixon has been reluctant to take a number of steps already. He has offered the most generous prisoner - exchange terms, aggregating 10 North Vietnamese prisoners for every American released. Hanoi said, in effect, "no thanks."

The American military has sought, unsuccessfully, to rescue prisoners from one camp near Hanoi; the President praised the action — and rightly so.

It is just possible that the North Vietnamese government was shaken up by the raid into the Hanoi suburbs; it was not long afterward that two American naval officers were paraded before the t e l e v i s i o n cameras of the C a n a d i a n Broadcasting Corp. in a patently propaganda pitch for unlilateral American withdrawal from Indochina. The unspoken threat underlying that Christmas day film was: If you want to see these men alive again, get out of Vietnam and get out now.

HANOI, WHICH has callously and inhumanly exploited the prisoners for years, really outdid itself this time. It may well have been an act of desperation; Hanoi, too, knows that successful Vietnamization will free A m e r i c a n might and American attention for concentration on the repatriation of these prisoners.

The quieter the warfront becomes in South Vietnam, the more insistent the American people will become that their government take effective steps to free those Americans held prisoner in North Vietnam. This is as it should be, and President Nixon's own sentiments surely parallel those of all other Americans on this issue.

The point is, 1971 quite likely will be the year the POW issue comes to a head. The President is going to have to move and move decisively. He had best be sorting out his options and his alternatives early.

If the comments in the editorial on March 23 regarding County Administrator Alan Bruce are correct, maybe it's the county administrator's office that should be investigated. Perhaps by the county health officer!

It is clear to me that County Administrator Alan Bruce intends to dissolve the county health department —presumably to merge it with the coroner and medical departments. Why doesn't he ask for it like a man instead of scratching like a dog?

To Curb Pollution, Also Curb Growth

Air pollution will increase after 1985 in the Bay Area if all present air-quality standards are met by then, according to D. J. Callaghan, chief administrative officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The reason is growth, mainly growth in the numbers of people and automobiles. Only major b r e a k t h r o u g h s in automobile and fuel technology would postpone the day of reckoning if growth should continue.

Those of your readers who wish to help prevent the general environmental deterioration due to unrestrained, uncoordinated development of our land and who want more effective smog control should endorse Mr. Callaghan's suggested long-range goals:

(1) Limit the number and usage of motor vehicles and aircraft;

(2) Tighten smog control regulations;

(3) Develop a non-polluting transportation system;

(4) Limit population growth by preserving open space; and

(5) Limit commercial and industrail growth.

90-Day Wonders' Studies Of Prisons

I am overwhelmed by the logic of trying to resurrect simon pure, uncontroversial, uninformed novices, for appointments to boards examing the problems concerning penology, welfare, and morality. It reminds me of knowing a governor of an eastern state who appointed an outgoing nun to study the problem of prostitution in his state. She turned out to be quite uncontroversial as appointments go. Her ensuing report was likewise.

Outside of being rather illogical to continue the practice of staying away from anyone with the background to understand what's going on, because they might not m u s t e r up to the politically acceptable norms of mental and moral virginity, it appears to many the lack of answers to today's problems is that they are not being defined by today's people. . .

More specifically and intriguing is the current rehash of prison life by youthful semanticists whose possible zeal to become Pulitzer prize material takes them into areas in which thinking persons are quite aware a three months' stint in a "joint" doesn't start to get a man on the "inside" with even new fish and odd inmate types, let alone solid cons. . .

Some newspapers continue to send forth their youthful writers to restate their one-sided stands periodically, without the benefit of any new panacea. I presume this ritual sells papers. Those who could tell it as it is, with some suggestions of value, are not usually among those whose livelihoods are predicated upon sensationalism. Perhaps those who work in areas of reform from a solid basis of honest concern, not on ego trips or worse, may one day be heard . . .

It is a puzzlement to me that with all our so called sophistication today, these medieval study practices continue. The only f a c t o r s that appear to change in this dreary approach to today's challenges are the costs which seem to escellate with the problems.

Concrete Channel Long Ruled Out

Reference is made to Mr. Robert B. Hull's letter printed in the Independent-Journal on March 18, under the heading of "Concrete Channel Should Be Fought."

It is hoped that the following will help to relieve the self-inflicted anguish suffered by Mr. Hull and o t h e r misinformed citizens . . .

A few years ago the Mill Valley City Council, Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission, and all other committees (too numerous to list here), officially went on record rejecting flatly "concrete ditch-flood control project in Mill Valley."

The above dismissal was recommended both by the city engineer and the community planner.

Since that time, no one (including the Army Corps of Engineers) thinks about a concrete ditch for Mill Valley except a few delayed action duds.

In fact, also a few years ago, the city planner and the city engineer suggested a solution which would provide flood control (no concrete ditch) and rehabilitate the existing creek which has been mutilated by men. The a b o v e suggestion was recently further developed by the city engineer and presented to the city.

The mayor appointed a town committee to study the situation and work closely with the Corps of Engineers to arrive at a Mill Valley-type solution. The Corps of Engineers offered full cooperation, and made it crystal clear that NOTHING will be done without the city's approval . . .

Egyptian Pre-Conditions Block Negotiations In Middle East

WASHINGTON — We need to clear away the false impression that Israel is blocking negotiations with Egypt for a Middle East peace settlement.

There can be honest differences over whether the Israelis are wise in turning away from the U.S. proposal for a Big Four military force as the primary guarantee of its future security.

It seems to me that Prime Minister Golda Meir is making a reasonable, realistic and persuasive case that Israel simply cannot stake its life as a nation on Soviet, American, British and French military assurances.

BASED ON PAST experience, how can Israel know how firm such outside guarantees will be under dire stress and whether they will be good 10 years or even 100 years from now? Israel plans to be a nation for quite some time.

Based on past experience, how can I s r a e l trust Soviet "peace-keeping" forces to act against Egypt if there is a violation of Israel's rights and sovereignty? Can Israel rationally trust Russian troops on its own territory when Russian forces have already been in active combat against Israel? These are reasons enough why Israel must put the negotiation of "secure and defensible borders" ahead of outside military guarantees of its national survival.

But whatever the wisdom of Israel putting its top priority on defensible borders, it deserves to be understood that it is not the Israeli government which is blocking negotiations. Some have construed Israel's rejection of "total withdrawal" to pre-1967 borders as closing the door on negotiations. Not so.

ISRAEL STATES that it will enter negotiation with Egyptians, either directly or through U.N. Ambassador Jarring, without any preconditions.

The Egyptian government states it will not negotiate unless Israel will accept preconditions.

Egypt demands that Israel agree to total withdrawal before Egypt will negotiate.

Israel offers to negotiate every issue, including withdrawal.

Understandably, the Egyptians would like to persuade or to pressure the Israelis into total withdrawal from the territory acquired in the 1967 war. The Soviet Union unqualifiedly backs Cairo. Now the United States, anxious — perhaps overanxious — to get a quick s e t t l e m e n t, advises Israel to accept on the grounds that outside military guarantees will be more protective than territory.

THIS PUTS ISRAEL in a momentarily isolated and awkward position. But the fact is that the UN. resolution, which both sides accepted as the basis or a negotiated settlement, did not call for total withdrawal, according to Eugene Rostow, then U.S. undersecretary of state.

"The resolution," says Rostow, "calls for the withdrawal of Israeli armed forces 'from territories occupied in the recent conflict."

Rostow points up the meaning of this: "Repeated attempts to amend this sentence by inserting the word 'the' failed in the Security Counsel. Thus the provision does not require Israeli withdrawal from all the territories now occupied under the cease-fire resolution to the armistice demarcation line."

This sounds complicated, but it is not. Israel is by its acceptance of the U.N. resolution only bound to limited withdrawal, not to total withdrawal. Certainly, Israel ought to be free to negotiate the best possible terms with Egypt without pressure from its friends.

Only when both sides voluntarily accept a settlement can outside military guarantees safely buttress it.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Eternal Vigilance Is Price Of Environment

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

MASON NECK, Va. — Spring came to the Great Marsh behind a rainstorm that drove the tide high and obscured vision out across the Potomac. Then the front blew past, and the March wind stirred a light chop a c o r s s the inlet as the sun warmed the ducks and redwings, muskrat and otters into communion.

But even the change of season brought no new company to the loneliest creature surviving along our national river. It is the bald eagle, our national bird. Here, 20 miles below the capital, and across its once continental range, the bird that symbolizes America is near extinction.

The fight to keep the eagle alive on the Potomac, and specifically here at Mason Neck, within view of Washington's Mount Vernon, is a fair microcosm of the effort conscientious people are making all over the country to retain some balance in the world we live in.

THE ESSENTIAL LESSON here, as in Alaska, the Everglades or in midtown, is that that effort can never let up. Those who care whether eagles or virgin valleys or city parks survive can win victory after victory and celebrate hairbreadth escapes from the bulldozer, only to face tomorrow another menace, and the next day another. But the other side, symbolized by the bulldozer, need win only once for it to be final.

Those who care about Mason Neck were not alone when they fought the bulldozer. With timely h e l p, they won. Now the menace is the h y d r a u l i c dredge, approaching from the other direction.

The neck under siege is a boot-shaped peninsula of about 14 wooded square miles, bounded mostly by tidal creeks and the Potomac. Because U.S. 1 and the railroads skirted inland behind the creek mouths, the peninsula was isolated and escaped intensive development. A decade ago it was not drastically changed from the days when Washington and his neighbor George Mason met here Sundays to ride together to Pohick Church. But through the '60s, pressure increased. A developer planned to convert the neck into a ready-made city of 20,000 persons. That alarmed residents who valued the area because there was no other like it near the capital.

A CONSERVATION committee was formed and sought help from the neighborhood to the federal level. National organizations stepped in. At the c r u c i a l m o m e n t Nature Conservancy came up with several million dollars to buy key parcels of threatened land until a series of adjoining parks, wildlife refuges and historical sites could be created to hold it largely inviolated. The battle seemed won.

But behind the defenders lies the state of Maryland, which legally begins at water's edge. The people involved in the Mason Neck struggle do not vote in Maryland. But the Potomac Sand and Gravel Co. does business there, and is willing to pay for the right to dredge gravel out of the w a t e r right up against the state line on the Virginia shore.

The company already has dredged at other points in the river. Now it wants to work across the mouth of the Great Marsh inlet, where the line cuts from Hallowing Point to Sycamore Point.

THE EAGLES that were plentiful around the inlet in Washington's time and still common through World War II have diminished as development has closed in and pesticides a b s o r b e d in the fish they eat slashed their reproduction rate. By last year a naturalist's survey of the entire Chesapeake Bay region, 200 miles long and the greatest cache of seafood in America, found only 60 nesting pairs. Only one of them was at Mason Neck.

Now this refuge is threatened anew. Residents say dredging will silt up the marsh, stir poison and other settled pollution off the bottom, and cause cave-ins and shore erosion. Not only the eagle, but all the other wildlife for which the neck was once saved, is threatened again.

Maryland authorities granted permission for the dredging last year. But a new law requires that the company go through the application procedure again. A public hearing will precede Maryland's final decision. And a federal environmental impact study will follow that. The defense cannot rest.

Eternal vigilance, the saying goes, is the price of liberty. So is it the price of eagles and intact mountains and decent rivers, all of them disappearing symbols of what we inherited with our liberty.

Gotta Maximize The Involvement For Collegial Communication

The propaganda war now being waged over the proposed reorganization plan for the Tamalpais High School District is almost classic in that as the terms become more sophisticated their meaning becomes more obscure.

During the first confrontation between opposing forces, Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins rolled out his big guns and blasted:

EXPECTING THE FIERY salvo, the Tamalpais District Teachers' Association (reinforced by the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers and the Tamalpais Administrators' Association) sallied back that the superintendent had disregarded the negotiated "Educational Democracy Document."

That document maintains, it said, "district management must be reoriented to encourage effective and meaningful involvement of all organizational components. . ."

Further, "decision making should ensue from collegial, not hierarchal, relationships in the process of management and as close to the operational level of those involved as possible."

And, "those who participate in management assume a commitant responsibility of accountability for their participation and evaluation of their decisions measured against mutually established goals."

WHILE ALL THAT is great for keeping the taxpayers wondering what's going on, is it any way to run a school district?

Superintendent Hawkins and Philip Peace, head of the teachers' association, must "communicate on a more meaningful level."

However far-out their public exchange may sound, perhaps when they get on the phone to each other they sound a little more like us ordinary folk. Thus:

Phil: "Hello, Will. This is Phil."

Will: "Hi, Phil. I meant to call you earlier but I've been kind of busy what with 'phone-ins' and all."

Phil: "Yes, I read where you received 30 calls, but actually it was only 27 because I called three times, remember?"

Will: "Now that you mention it, yes.

"I see by the newspaper you've been pretty busy yourself, lately. That full page ad last week was a masterpiece (chuckle, chuckle). Should keep people wondering, right? Keep up the good work. . ."

Phil: "Yes, I was proud of it myself. It's tough writing something that even you yourself don't understand."

WILL: "YES, I KNOW what you mean, Phil. There aren't many of us around and I want you to know there's always a place in my organization for someone with a way with words, if you know what I mean."

Phil: "I know what you mean about words but I'm not sure I know what you mean by 'my organization.' "

Will: "You know what I mean. . .and I need good men."

Phil: "I appreciate your confidence but I'm satisfied with my position in the association and I'd hate to see what little power the association has slip away. I'm just trying to spread it around a little."

Phil: "We're pretty satisfied with the way things are, Will. Don't try spreading too much because some teachers don't trust 'behavioral objectivists.'

Will: "You're looking at it all wrong, Phil. I'm not proposing to take any of the association's power."

Will: "There you go using vulgarities. I have to go now. I've got some people here from 'the community' who want to know where the three-R's fit into my plan."

Phil: "The what?"

Will: "Yea, that's what I said. What do you suppose they're talking about?"

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Administrator Finally Succeeds In Acutely Embarrassing Board

It was inevitable that ultimately Administrator Alan Bruce would embarrass the board of supervisors no end. In a three-page letter to them he lectured them on their duties respecting security and they took it sitting down. Now the latest is his insulting action in releasing a demand that the health officer be dismissed to the press for a Saturday issue, three days before the regular meeting of the board, instead of reporting to them first at that meeting.

This power hungry fellow not only will "run this county and don't you ever forget it" but in the attempt he will ruin it and any board that will continue to let him reign.

I HOPE YOU ALL read the editorial in the I-J Tuesday issue. It would be mighty hard to beat it for accuracy, reasoning and all-out clarity. Just in case some of you missed it here are some of the things that Bruce himself had attempted to put over:

He tried to have Dr. Clyde Miller paid full salary as county mental health director while he was suspended a month from his duties, and not only that but he also wanted to pay Miller for eight days he had overstayed his vacation.

The editorial called attention to the fact that Bruce's wife worked under Dr. Miller for five months as a psychiatric social worker and collected $3,415 also that his son worked as a county fireman during the summers of 1965 and 1966 for $14.48 per day.

NOW LISTEN to this and see if it doesn't wonder you just a bit more than a little. Bruce and his family took a 10-week vacation in Europe along about then. One day before leaving they appeared at the health department to get their immunization shots for free. This by the guy who is the highest paid man in county government except some judges. In addition to this he had fattened up the family echequer by the nepotism he complains about in the case of Mrs. Posner's family.

The best is yet to come. They had to wait some 45 minutes because there were others before them, and did they make the dust fly! Then because of some medical reason, the department, following an established rule, advised them to consult a private physician. More dust flew. Later his nibs wrote a letter to the health officer, who replied in a ladylike manner. How do I know this? Well, a member of the staff whom I had known for years, but who is no longer there, told me about it, in disgust, and sent me copies of the correspondence. The health officer was not aware of my knowledge. Gives room for some thought when one considers the present situation, doesn't it?

The interesting thing about Dr. Patricia Hallinan's statements as reported in Wednesday's I-J is that no place does the doctor say she has ever reported the things and the reason she resigned from the department to the health officer.

If she had knowledge of improper and illegal practices, why as a professional and a taxpayer didn't she? It seems like a long lingering grudge all around just surfacing. I doubt that the figure of $259,000 being requested for the venereal disease program is correct. That sounds more like a request for one of Bruce's department's requirements.

This just came to mind. Some time after Bruce was given the $5,000 raise he ordered a Porsche. One day the agency got word to him that his car had arrived. So what did he do? This is what. It seems he had been bringing several of his pals to work in his VW station wagon, so upon receiving the news that his new car was here, he dropped whatever county work he was doing and took his man John Barrows to Barrows' home to pick up Barrows VW to bring back to the Civic Center while Bruce took his car downtown to leave and pick up his Porsche — high priced men on company time. What do you think he would do to anyone else he might have caught doing such a trick, eh?

Birch Film Set At High School

"No Substitute for Victory," a color film of Americans resisting communists, with John Wayne as narrator, will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m., April 3, at San Rafael High School auditorium.

The color film feature is sponsored by Marin County Train Committee, a committee of the John Birch Society.

The film shows scenes from "no-win" wars. It has commentaries by Gen. Mark Clark, Adm. Grant Sharp, Gen. Paul Harkins and Gen. Albert Wedemeyer favoring a win policy.

It also has special appearances by Lowell Thomas, Martha Raye and Ezra Taft Benson, plus reports by combat veterans.

In 5 minutes it had better turn into a station wagon.

When something tells you to break camp fast, the Volkswagen Campmobile is an easy camp to break.

The tent folds up in 4 minutes, the roof clamps shut in 10 seconds. Which leaves you 50 seconds to tidy up inside. Before the tide comes in outside.

Time enough to open all the curtains. Put the milk in the icebox. Rinse your coffee cup in the sink. Make the dining room table disappear. Turn the full-length double bed into a seat.

And that's it. You're ready to head for higher ground in a VW-type station wagon with all the VW-type virtues:

An air-cooled engine that presses down on the rear wheels, giving you extra traction in snow. And sand. (We got you into this mess. And we'll get you out of it.)

Gas economy. Up to 23 miles on a gallon of regular.

So if you wind up going home empty-handed in a Campmobile, you're really empty.

Pay Pupils To Behave, Says Doctor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A psychologist has advocated that schools pay misbehaving pupils to get them in line.

When everything else has failed Dr. William H. Farling said Wednesday, a problem youngster can be told : "You do something and you'll get paid for it."

Although some call it a bribe, Farling said, "we've changed more behaviors with this approach than with any other we've worked with."

Farling, of Akron, Ohio, is executive director of the National Association of School Psychologists, which is meeting here.

He said that "what we've got to do with some kids is to prime the pump." After they have been persuaded by a promise of money to behave they will gradually see the other advantages of good conduct and studies, according to the theory.

Farling said some large city schools already budget money for payoffs to problem youngsters. "This is a learning material, a learning cost," he said.

Edinburgh Goal: $200 Needed

The College of Marin Drama Department is only about $200 away from reaching its goal of $14,000 to send 35 students and faculty members to Scotland's Edinburgh Arts Festival in August.

The department said yesterday between $300 and $400 was raised from the College's opening night performance of "Cabaret," which was staged as a benefit.

Other donations include $5,000 from the Okes Foundation in San Francisco, $3,000 from the student-sponsored art auction, $3,000 from the college's student government and the remainder from individual donations.

The department was asked to the Edinburgh festival to perform its production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," staged in an Old West setting.

Public Reaps Cash In Harvest Of Cans

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Hermosa Beach man woke early recently in a pursuit of aluminum cans. Later he found himself the prime suspect in a neighborhood robbery as a swarm of police pondered his alibi.

He and his 60-pound bag of cans were allowed to leave.

Another aluminum collector who dropped in each week to his favorite tavern in downtown Los Angeles bagged enough cans to make a down payment on a new station wagon.

Teenagers at a Catholic high school in the San Joaquin Valley trucked in 1,500 pounds of cans from parks and sporting events and plan to buy a $16,000 school bus next year.

And in San Diego, the Alcoa Aluminum Co., which six months ago began offering a half-cent bounty on each can, also has begun rewarding its weekend conservationists with free basketball game and amusement park tickets, hot fudge sundaes and seedling trees.

Profit from paper drives and saving stamps pale before money from cans and the idea of combining cash with conservation now has a nationwide following of families, scouts, city councils, and an army of overnight conservationists.

The notion of "old aluminum" is absurd, since it doesn't have time to age. Scrap dealers with a canny eye for profits have, since World War II, hauled in used engine blocks or airplane wings for $200 a ton and the metal is remelted into storm drains, t.v. dinner trays or windshield wipers.

But the country's newest cash crop is the harvesting of soft drink and beer cans from the nation's parks and highways, with the annual profit to the public amounting to the millions of dollars.

The great aluminum can hunt began in California in 1968 when the Reynolds Co. inaugurated a pilot program in Los Angeles. Sometime after their splash of advertisements in magazines and local papers, the center settled down to permanency.

In one year the public responded by lugging in 1.6 million pounds of aluminum cans. In cold cash it meant $160,000. And on any given Saturday in Los Angeles some 200 cars, trucks and motorcycles are liable to unload bagfuls of cans.

Three of the country's giants in the aluminum industry — Reynolds, Kaiser and Alcoa — have in recent years divied up the state for their various reclamation centers and each operation is reported to be "breaking even."

In Northern California, Kaiser's "Can Do" project has up to 50 reclamation sites reaching to the Oregon border and centered on San Francisco. They anticipate reclaiming 50 million cans this year. Last year they disbursed $80,000.

"For years the aluminum industry has emphasized recycling," said Kaiser spokesman John Cashel. "And, realistically, each can means a conservation of resources . . . that much less Bauxite ore to dig from the earth."

"True, these recycling projects are an extremely small step in the fight against litter, but they're a step indeed," said Cashl.

Invited Up On The High Wire

By PAT BALMES

"It was like being invited up on the high wire at the circus. Aunt Kay's encouragement was almost too strong," says Peggy Bridgman, niece of world-famous author Kathleen Norris. She refers to her late aunt's poem handwritten above the printed dedication in "Shining Windows:"

"Peg of my heart, be somewhere near —
(Yes, you of all the younger folk)
So when I have to drop it, dear —
You catch my cloak!
Aunt Kay"

Kathleen Norris, who wrote 80 novels, was an inspiration to the second generation of her family as writers and as people, accoring to her niece.

"Aunt Kay was in love with life."

And so is vivacious Mrs. John Bridgman of Belvedere, actress, writer and mother of three grown children.

Currently Peggy is in rehearsal with a newly-formed acting group, Actors Incorporated, for a fall production of a psychological drama about Henry VIII and his six wives, tenatively scheduled at the Kaiser Theater in Oakland. She plays Katharine Parr in "Royal Gambit" directed by A. J. Esta and written by Hermann Gressieker.

"ACTING IS like tennis," says the actress, "in that playing with more experienced players improves you."

Peggy started acting 30 years ago, when she joined the children's theater group of the Junior League in San Francisco as the young mother of Anita, new Mrs. Haley Fromhelz of Piedmont, and Julie, now Mrs. Lorcan Bowden of Mill Valley.

Then she was stricken with polio. During her convalescence she learned to type on a hospital table pulled across her bed, resorting to writing on a clipboard "in the sticky parts."

In 1953 Peggy gave birth to her son, Joseph, and published her novel, "Love is a Place." Today she thinks of it as having been written by "a youthful-somebody-else."

Next Peggy joined the Masque Unit of Marin's Junior Theater, now 10 years old, and began acting for children again. The 35 adult players perform an original play annually at no cost to Marin Junior Theater, which uses the proceeds to finance performances by troupes from outside Marin County.

"I never would have gone into playwriting except that most of the available material was so appalling," Peggy explains.

For four years Peggy wrote the Masque Unit's plays.

"I acted in every one. They couldn't keep me away! There's a magic in the group. The support we give each other is unbelievable. But we need younger members," says Peggy.

THE PLAYWRIGHT-actress tried directing, too.

"I was no good. I'm glad I learned that I had no talent as a director. But I rewrote the whole play that I directed," says Peggy.

Seeing the production is essential to her as a playwright. Peggy says.

"You finish writing the play and then it comes to life on the stage. You can see what is right and wrong."

Her plays for children are written in rhyme which disciplines the author to "stick to the plot" and add nothing extra. And it's good for the actors, too.

Writing a play occupies Peggy's mind constantly, as she tries to resolve the actors' problems.

"I was going to visit my daughter Julie in Mill Valley one day when I found myself on Waldo Grade. My mind had been busy trying to untie the knot I had written my characters into," she relates.

THE PLAYWRIGHT "went adult" the past three summers to write one-act plays for the "Sons of Art" summer series of artistic and cultural events presented before a small, invited audience on the grounds of the Joseph Henderson home in Ross. Again this year, Peggy has been invited to write a play for this series. She plans "a comedy with a twist at the end." Peggy is excited, but apprehensive about starting it.

"If you mention my play, I'll be sick right here in the kitchen sink!" she says, laughing.

When she asked A. J. Esta, for many years director of Interplayers Theater in San Francisco, to direct her plays, she inquired,

"Can you direct a play one of the actors has written?"

Esta replied,

"Once I did and it was a disaster." But the director has coped with the authoress-actress by splitting Peggy's personality. When he is consulting her as author, Esta decorously addresses her as Margaret. But when he is bossing her as acrtress, he may say,

"Peggy, shut up!"

Peggy and her family have lived on Corinthian Island for 28 years, the past 12 in a cozy home enjoyed for its view of San Francisco and its efficient size.

Peggy Thompson married Jack Bridgman when she was 18. He had just arrived from the East to work for McCann Erickson Advertising Agency. She was reared in Mill Valley and attended Tamalpais High School.

THE "OTHER love" of her husband's life is a ranch in Mendocino which the Bridgmans have owned for 33 years. There he works on weekends, planting trees, building things and cultivating a vegetable garden.

"Homegrown vegetables help when you only shop once a week during the summer because the nearest store is 25 miles away," says Peggy. None of the ranches in the area have electricity. Peggy speaks of the difficulty she had, as a young wife, adjusting to the loneliness of the ranch.

"But the best thing you cando with the 'other woman' (the ranch) is to make a friend of her," advises Peggy, who has come to love the mountans, the silence and the opportunity to enjoy her family without distractions. She has made pets of mice, tamed a wild bird and killed a few rattlesnakes.

Speaking of their own rustic ranch brought back memories to Peggy of many long, happy summers she spent as a child at her aunt Kathleen Norris's lavish ranch in Saratoga, "La Estancia" — the place in the sun. Her recollections unfold her aunt's spectacular rags-to-riches success story.

At 19 Kathleen Thompson found herself orphaned, impoverished and responsible with her brother Joseph, for four younger brothers and sisters in the "pretty little town of Mill Valley." The big, awkward redhead was brilliant. She had been told by her father,

"The prettiest girl in the room has only a 10 minute start on you, Kathleen." She was a witty and attractive non-stop conversationalist, according to another niece, Mrs. Benjamin Dreyfus of Mill Valley.

After struggling to rear the younger children, Kathleen married writer Charles Norris in New York City, but hated being separated from her family. Her new husband, "Cigi," was afraid he was "stuck with

Dimpfl-Kimbrell Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Bill L. Kimbrell of Denver, Colo., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Ann Kimbrell, to William Lawrence Dimpfl of Berkeley.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Dimpfl of Kentfield.

Deborah is a junior at Mills College in Oakland. She attended high school in New Jersey and is a graduate of Iver C. Ranum High School in Denver. Her brother, Steven, and sister, Marcia Lee, live in Denver.

William is the brother of Mrs. Donald Cobb of San Leandro, Mrs. Tighe O'Hanrahan of San Francisco and Joan Dimpfl, who attends Stanford University.

He is a graduate of Redwood High School and attended American Community School in Beirut, Lebanon. He was graduated from the University of California at Irvine and is in his third year of graduate studies toward a doctorate in physical chemistry at the University of California at Berkeley and is associated with Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

DEBORAH KIMBRELL

The couple plan to be married in early summer in Sausalito.

Consumers Are Own Victims

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Consumers themselves are the trappers as well as the trapped when it comes to supermarket shopping according to Jennifer Cross, author of "The Supermarket Trap."

Affiliated with the Association of California Consumers and "an average housewife," Mrs. Cross was the guest speaker at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club's guest day tea, yesterday.

She shocked, enlightened and entertained the audience with her descriptions of conditions in the food industry.

Consumers are their own victims, she suggested, through their dishonesty, ignorance and carelessness and are also the victims of deceptive practices by stores, manufacturers and advertising.

"We, the public, pay the bill for all of it," she declared.

She said that stores suffer from losses caused not only by professional shop lifters but the stealing by amateurs like children — especially boys from 12 to 17 years of age — hippies, drug addicts and housewives.

"These are the very nice ladies — your next door neighbors," Mrs. Cross emphasized. They steal and cause loss through carelessness. There are the pokers who bruise fruit, the slobs who leave the ice cream in the vegetable department, their children who drop and break bottles and cartons, the grazers who feed themselves and their youngsters snacks as they shop, and the customers whose checks bounce.

"Store inventory shrinkage runs between $800 million and $850 million a year — most of it not covered by insurance," she stated.

Stressing that the consumer is the one who pays, she declared "theft actually costs every family in the country $38 a year.

"Why do so many people steal?" she asked. Perhaps because of boredom or to save some money, but poverty is not the reason, she believes. One man caught had $1,100 in his pocket.

Other sources of loss to stores, she said, are the "Sweetheart Checkers," who ring up sales for friends at lower prices, bag boys, clerks, night crews, delivery men and even the store manager, each using his own special tricks.

"The average store loses $28,000 a year in inventory shrinkage," she said.

Mrs. Cross then explained how the stores steal from the people.

She said a common method is short weight through such devices as tilted scales, weighing on the swing of the needle, not when it at zero, soaking chickens and ham in water overnight and even hanging a weight underneath the scale.

Confessing that accidental cheating is possible, she caused laughter with the story of a big-bosomed clerk who affected the weight of a purchase unconsciously by leaning over the scales. She also noted that some errors made by checkers in ringing up sales are really accidental.

Mrs. Cross said another easy way to cheat is misrepresentation of quality, such as selling chuck as round steak, since deception with meat is hard to detect. A special technique she warned against she called "bait and switch," in which the advertised bargain is always out of stock and another product substituted. "You should get a rain check for when they do have it in stock," she advised.

Guilty of deceptive practices,

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Make Arrangements In Advance If You Want To Pick Up Check

DEAR HELEN:
I frequently take my sister and her husband out for dinner, as they have been very kind to me since I became a widow.

But often it ends up the other way around, with the man paying for all of us. This is because the waitress brings him the bill, and if I ask for it, he is embarrassed, and I feel like a fool.

I've tried giving him the money before we enter the restaurant, but he refuses. What can I do? — SINGLE BUT SELF-SUPPORTING

DEAR SINGLE:
Make the reservations in your name, and arrange with the manager to pay at the desk, or by credit card. You can also tell the waitress beforehand that you want to sign for the dinners.

A man shouldn't feel embarrassed when a woman offers to pay — but he does, and so she must go to a little extra work, smoothing the way. — H.

DEAR HELEN:
Our daughter will be married soon. We have planned a nice wedding, but now she springs this on us: After she and the bridegroom leave, she wants her friends to stay on at the reception hall for a dance and beer bust. That means keeping the band for four more hours, providing drinks for a thirsty crowd, not to speak of the cleanup and possible breakage.

We aren't wealthy. Is this fair? — TOO MUCH

DEAR T.M.:
No. When a bride and bridegroom make a dash through the rice, the reception should end. — H.

DEAR HELEN:
My daughter works full time with a take-home pay check of $120 a week. She read in a 10-year-old magazine (where it came from I don't know) that $40 a month was right for at-home room and board. She considers this "high."

Ten dollars a week wouldn't even pay for her food these days. She also expects all her laundry done, comes and goes as she pleases, does no work in the house, and uses the telephone constantly. She is 22, and very picky, causing fights with the younger children.

What would you suggest that wouldn't be "holding her up?" — MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:
I'd suggest $20 a week minimum, and if she balks, I'd ask "What's holding you up? Find an apartment." — H.

DEAR HELEN:
Referring to your piece on overkill in burglar alarms, we agree with the lady who said you can overdo protection of a private residence. There are certainly companies who take advantage of fear to make a fast buck.

However, most reputable organizations will give you no more protection than you need. For example, a good security system with a hot line to the police and fire department is available for as little as $300.

Installation of an alarm system is no job for an amateur. There is no need to spend thousands of dollars, but most people will sleep better if they have wise protection from intruders. — H. H.

Kathleen Colla Is Bride Of Robert Howard Ridge

Kathleen Sylvia Colla became the bride of Robert Howard Ridge March 20 at Mission San Rafael Arcangel.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Jeanne A. Colla of San Rafael and Sylvester J. Colla of San Rafael.

Mrs. Karen Becker of Rohnert Park was her sister's matron of honor.

Burgess Ridge of Rockford, Ill., the bridgroom's brother, was the best man. Ushers were the bride's brothers Wayne S. Colla of Monterey and Craig P. Colla of San Rafael.

After a reception at the Marin's Memorial Club in San Francisco the couple left for a trip to Green Bay, Wis.

The bride is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, and she attended the College of Marin. Kim S. Colla is also her sister.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Budgess Ridge of Hammond, Ind. He is a graduate of Oliver P. Morton High School in Indiana. He is the brother of Richard Ridge, John Ridge and Mrs. Steven Peck.

Pamela Swanson Engaged To Wed

The engagement of Pamela Swanson to Dave Watson has been announced by her parents Eldon Swanson of San Rafael and Mrs. Jack Zeller of Sacramento.

She is the sister of Scott, Jim and Lisa Swanson of San Rafael, and she attended San Rafael High School.

Dave, son of Mrs. John Hegarty of San Rafael and Walter Watson of Oroville, is employed by San Dominico School for Girls.

He is the brother of Mrs. Gene Pennington of Novato, Mrs. Peter Escallier of San Rafael, Barbara Watson of San Rafael and Johnny, Michael and Steven Hagarty of San Rafael. His local grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce of Novato.

The couple plan to be married April 24.

The Differences In Bars

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"All right lady, what's your statement?" the police officer asked, unnervingly nonchalant. (I only hoped my husband would react in the same way.)

"Well, officer . . . (I was still in a state of shock) . . . "I honestly didn't even notice this, um, gentleman (who was now handcuffed). I was seated at the far end of the bar looking at the television anchored on the wall. There was this guy — on television attempting to milk a cow and he was failing miserably. It was so funny I started laughing and . . . Well, the next thing I knew, this man seated at the bar beneath the television set jumped up and shouted, 'Why are you laughing at me?' "

I CASUALLY pointed to the television set and indicated that the reason for my amusement was the man and the cow. But the, um, gentleman was not to be placated.

' 'So you think I'm funny, do you?" he roared toward my end of the bar.

In a flash the bartender, other male patrons and the paranoia-sufferer were engaged in a knockdown, drag-out free-for-all. The police (to my relief) had arrived in record time.

As I sat in the patrol car, I was both amazed and frightened at how a tiny misunderstanding could have ballooned into a major fracas so quickly. And, of course, I couldn't help but anticipate my husband's first question: What in the name of saints were you doing there in the first place?

THE TRUTH of the matter is, I was there in the name of research — social research. After talking to several GIs recently returned from Vietnam and hearing about the obvious differences in the black bars and the white bars in Vietnam, I decided to take a little observation tour of the local bars.

I conned another mother (for peaceful social research) into accompanying me. The idea seemed harmless enough — after all, it was midday in the middle of the week. Just an innocent research trip.

Before I was frightened silly and almost arrested, I did, however, make a few nonshattering observations:

In all the bars visited, the majority of the patrons was male. Those females sighted were primarily in the white bars.

THE MEN in the black bars were dressed casually and in work clothes, whereas the men in the white bars were well dressed — in suits and ties.

The white bars were more fancy and plush than the black bars, offering more extras — like toothpicks, corn chips and free matches.

The patrons in the black bars seemed to "nurse" drinks longer than those in the white bars, who reordered more often.

There was a difference in the music coming from the juke boxes. Mostly Western music was played in the white bars and jazz in the black bars.

The black bars were generally more noisy — voices louder — than the white bars.

The one sameness the bars shared was that the majority of the patrons seemed burdened and alone.

AS WITH all research, variables make a difference, and further observations should be made at different hours of the day and night. I know unescorted women in bars are commonplace today, but even in the name of research I, for one, won't be bar-researching without benefit of a male companion any time soon.

'Aunt Kay' Inspires Creativity In Belvedere's Peggy Bridgman

her whole damn family," but grew to be very loving and family oriented. The Norrises were able to build their spacious ranch in Saratoga to enjoy their large family because of Kathleen's success "with her love stories of happy families with happy endings," and also due to Cigi's financial genius in managing her affairs.

THIRTEEN COUSINS, children of Kathleen Norris's brothers and sisters, (including her own son, Frank and adopted son, Bill) spent long summers with their mothers in cottages tucked under madrone and oak trees at "La Estancia."

"We all look back on it as though on heaven," says Mrs. Dreyfus then quoting Tennyson, "The land in which it seemed always afternoon."

Frequently there would be 28 weekend guests for big informal breakfasts and lunches in the redwood grove where Kathleen Norris would cook at the huge barbecue. Afternoons were spent at the swimming pool, tennis court and playing croquet. Among the many celebrities who came for weekends were Harpo Marx, Charles Lindberg and Francis Parkinson Keyes.

Ladies were long dresses and flowers in their hair for cocktails on the porch and the formal dinners at the main house.

"We'd stay up half the night playing games in the round," remembers Mrs. Bridgman.

AT HER RANCH Kathleen Norris wrote every morning, not in ivory tower seclusion, but with children playing in her room and all the interruptions due a hostess and matriach of a large family. Her writing seemed effortless because of her marvelous powers of concentration,

"Aunt Kay was never without something in her hands; a snarled fishline, a crossword puzzle or a clipboard with a list on it," recalls Mrs. Dreyfus. "They wouldn't let her answer the phone. She was hopeless! She would agree to anything or else forget what she was told."

Another of Mrs. Dreyfus's recollections was a day when all the little children summering at the ranch were pesky and underfoot.

"Aunt Kay cleared the room by saying, 'Any child that I can see by the time I count 10 will get a nice, hot, sudsy bath!"

Kathleen Norris was a suffragette and a prohibitionist. During the hottest summer days at La Estancia the young folks would slip down to the cool, dark laundry room beneath the house and drink beer. Accidentally discovering them one morning, Kathleen is remembered to have said,

"Oh dear, I wish we could find some nice place in the country where you kids could get out in the sun."

The author wore plain, blue cotton Chinese pajamas in her private life at the ranch. Cigi, despairing of interesting her in beautiful clothes, finally had some pajamas made in gorgeous material for their formal dinners. He gave her a full length mink coat one Christmas and Kathleen had to turn to her sister to ask what kind of fur it was, Mrs. Dreyfus remembers.

Another episode was a shipboard cruise when Kathleen took along her young son Frank, now a San Francisco gynecologist, and his cousin Joe.

"THAT'S THE rail," Kathleen pointed out. "If you fall over it I doubt that the ship would be able to come back and find you. If you do that, you were too dumb to rear anyway!"

As her beloved family multiplied, Kathleen Norris would stop in a San Francisco store to send her usual silver bowl to the newest baby. Standing there at the counter, she would compose a little poem to be engraved on it. On Peggy Bridgman's bowl is the legend:

"Here shall she find her
bread and cream
Her ease, when great adventures flout her
And o'er this brim shall Margaret dream
Of the mysterious world about her."

Mrs. J. W. Foster Is New Chairman

Mrs. J. Wentworth Foster of Mill Valley, vice chairman this year of Mill Valley's Tamalpais Nursery School Board of trustees, will be the chairman for the coming year.

A member two years, she was elected by other board of trustee members to succeed Mrs. Melvyn Mark at the annual meeting of the non-profit coporation Tuesday at the school, which is located on the grounds of the Mill Valley Methodist Church.

The school, whose executive director is Mrs. Robert Bastian of Belvedere, offers a three-day and a two-day a week program for three to five year-olds and a two-day a week special program for pre-kindergarten children who just miss the age requirement for kindergarten.

A native of Denver, Colo., Penny Holland Foster was graduated from the Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. and from Smith College, where she majored in government.

Before her marriage she worked as a secretary in San Francisco and now works occasionally at the Spectrum Book Store in San Francisco that she and her husband own. He is assistant manager of the United California Bank in Sa Rafael.

They moved to Marin five years ago. Their three daughters are Diana, 6; Katharine, 4; and Abigail, 20 months.

The new president belongs to no other organizations but enjoys all sports, especially tennis, hiking, swimming and skiing.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Foster are Robert Wright, vice chairman; and Mrs. Douglas Ferguson, secretary-treasurer. New trustees elected for three-year terms are George Cagwin and Mmes. Horace Gilford and C. C. Collins.

Hill Junior High P-TA Sets Program On V.D. Education

"V.D. — a Threat to Novato Teen-agers" will be the topic of Dr. Ellis Mitchell, a member of Bay Area Venereal Disease Association at the Hill Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting in Novato at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Carol Cereghino, public health nurse assigned to Hill School, will also participate in the program. Dr. Mitchell will show a new film entitled, "Half A Million Teen-agers," preceding his talk.

A resident of Novato, Dr. Mitchell has offices in Novato and Greenbrae. He was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Medical School and served residencies at the University of California Medical Center and the San Francisco Veterans' Administration Hospital. He is an officer of the San Francisco Dermatological Society and has lectured on V.D. extensively in Marin County.

Teen-agers must be accompanied to the public meeting by their parent, the P-TA announced. Venereal disease education is a program of the national P-TA.

NOVATO FEDERATED Women's Club will hold its meeting on Thursday, at the Moose Lodge in Novato. Coffee will be served at 10 a.m., election of officers will be Held at 10:30 and games will be played following the meeting.

Mrs. Frank Traub and Mrs. Claude Lewin will be hostesses for the salad bar luncheon.

"DRUGS AND Their Usage," is the topic to be discussed by two speakers from Center Point at the Thursday meeting of the White Hill Parent-Teacher Association at 8 p.m., at the school in Fairfax. Center Point is a self-run half-way house in San Rafael.

THE SAN Geronimo Valley Nursery School will hold spring parents night Monday at 8 p.m. at the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church.

Miss Elizabeth Souza, a child and family counselor in Marin and San Mateo Counties, will speak.

THE WOMEN'S Club of Marin Catholic High School will have a luncheon and fashion show tomorrow at St. Sebastian's hall at noon.

Clothes will be modeled by members of the club, high school students and younger students. Luncheon and show chairmen are Mmes. Peter Molinari and Marvin Cerruti. Mrs. Kenneth Fuller is coordinator and models from the club will be Mmes. Cerruti, John Boito, George Monardo, Bruce Koppe, Joseph Maniscalco, Howard Richcreek, Paul Vogelheim and Keith Yetter.

THE WOMEN OF Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur will meet for luncheon and a program of television news at the 11:45 a.m. meeting in the fellowship hall Thursday. Allan Jones, producer of the 7 p.m. news broadcast, KPIX, will speak on "Preparation of News and the Decisions Behind It."

Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mmes. Alex Kazakoff, chairman, Harold Myers and David Zita. Child care will be provided.

MRS. SHIRLEY Walker of Corte Madera was honored at a Founders Day Dinner held by the Larkspur Corte Madera School and was awarded the Parent-Teacher Association's honorary service award for outstanding community service and direct service to the Larkspur-Corte Madera School District.

Mrs. Jackie Palmer, kindergarten teacher at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School, was awarded the honorary service pin for her services from the teaching profession.

THE CAROUSEL Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers raised a total of $2,100 last weekend in its auction of a 1929 Ford pickup truck and other vintage items at Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael.

Proceeds go toward the Carousel Branch's commitment to help meet the Volunteers' pledge of $23,000 toward the purchase of the linear accelerator at Marin General Hospital.

Young Girls' Fashions For Spring

As spring swings in this year, young girls will probably swing out in a grown-up pants outfit or give a happy-print prairie dress a whirl.

Fashion that's fun and fashion that's comfortable is what she wants — and what she'll find.

Of course, her new spring wardrobe is bound to include plenty of basics. Skirts, jumpers, blouses, shirts, vests and jackets provide a quick mix of classics freshened by lively prints and colors.

Right-now details such as suspenders, plenty of pockets and fringe make the spring difference for these separates.

But her newest basic fashion is pants. She can wear pantsuits, pants with coats, pants with dresses, pants with tunics and vests — and always pants.

This action-packed fashion suits a busy little miss to a T. Pants go to school, pants go to parties and, of course, pants are perfect for play.

Jumpsuits and bib overalls are beginning to take a part in the little girls' fashion picture.

The prairie — or country, or pioneer — dress with its swingy skirt promises to be a big winner in calico print, patchwork or madras.

Ruffle, flounces and sash details complete the look.

For many of her dresses, fabric seems even more important than style.

Polyester and polyester knits, with their knack for taking rough-and-tumble wear and coming up fresh and pretty, are increasingly notable in all areas of fashion for her.

Shirtdresses, tailored A-lines, shifts and full-skirted styles follow the polyester route, as does sportswear.

Then there are madras and denim, still more knits, cottons and cotton blends, very much in evidence.

Capes — long or short — coordinate with dresses for some of the perkiest dress-up costume looks of the season.

CLUNKER BOOTS

One of the biggest new styles to come in are clunkers with yards of laces and soles thick enough to hike the moors and marshes of Heathcliff. The workman's boot is in, for men and women.

FOR AUTUMN IN LONDON

Inventory Shrinkage Caused By Stealing Ups Market Prices

too, the speaker said, are manufacturers who short weight through putting air in bread, cookies and ice cream and water in poultry, soap and orange juice. They also cheat through adulterating quality — like putting too much fat in frankfurters and filler in peanut butter.

Deceptive advertising is another way of cheating the public, Mrs. Cross pointed out, through such practices as package design, taking out the best ingredients when cost goes up and making false claims of good nutrition or effectiveness for products.

What are the reason for all these deplorable conditions?

Some, she said, may be "the rottenness of human nature, pressures in the fiercely competitive food industry and failure of people to be alert."

"We are easy to cheat," she said, adding that the legal situation is very cloudy, making prosecution and establishing of standards difficult. Furthermore, agencies such as the food and drug administration, the Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission are not fully effective for various reasons. What can shoppers do to protect themselves?

Mrs. Cross concluded with these recommendations: 1. Never steal 2. Never let a check bounce 3. Report stealing you see 4. Watch the scales — one woman checks meat by weighing it on the produce scales 5. Take ads with you to check prices 6. Check the checkers — they make many mistakes 7. Watch what the legislature is doing about things affecting customers, and 8. Join or form a group to protect your rights as consumers.

She Seeks More Help For POWs

It's time that all people who care take the load off of the wives of American prisoners of war and shoulder the burder of concern themselves, believes a Corte Madera housewife, who herself spends all the time she can spare on behalf of the 1,600 American servicemen who are missing in action or prisoners of war.

She's Leslie Ann Callahan, and with her husband, Robert, has spent the past year coordinating the statewide campaign in behalf of prisoners of war and missing-in-action men for the California Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is chairman for the Jaycees efforts and she is executive secretary for the campaign.

Now Mrs. Callahan is seeking volunteer women and women's groups from Marin to form a separate incorporated organization of volunteers to extend the work she has been doing individually.

There has been a continued campaign by the Red Cross and help from several women's groups in Marin, but Mrs. Callahan hopes to coordinate efforts on the POW cause for groups of Marin citizens.

Leslie Callahan herself wrote to officials in all 125 countries which signed the Geneva Convention calling for humane treatment of American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

She has also written to Secretary General U Thant at the United Nations, receiving "We have received your letter" style replies so far; to the office of the president in Hanoi, North Vietnam, and to American officials, expressing concern for American prisoners of war and missing-in-action men. The letters ask that pressure be put on North Vietnam to abide by the Geneva Convention it signed with regard to humane treatment of all prisoners of war.

"But everyone who wants to should do these things, and with a volunteer group we could be doing so much more to bring it to the attention of the public to also write letters," Mrs. Callahan explained. Volunteers may contact her at 736 Robin Drive in Corte Madera.

"It's all ready to be incorporated and we hope to get an office to use as a clearing house of activities," she said.

Special features you'll enjoy:

While nearly 750,000 visitors annually make the pilgrimmage to Muir Woods National Monument to stand in awe beneath its giant trees, it is astonishing, says Chief Ranger Marvin Hershey, how many Marinites have never seen this grand sight in their own backyard. For those who have not, Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax provides a memorable camera tour in tomorrow's Marin Magazine. After seeing it, neglectful Marinites will waste no time visiting Muir Woods in person.

For its popular profile series of prominent personalities of the area, the Marin Magazine goes outside the boundaries of Marin County tomorrow. The subject is Gene Benedetti, the personable head of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery and a recognized spokesman for the dairy industry. I-J reporter Bonnie Bard has written the story of the southern Sonoma civic leader for tomorrow's magazine, complete to his interesting views on a number of controversial topics.

OPERA REVIEW

'Don Pasquale' Is Highly Enjoyable

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — Donizetti's opera "Don Pasquale" is all heart and flowers and cotton candy, too.

And what a way to escape from a stormy Bay Area night — at least that was the case last night at the Curran Theater where the San Francisco Spring Opera Theater presented a rousing production of the comic masterpiece.

The opera is like a dish of light and creamy pasta accompanied by a vintage champagne and topped by a giant cone of whipped cotton candy — which believe it or not was passed across the Curran's thrust stage during the finale.

After planting its feet firmly on the ground with an excellent reading of Verdi's "Rigoletto" last Friday night, the company really let go in last night's revival of "Don Pasquale."

Sung in English and updated to turn-of-the-century in San Francisco's North Beach, the opera's happy melodies, lovely arias and clever ensembles kept the packed house abuzz.

With only minute support Francesco Prestia's chorus — the four principals had an evening's romp in vocal agility and acting.

Richard Best, making his debut with the company, was an excellent Don Pasquale, the elderly bachelor who takes a sudden twilight fling, which he soon regrets. Besides his fine singing and acting, Best has a gift for the ad lib, cleverly demonstrated near the finale when another one of the principals had to go romping off stage, circle back and enter on the other side — and the audience loved it.

Shigemi Matsumoto, the lovely 1968 San Francisco Opera Auditions winners, is always a delight to hear for she has a voice and stage personality to match any young singer in the operatic world. Her Norina as definitely that cotton candy!

"DON PASQUALE" — An opera in two acts by Gaetano Donizetti. Test by Salvatore Cammarano. English translation by Phyllis Mead. The San Francisco Spring Opera Theater staff: Everett Lee, conductor; Richard Pearlman, production; Robert Darling, designer; Francesco Prestia, chorus director; Susan Webb, musical preparation; Goldstein & Co., costumes. The cast: Richard Best, Don Pasquale; John Walker, Ernesto; Shigemi Matsumoto, Norina; William Justus, Doctor Malatesta, and Carlo Micheletti, the notary.

Also in spring opera debuts were William Justus, a resonant baritone, as Doctor Malatesta, and tenor John Walker as Ernesto, the young "Yale" graduate nephew of Don Pasquale, whose lover is Norina.

Miss Matsumoto and Walker, who has a sparkling clear tenor voice, teamed together for a lovely duet "Only to know you are near me" in the finale scene of Act II. The orchestra under Everett Lee's direction was a perfect ensemble for the cast.

The idea of the thrust stage for a more intimate and European approach to opera was perfect for "Don Pasquale" because of the smallness of the principal cast.

In his debut as production chief Richard Pearlman waved a magic wand over the entire cast. ye would be a most welcome addition to Kurt Adler's fall production staff.

Robert Darling's garish Victorian set caught the spirit of the North Beach Italian community and was easy to manage on the small performing stage. He caught the flavor of early San Francisco with use of slides on the front skrim to introduce scenes.

The highly enjoyable opera will be repeated again Sunday night and also on April 2.

'A THURBER CARNIVAL' TO BE PERFORMED

Nanci Worner gets a lift from Philip Sheridan in a scene from "A Thurber Carnival" by James Thurber. Skip Sommer and Carol Stitt look surprised at the move. The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at San Domenico School, San Anselmo. John Brebner, managing director of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, is the director. Proceeds will benefit the school's scholarship fund.

Fulbright Hits Eban's Overture To The Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., playing the unaccustomed role of a solid Nixon administration supporter, has accused Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban of an unprecedented attempt to win a diplomatic victory in the U.S. Senate rather than at the negotiating table.

Fulbright criticized Eban's meeting last Friday with more than 40 senators at the Capitol, in which the Israeli representative explained why his country was balking at peace efforts made by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said it was "an unprecedented procedure" for a foreign minister "to come here and negotiate with the Senate" rather than sitting down with the Arabs and United Nations Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

Fulbright spoke to newsmen Thursday following a 1 1-2 hour meeting between Rogers and 67 senators —the first time since World War II a Secretary of State has arranged a meeting with the full Senate.

It was felt the meeting was arranged to give Rogers an opportunity to present his side of the story

Loan Firm Accused In Quake Case

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI)—A man forced to evacuate his home because of earthquake damage has accused a savings and loan company of "breaking in" to his home and "looting" all the appliances, including the kitchen sink.

Dave Geml said Thursday that the city Department of Buildings and Safety ordered him to evacuate his home following the Feb. 9 earthquake because it was unsafe.

He told newsmen he locked all the doors and boarded up a window, which was broken in the quake, and moved out, leaving most of the family's possessions behind.

He said when he returned to the home March 12 he found a "dear borrower" letter from Fidelity Savings and Loan Association stating that the appliances had been removed as a precautionary measure. He said the firm even took the kitchen sink and door knobs, but left behind personal property that was not attached to the house.

"They later called my wife at work and told her they were foreclosing on the house," Geml said.

Leland L. Larsen, senior vice president of the association and the man whose signature was on the "dear borrower" form letter, said the appliances were removed from Geml's home and 24 other homes in the area for safekeeping because "we found the area was being systematically looted."

FAMILY

"My Fair Lady" — Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Tora, Tora, Tora" — Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese point of view. Excellent cast, amazing photography, well worth seeing.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Borsalino" — French gangster film about the 30's shows the violent exterminating practices to eliminate competition. The gory violence is almost continuous. Lavishly detailed sets produces a self conscious campy effect.

"Priest's Wife" — Satirical comedy deals with contemporary controversy about a Catholic Priest who falls in love and wants to marry. Actually it is a tale about hypocrisy.

"Raid on Rommel" — A British Army Captain disguised as a German officer, masterminds a hazardous attack on the deeply entrenched fortifications of Rommel's Afrika Korps. (Film Information)

"Sterile Cuckoo" — A kooky college freshman and her first love experience is told with insight that is a tribute to the director.

"THX 1138" — In the 25th century, in a computer controlled subterranean community, people are subjugated by drugs and watched by TV cameras continuously. Sexual union is a crime. But THX and his roommate skip their drugs and discover sexual love. Laws are enforced by mechanical men obedient tothe computer. Photographic techniques are imaginative.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Investigation of a Citizen Above Suspicion" — The head of intelligence in Rome commits a bloody murder leaving ample clues to his guilt to prove that police will disregard them due to his stature. A fascinating topic but overly long to maintain tension. Some sex and nudity. English subtitles.

"Little Fauss and Big Halsy" — Contemporary motorcycle drama about two men who compete both off and on the track. Fast pace covers shallow content. Lots of nude girls, a Johnny Cash sound track and a predictable ending.

"The Wedding Night" — The emotional turmoil suffered by a young bride whose mother just died in childbirth is powerfully and realistically portrayed.

ADULTS ONLY

"Arrangement" — A steamy melange of the personal and sexual hangups of an advertising executive. Adult drama, dialogue frank plus intimate sex scenes.

"Catch 22" — Satirical, unusually biting anti-war film with repetitive flashback and flashforwards sequences. Some are good, others bizarre, morbid and obscene.

"Five Easy Pieces" — Free-form portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle-class existence. Explicit sex and frank language.

"If" — Harrowing British study about students and faculty of a rigidly disciplined boys' boarding school. Sadistic methods used to maintain order lead to a violently rebellious revolt with weapons turned on the establishment by students. Much nudity.

"I Love My Wife" — Stylish comedy about an empty life. told in terms of sex.

"Loving" — Quiet desperation of suburban life is artfully explored in this story of a commercial artist living on the brink of disaster. A lewd escapade at a party brings matters to a shocking conclusion. Extremely frank language and sex scenes.

"Midnight Cowboy" — Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant plus much profanity.

"Rosemary's Baby" — Suspenseful tale of modern witchcraft. A blend of horror-fantasy and everyday reality graphically portrayed about a young woman who is bearing Satan's child.

"Swappers" — A pseudo-documentary about affluent middle-class marrieds in Britain who trade mates in sexual games in hopes they will heal their own incompatibilities. (Catholic Films Newsletter).

"Women In Love" — D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

JIMMY BORGES

Our favorite old favorite returns. He "packed the house" when he sang in our Garden Bar last year. His popularity is well earned. With a fine voice, a quick wit, an uncanny ability to compose lyrics as he sings and an utterly disarming personality. Jimmy brings good cheer wherever he goes.

Three shows nightly except Sundays and Mondays at 9:30, 11, and 12:30 — with lots of dancing in between.

There's no cover or minimum; so you can afford a good dinner in the East-West Room and a parking space in the underground garage.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

La Petite Auberge's Wisteria Is A Sure Sign Of Spring's Arrival

It definitely is spring, and if there is any doubt — all you have to do to confirm it is look at the wisteria now in bloom at La Petite Auberge in San Rafael.

This venerable old vine, which has thrived for a half-century or longer, is one of the main decor attractions in the dining room. It is highly respected and new improvements have had to conform with its seniority as part of the permanent scenery. And in recent years it has been nicely manicured from time to time to show off gracefully against the interior design of walls, ceiling and sliding Rollamatic roof. It is such an integral part of La Petite that the place would not look the same without it.

There is much more to this restaurant, of course, than its magnificent wisteria vine. Basically it is about as French as any place you can find — but it doesn't capitalize on that fact the way some restaurants do. In other words, it doesn't continually force the French theme down your throat with every bite between the hors d'oeuvres and entrements.

Therein is one reason for its popularity and success — its adaptation to American tastes and eating habits, making it a comfortable place for everyone to visit and enjoy good food and a bright, cheery atmosphere.

In a few days La Petite Auberge will celebrate its 12th anniversary. Most of those 12 years have been good years, from the time Paul Devaux started it, with his wife Renee as cashier, and then more expansively when he was joined by his present partners Pierre Grigaut and Roger Poli.

DOn't let anyone tell you it's necessary to have a large restaurant to have a successful one. La Petite started small, made the most of its space and natural assets — and look at its attendance now.

A NEW LITTLE RESTAURANT and pizzeria opening Tuesday at 633 Del Ganado Road in Terra Linda is Loco-co's. This is in the Scotty's Market area.

Owners are three brothers, Giovanni, Filippo and Nicolo Lococo. Actually the place will be operated mainly by the two younger brothers — Filippo and Nicolo of San Rafael, and their Italian food should be pretty authentic, since they have been in Marin from Palermo only about 10 months. During that time they have had a restaurant in Jackson. Giovanni, who lives in Novato, works in San Francisco.

This is a table service and take-out operation, with the brothers Lococo turning out a dozen types of pizzas in several sizes. You'll also find them offering cannelloni and other oven-cooked Italian dishes — all a la carte.

Hours are from 2 p.m. to midnight. An application has been made for a wine and beer license.

DON FANDRE AND YORK FISCHER are now celebrating completion of their first year operating the Fondue Pot in the Paradise Shopping Center, Corte Madera.

Additional congratulations are also in order for their success with their new restaurant in El Paseo Building, Mill Valley. There has been a little delay in getting the one open on Nob Hill in San Francisco, but that should come to life very soon.

HOLIDAY INN at Terra Linda is now serving breakfast, lunch and dinner continuously on Saturdays and Sundays in the Alta Loma dining room — a cheerful spot to eat any of these meals.

And you'll also find luncheon fashion shows on Tuesdays.

A FASHION SHOW sponsored by thewomen's committee of the Redwood Coast Chapter of the American Institute of Banking will be held on Saturday, April 24, at Sonoma Joe's In Petaluma.

If you can't make that, try for their "Grand Opening Party" on Wednesday in the section of the restaurant that has been remodeled and will continue in service. Doors will be closed Monday and Tuesday to allow for completion of the work.

Sidney Koalkin of San Anselmo is general contractor, and Don credits him with doing a beautiful job on the remodeling. You'll find the place more attractive than ever, in spite of its smaller size — product of expert craftsmanship.

And if it happens that the present quarters need enlarging again, I'm told that this possibly may be arranged — not by expanding at the front or back or at the sides — but upward.

OCCASIONALLY I have had requests to express an opinion on how much to tip in restaurants.

As the matter of gratuities — not only to a waiter or waitress but in many other areas of service — is long steeped in tradition, it is the custom itself that counts, not my opinion of it. And tipping will continue to be a custom for many years to come, no matter what is said here.

The current guideline at restaurants is 15 per cent. Who determines that, I don't know. I can remember that at one time it was 10, but it went up — probably for the same reasons that everything else has gone up, including wages.

This 15 per cent is not absolute. But it's an accepted starting point. Variations — either more or less — are a matter of conscience and the type of service you receive. If the person who waits on you doesn't perform his duties the way he should, I know of no reason why he should expect to be rewarded as well as someone who does.

I have heard of one group of businessmen who cover this situation with printed cards left on the table after the meal according to the service rendered. As I understand it, if the service is satisfactory the current tipping rate is observed and no card is left. If not, there is a printed message to go with whatever money is left, explaining the reason for any reduction. And there is a special card to explain if nothing is left at all.

On the other hand, if the waiter or waitress performs some special service or does the job exceptionally well, there is no reason to say that you shouldn't leave 20 per cent.

To answer one specific inquiry received, restaurant owners generally do not determine or prescribe the size of the tip. A major exception to this is in arranging group lunches, parties and banquets, when an overall figure per person, including tax and tip, is requested.

Otherwise, if you were to ask a restaurant owner how large a tip you should leave, he might possibly say 15 per cent. But more likely he'd smile, shrug his shoulders and say it's up to you — which it is.

Tate Trial Cost Near $1 Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The cost of the Tate-Labianca murder trial is approaching $1 million.

The 10-month old trial, delayed Thursday because of the illness of a defense attorney, so far has cost the county $915,172, supervisor Kenneth Hahn reported.

Guilty Plea To Pot, Drunkeness

Robert Eugene Pickens, 26, of San Rafael, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of being in a place where marijuana was smoked, as well as a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving.

He earlier had been charged with possessing and being under the influence of marijuana, in addition to the drunken driving charge.

He is to be sentenced April 30.

Pickens was arrested Dec. 15 after he was seen driving erratically on Highway 101 in Mill Valley, the California Highway Patrol said.

AFRICAS MOVING NORTH

Sausalito's Spike Is Splitting

By PAT ANGLE

Tomorrow, according to expert predictions, Sausalito real estate values will plummet to pre-1900 levels and art, humor and literature in the community will regress at least 20 years. Sausalito-based stocks will crash and half the city's female population will contemplate suicide.

All this, because on that day, Spike (Phillip) Africa, Esq., President of the Pacific Ocean, will load up his truck and roar away to the good life in the wilds of Washington State.

"I'm sure it will be a drastic change for everybody living here," Africa said modestly as he forecast the mass ruin.

On a happier note, he prophesied his leaving will eliminate Sausalito's weekend traffic jam which enrages residents and prematurely age city councilmen. "I take afternoon walks along Bridgeway on Saturdays and Sundays," he explained, "and the traffic stalls because so many people stop their cars to wave and talk to me. When I go, the problem will vanish."

To forestall mass panic, Africa quickly noted the move to his wife's family summerhouse on Lake Washington near Seattle will not affect the Pacific's tides and currents which, as president, he controls. Despite concerted efforts to oust him from his self-appointed office when he moves inland, he promised he will keep the post "because Lake Washington is hooked up to Puget Sound which is salt water."

Sausalito's favorite seaman, storyteller and bon vivant indignantly demolished rumors that he is moving to be closer to Canada to avoid the draft. Although he was a member of the Navy's elite officer corps during World War II ("the Navy made me a gentleman, but it took an act of Congress") "The chance that I would be recalled to duty ended yesterday when I turned 65," Africa said with obvious relief.

REVENGE AT LAST — Spike Africa with characteristically fiendish glee prepares to execute a longstanding threat: To saw off the doors of Sausalito's No Name bar. The saw — with which ecology buff Africa claims to have cut down vast stands of virgin redwoods — has been in No Name proprietor Neil Davis's hands since the threat was first made. It was released Tuesday, handsomely decorated by Davis on the assumption that a departing Africa was a reformed Africa.

Then why leave Sausalito where for the past 12 years he has been the mainstay of the community's more eccentric elements? Africa smiled enigmatically and his eyes took on a mystical gleam. "The tides of empire, which for years have gone south and west, are now going north," he said with great dignity. His wife, Red, regarded him speculatively. "Oh Spike, you're so full of bull," she said simply.

How will a farm boy from Ohio who has worked as a seaman, rigger, crop harvester, treasury agent, oil driller, island builder, molasses runner and official host for the No Name Bar, to name just a few of his callings, spend his time in an isolated country house in the northwest? "Well, I'm not going to grow roses or play boccee ball or sit in the park," he replied.

He mused: "Somebody might send me to the North Pole or I might cut the second timber growth at Gray's Harbor in Washington since I helped rape that area of virgin timber 45 years ago; I just can't stand to see a tree standing. "I'll have to work because my $208-a-month Social Security check will not support us in the style to which we have become accustomed."

Whenever he feels like it, he plans to return to Sausalito "for a weekend", thanks to a special fund which he said No Name owner Neil Davis has promised to establish by raising the price of steam beer from 45 to 50 cents. "Davis promised me that five cents will go to fly me down here. It's possible that when I return, there will be an uptrend in business, real estate, art and tourism." Mrs. Africa added: "And police activity."

In his spare time Africa plans to continue "My Life of Violence", do some humorous writing ("Blasting Somebody") and tow Alcatraz Island to French Polynesia in exchange for one of their islands. "I have an agreement with the French government," he confided. "Nobody know what to do with Alcatraz, but I do."

He regrets that no one in Marin is qualified to replace him as Sausalito's sartorial leader and, in a burst of enthusiasm, gave a brief lecture on how to be among the best dressed. All that is needed is a few really fine basic garments, Africa explained as he proudly displayed his entire wardrobe which lay in carefully wrinkled piles on a sofa.

"It's a matter of selection," he said. "These two Brooks Brothers' suits were given to me by a man who was getting fat and my Harris Tweed coat has lasted 21 years. This linen jacket I found in a garbage can at the Clipper Yacht Harbor, and my wife gave me the wardrobe's crowning touch, my sheepskin vest. I sew myself into the vest for months at a time to keep warm." At that point, he refused to reveal more secrets of his sartorial splendor.

When he leaves Sausalito, Africa said he will miss his clubhouse (the No Name), Neil Davis, his dear friends and the west wind. He will not miss the Sausalito police, Don Sherwood or the Golden Gate Bridge ("bridges are against nature"). So Sausalito can bear the loss of its answer to emperor Josuah Norton, Africa hopes his home at 220 West Street "will be made into a shrine."

Two of his children, Kit and Dede, will accompany the Africas north and a daughter, Dana, will remain behind in Sausalito where she makes jewelry and works in two shops. Africa is glad to have the family along. "We have successfully raised a family and if we hadn't done anything else, that would be enough."

He wants to be remembered as an ecologist and friend of nature. "I was in the ecology thing before most people ever heard of it," he said with pride. "I cut trees, hauled gasoline to Mexico and was the first to blast for oil along the coast from Mexico to Alaska, including the Santa Barbara Channel. When I read about an oil spill, I'm proud to know I started the whole thing." His wife shook her head: "He has absolutely no morals."

Tuesday night the Africas' tiny circle of friends gave them a surprise going-away memorial wake and birthday party at the No Name, an event which may be included as a footnote in future histories of the social life of our time. The excitement and noise was so great that many guests at the party thought a bomb blast which shattered two doors at the Bank of America just across the street was only a part of the celebration and paid scant attention to the explosion.

P-TAs Urged To Back Tenure Reform Proposal

I-J Special Report

SEBASTOPOL — Parent-Teacher Associations in Marin and Sonoma counties were urged yesterday to write their legislators about some Education Code bills now in the California Legislature.

Bryce W. Anderson, Independent-Journal associate editor and education columnist, suggested the P-TAs support AB 293 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, to reform the teacher tenure law, as well as AB 56 by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, an "accountability" bill. They might make themselves heard also, he suggested, in support of Assembly Concurrent Resolution 52 by Assemblyman Kenneth MacDonald, D-Ojai, which calls for a committee study of overhauling the whole Education Code to make it a permissive code rather than a mandatory one.

The speaker suggested opposition to SB 324 by state Sen. Mervyn W. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, which would negate the Winton Act by giving all employees of the state and its school districts who hold teaching certificates the right to be represented by unions in collective bargaining. This, he noted, would permit the closed shop in the schools.

Nearly 150 P-TA officers and school superintendents and principals attended the district P-TA gathering at Masonic Hall here. Anderson's speech followed a morning business session.

Stull's AB 293 would put the newly hired teacher on a purely probationary status the first year, permit a hearing by a state hearing officer on dismissal in the second and third years with decision remaining with the school board, and supplement such a hearing with review by a panel of three educators thereafter —with the board bound by a unanimous decision of panel and hearing officer but otherwise holding final authority. It would eliminate superior court reviews of teacher dismissals.

AB 56 requires simply that a pupil shall be passed, promoted or graduated "solely on the basis of his achievement in the course of study. . . and the age of the pupil shall not be taken into consideration." This, said the speaker, would do away with automatic promotions "until you graduate a kid from high school while he's still in the fourth reader."

Anderson reviewed bills in the Legislature on school finance, tenure, voucher plan, and unification.

Although not all finance plans are yet in, he said the best so far appears to be AB 65 by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, which provides for a $3 statewide property tax to equalize apportionments among school districts and guarantees 50 per cent state support for the schools based on the present cost per pupil plus an inflation factor based on the Bureau of Labor Statistics cost-of-living index. Deddeh's bill also greatly simplifies the system of state apportionments, he noted, which other bills so far introduced fail to do.

Carolyn Crabtree of Novato, who doubles as P-TA officer and Novato unified School District trustee, was program chairman.

Marin Trio Convicted In Big Coastal LSD Raid

I-J Special Report

UKIAH — Three Marin men have been convicted on three LSD counts, each by a Mendocino County Superior Court jury after a six-week trial.

Visiting Judge Kenneth M. Eyemann of Sonoma County ordered Craig B. Champie, 21, of Fairfax, and Timothy Wayne Butler, 24, of Forest Knolls, to return to court April 9 for probation reports and sentencing. Michael B. Alwyn, 23, of San Rafael, was ordered to return to court April 20 for report and sentencing.

The jury found each of the three guilty of conspiracy to make LSD, attempting to manufacture the drug and possession of it, after deliberating for six hours late Wednesday.

The three Marin men were among seven persons arrested June 16, 1970, in Fort Bragg, in what police described as a $3 million LSD ring raid.

John Rene Rodiou, 22, of San Rafael, also was arrested in the raid, earlier pleaded guilty to a plea of manufacturing LSD. He was ordered to the California Rehabilitation Center in Corona on March 16, for drug addiction treatment.

Bicycle Store Missing Cash

Approximately $1,000 in cash and checks was stolen from Mike's Bicycle Center, 1601 Fourth Street, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

The money, contained in a canvas bag, was taken from an unlocked drawer near the cash register between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, a sales clerk told police.

The clerk said she was away from the counter twice during the hour and that the drawer is accessible to persons on either side of the counter.

Construction Ban Pall Likely Til May, Pending Panel Report

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

OAKLAND — The threat of a ban on new construction will hang over much of Southern Marin at least until late May.

The San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board yesterday had been scheduled to appoint a hearing panel to consider the ban, which has thrown a heavy pall on new development since it was suggested as a possibility by the board's staff on Feb. 25.

Yesterday, however, the staff said it would not have sufficient compliance data until late April on the effectiveness of emergency steps being taken to upgrade sewage treatment to avoid the ban.

The two dischargers under fire are the Richardson Bay Sanitary District and the City of Mill Valley, which also serves Tamalpais Valley.

If a hearing panel had been appointed yesterday, its recommendation could have gone to the full board on April 22, but the month's delay in its appointment postponed any chance of full board action until its May 20 meeting.

The possibility of a ban on all new construction was raised by the staff when the board gave unanimous approval last month to unprecedented new standards for sewage treatment by the two dischargers. Critical pollution problems in the shallow, constricted arms of Richardson Bay required the high degree of treatment, the regional board agreed.

The dischargers said the only alternative would be to pump out Tennessee Valley into the ocean.

The board's staff previously reported that both dischargers violated even the old standards during rainy weather. Representatives of both assured the board that they were working to control infiltration of storm water into their sewer lines.

The heavy infiltration overwhelms the treatment plants, and raw sewage bypasses treatment and is dumped untreated into the bay.

Board members praised Mill Valley for its "cooperative attitude," but were silent on Richardson Bay Sanitary District's attitude — perhaps because its officials yesterday disclosed that they had appealed to the State Water Resources Control Board to overturn the new standards.

Douglas de La Fontaine, chairman of the district board, said that the appeal was not intended "as a red flag" to the regional board, but "to protect us." The appeal had to be filed within 30 days of the Feb. 25 adoption of the new standards.

Both dischargers also repeated pleas to postpone enforcement of the new standards pending completion of plans for a joint sewerage system in Southern Marin. The plans, about to begin, were supposed to take two years to complete, but may be speeded up because of the regional board's pressure.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, which is organizing the planning, said that a definite timetable for its completion would be ready by the time the regional board's hearing panel meets in May.

Seeger, commenting on the possibility of a ban on new construction, said "the economy of Southern Marin is extremely important." he noted that the City of Mill Valley would vote in June on a $450,000 bond issue to replace defective sewer lines and upgrade sewage treatment.

Asked what the city would do if the bonds failed, he said, "I just don't know what we're going to do then. I just can't give you an answer on that."

Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the regional board, said that the bond issue would pay for improvements that "would provide an interim solution" until a subregional Southern Marin system could be built.

"It is probable that these improvements would permit the removal of a restriction on connections (construction) contained in a cease and desist order," he said, "or would preclude the inclusion of a restriction on connections if completed prior to the issuance of an order."

He made no similar comment on any plans by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

Stephen H. Kaufmann, an attorney residing in the district, wrote urging a ban on new construction in the district. He said the district has "taken no steps and is taking no steps except nominal ones to cure the already dangerous situation. He said it was responsible for a shoreline "unusable because of slime, algae growth, pollution and the general unpleasantness of the odor."

Alcatraz Indians Warn Tourists To Stay Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Indians occupying Alcatraz Island Thursday claimed the San Francisco Bay waters extending 250 yards around the island as part of their domain.

Indian spokesman John Trudell told newsmen here that the Indians' claim was meant as a warning to tour boats which often carry tourists close to the old prison island which has been occupied by the Indians since November, 1969.

"We know it is good business for the tour boat companies to bring their tourists and sightseers near our island to look at the Indians," Trudell said, "but from this day forward we will not longer tolerate this type of exploitation."

Earlier this week one tour boat was fired upon by Indians on the island using slingshots and heavy steel nuts.

UP-AND-DOWN LEARNING — Marin County students in the Red Cross's new multimedia "crash course" in first aid, rise hastily from their desks to practice techniques just shown them on film. Booker, Marin County fireman; Ronald Averiette, San Rafael police officer; Kenneth Fowler, Marinwood fireman; Michael Ford and Terry Butler, San Rafael firemen; Gerald Wilson, Alto fireman, and Stephen Warner, Fairfax fireman. # 'Crash Course' Teaches First Aid

By JEFF GREER

Instead of going through five or six weeks of two-hour sessions once a week, a nucleus of Marin County police officers and firemen is getting the basic first aid picture in one day in the San Rafael Red Cross headquarters.

In the multimedia "crash course" the students watch and listen to a series of films, read and write their way through a set of four programmed workbooks and demonstrate on each other how to bandage wounds, splint fractures and give the "breath of life" with artificial respiration.

The eight-hour day ends with a written test and presentation of a Red Cross first aid certificate.

Seven Marin County police officers and firemen took the course Saturday and were to return to take a second course so they, in turn, can teach the multimedia course in their own departments and in their communities.

William L. Braden, Golden Gate and Marin chapter safety official, said that after completing the course — which is run on a timetable tighter than an airline's — students are "pooped" but have a sense of accomplishment to go with their certificates.

Braden said he asked 20 graduates of a crash course given earlier this month whether they felt qualified to handle emergencies and whether they liked the multimedia approach.

"Only two reactions were negative." One couldn't keep up with the fast pace of watching a four or five-minute film, leaving his desk to demonstrate such things as splinting fractures, and then hurrying back for a timed read-and-write session on the next topic. The other critical response was that the course should cover topics more deeply. The rest felt prepared to give first aid as needed, Braden reported.

"Anyone who has problems with the multimedia course should take the standard, two-hours-a-week course," Braden urged.

Police and firemen said they liked the crash course because it did not tie up a series of evenings or weekends, Braden reported.

The standard course is dependent on effectiveness of the Red Cross-trained first aid lecturer, Braden said. "He may be real strong on poisons who might not be lecturers to teach the multimedia course ; the films do the talking."

The multimedia course instructor makes certain the students demonstrate they've understood the lessons, and keeps the course on the timetable.

The crash course was the result of more than a year's experimentation in San Francisco with the cooperation of Pacific Telephone Co., television station KQED and others at a cost of nearly $300,000 in industrial grants.

The utility company is using the course for all its employees.

Other industries are following suit. Braden said he hopes Marin County service clubs, the county schools office and other agencies will obtain the $235 sets of 16 milimeter film and the sets of workbooks and test sheets, which cost $2.65 per student.

Since multimedia first aid courses came to Marin in January, Braden and others have trained 10 instructors in the Red Cross staff, fire and police departments, Synanon, and San Domenico and Katherine Branson schools.

The instructors have trained dozens of other Marin residents and students in first aid. Popular demand for the training may have been spurred by the February earthquake in Los Angeles, Red Cross workers noted.

Braden said he hopes to see the new course used in every Marin County high school. Although the films and projector are expensive, they can be shared by many classes, companies or organizations, he noted.

A major benefit of first aid training is increased safety consciousness, Braden pointed out. He said the Pacific Telephone Company trains all its employees — and has an accident rate one tenth that of similar industries.

Another obvious benefit is preparedness to cope with accidents in the home or on the highway.

"Even a little slip of a gal can tear off a car door "if she wants to give first aid to someone inside who is injured, Braden claimed.

Asked whether fear of legal problems makes citizens reluctant to give first aid, Braden stressed that the fear is groundless.

"There's never been a successful suit against a person who used 'reasonable care' in giving aid," Braden said.

"Reasonable care means that amount of care which would be exercised by the average prudent man under the same circumstances and in possession of the same information and skill" as the person who gives the first aid, he explained.

BREATH OF LIFE — Ronald Averiette demonstrates mouth to mouth resuscitation for drowning or electrical shock victims. After making sure the victim's head is tipped back to keep air passages clear, he pinches the nose of student Michael Ford and prepares to breathe into his mouth.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR STATE CERTIFICATION OF BACKHOE, CLAMSHELL OR SIMILAR DREDGING WITH CONTROLLED BLASTING WHERE NECESSARY, AND DREDGING DISPOSAL BY THE BOLINAS COMMUNITY PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Bolinas Community Public Utility District has applied to the State Water Resources Control Board, pursuant to the provisions of Section 21 (b), Federal Water Pollution Control Act, for certification to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the dredging for construction of a sewage pump station and outfall and disposal of dredging spoils by Bolinas Community Public Utility District described below will be conducted in a manner which will not violate the California Water Quality Control Policy.

Bolinas Community Public Utility District intends to excavate 750 cubic yards of material for construction of a pumping station adjacent to the South end of Wharf Road. Earthen dikes and sheet piling may be utilized during construction but will be removed before the project is completed. The 500 cubic yards of excavated material remaining after backfilling will be hauled to a land spoil area approved by the District.

The District also intends to rip or chisel a trench with backhoe, dragline or other suitable machinery for an 18-inch diameter outfall pipe from its proposed sewage treatment plant. It may be necessary to use controlled blasting in hard rock areas. The dredging will begin at the mouth of an intermittent stream 900 feet north of Poplar Road and extend southerly 2450 feet into the ocean. A total of 1500 cubic yards will be removed and side-cast in the area adjacent to the trench. All dredging will be completed within twelve months following September 15, 1971.

Requirements to protect water quality have been prescribed by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board for the waste to be discharged through the proposed outfall. Initial discharge will amount to 0.5 mgd and ultimate discharge is estimated at 2.1 mgd.

Concerned parties should transmit to Fred H. Dierker, Executive Officer, California Regional Water Quality Control Board, San Francisco Bay Region, 364-14th Street, Oakland, California 94612, any relevant information or objections by April 5, 1971.

SIGNALS WARN OF NAVY'S MINESWEEPERS IN OPERATION

Plans Set For Closing SST Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department, conforming to the rejection by Congress of further government participation in development of the supersonic transport plane, has started preparing legislation that would shut down all SST activity.

Undersecretary James M. Beggs, describing the SST project as "dead as a doornail," said Thursday the bill would go to Congress early next week. It was expected to seek $275 million to close the project out.

As the Transportation Department took the action, President Nixon went on a telephone hookup and told workers of the Boeing Co. in Seattle and Wichita, Kan., that the government was determined "that the remarkable combination of skills and talents your team represents should not be lost to the nation."

Boeing announced after the Senate rejected further funding of the SST in a 51 to 46 vote Wednesday that it plans to lay off 7,000 employes immediately. About 4,500 were directly involved in work on the 1,800-mile per hour SST.

In other developments Thursday, the State Department acknowledged that a Japanese trading company had expressed interest in buying America's SST assets, legislation was introduced in Congress to channel SST funds into safety and mass transit systems, and another bill was offered that would allow the sale of government-backed bonds to continue SST development.

The State Department said it had received a telegram from the Ataka Trading Co. of Tokyo which expressed "an undefined interest in the SST program." The telegram asked procedures the Japanese should follow if they decided to send a mission to the United States to gather more information. The message was forwarded to the Transportation Department.

Government officials said the possibility of a Japanese bid to buy U.S. prototype equipment and plans was "one of the things that is in the wind."

Leo, The Lion, Is Very Well Named

By SHERMAN WALKER

Leo, the Lion, is a constellation that strongly resembles the animal it represents. The curved line of stars forming the head and mane of Leo form a subgroup called the Sickle.

At the end of the handle of the Sickle is a first-magnitude star called Regulus (Alpha Leonis), which is a double star with a companion of magnitude 8. The companion, however, cannot be seen without a modest telescope.

To locate the Lion in the sky, face southward at 9 p.m. Standard Time and look at the region of the sky that is three-fourths of the distance up from the southern horizon to overhead.

Regulus is almost exactly on the ecliptic — the imaginary path through the sky which is apparently traveled by the sun. The moon and all planets except Pluto stay very close to this path. Pluto strays a little further from it.

If you are looking for a planet in the sky, look along the ecliptic and a few degrees on either side.

If the path of a meteor is traced backward toward its apparent source, the paths of many of them will seem to originate at a certain point. This is called the radiant of the meteors. The meteor shower that takes place in November each year seems to originate in the top of the Sickle. For this reason the meteors are called Leonids.

No Charges In LSD Probe

No charge has been filed against two men arrested Monday in San Rafael on suspicion of selling LSD.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said yesterday that 26,000 suspected wsd tabs confiscated turned out to be nothing more psychedelic than an artificial sweetener.

Released were Sheldon Rambert, 21, of no known address, and Jack Rubin, 46, of San Rafael, who were arrested outside a San Rafael motel as the result of a month-long investigation by undercover agents, according to Marin County drug agents.

Auger Stolen From Vet's Auditorium

An earth boring tool valued at $400 was stolen from the parking lot at Veteran's Memorial Auditorium yesterday, according to San Rafael police.

The 110-pound auger belonging to Marin Storage and Trucking Co. of 449 DuBois Street was taken between 2 and 2:45 p.m. police said.

Hypoglycemia Victims Need Diet To Stop Insulin Formation

H. S. writes: "I read with interest your recent article on hypoglycemia. You suggested a diet low in carbohydrates and high in fats and proteins. What foods would a person have to eat to follow this regimen?"

To answer this, we must add background material on low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). Following an ordinary meal, the carbohydrates in food are quickly broken down into various sugars that are absorbed into the blood. This process leads to an increased level of glucose in the blood which reaches its peak within an hour. Meanwhile, the pancreas responds by producing insulin to metabolize or burn up the sugar for energy. Now the level begins to fall, except in diabetics who have little or no insulin. On the other hand, if the pancreas is overactive, the concentration of sugar in the blood may go lower than normal (hypoglycemia) causing a variety of symptoms.

IN ORDINARY hypoglycemia, a diet low in carbohydrates is needed so as not to stimulate insulin formation. Items high in proteins and fats are best because they have a staying quality that stabilizes the blood sugar level. Meals should be spaced so that the victim does not go for long periods without food. As a rule, dietary control of hypoglycemia can be accomplished via three meals a day and a snack between meals and at bedtime. Extra servings may be needed if the person has engaged in unusual physical activity.

Examples of protein-rich foods include meats, chicken, tuna, sardines, eggs, cheese, beans and peas. Fat needs can be met by using butter, margarine, peanut oil, olive oil, mayonnaise and vegetable shortening.

CARBOHYDRATES, such as fruits, honey, legumes, and beet sugars should be used in moderation. Sweetened orange juice, a piece of candy, cookies, and coffee or tea (with cream and sugar) bring immediate, but temporary, relief and are likely to be followed by a return of symptoms as more insulin is manufactured.

AORTIC TORTUOSITY

Mrs. E. C. W. writes: Please tell me if tortuosity of the aorta is dangerous and should be treated? The result of the chest X-ray was normal with negative findings of the lungs and a tortuosity of the aorta.

REPLY

Tortuosity of the main artery of the body is usually associated with arteriosclerosis. There is no need for concern so long as the blood flows freely through the hardened artery. This defect frequently is noted after the age of 60.

DAILY ENEMA

H.F. writes: What might happen to a person who has taken an enema every day for 5 years?

REPLY

Both an enema and a normal bowel movement clean out the rectum, provided, of course, that the procedure does not injure the membranes. Continuous enemas may eliminate the normal urge to have a spontaneous movement and in this way contribute to constipation.

DAILY AIRING

REPLY

Exposure to fresh air is not absolutely necessary. However, it does no harm to bundle up junior and let him nap outdoors for 30 minutes or take him for a buggy ride around the block or to the store.

'Chicago 7' Case May Be Restudied

CHICAGO (UPI) —The federal government, at the direction of Attorney General John N. Mitchell, has moved to throw out the contempt sentences imposed on the "Chicago Seven" conspiracy trial defendants and review their trial behavior.

The sentences, ranging as long as 29 months and 16 days, were imposed by U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman after a marathon trial on charges the defendants conspired to cross state lines to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention here.

Five of the defendants were convicted of inciting riots but all were cleared of the conspiracy charge. Two were found innocent of both charges.

While the jury was deliberating, Hoffman sentenced all seven defendants and two defense lawyers to jail for what he called acts of contempt during the trial.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said the appeal, filed Thursday, was ordered in a letter from Mitchell.

The decision, he said, was based on ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Mayberry vs. Pennsylvania, holding that a judge who is the subject of personal attacks amounting to contempt may not, at the end of the trial, fix the punishment for those acts.

At several points in the trial Hoffman was the target of verbal baiting and criticism from the defendants.

Mitchell's letter, Thompson said, said under the Mayberry criteria, "Judge Hoffman lost the power to cite and punish those contempts under which he was the victim of 'personal' attacks, since bias might be presumed from the nature of the attacks."

If the motion is granted, Thompson said, the chief judge of the Northern Illinois Judical District will appoint a new judge to review the incidents cited by Hoffman as contemptuous.

'71 Collier Trophy To Boeing Co.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Boeing Co. of Seattle has been named winner of the 1971 Robert J. Collier Trophy for successful introduction of its 747, the world's biggest jetliner, into commercial service, it was announced Thursday.

The trophy is awarded annually by the National Aeronautic Association "for the greatest achievement in aeronautics and astronautics in America with respect to improving the performance, efficiency and safety of air or space vehicles..."

The announcement was made a day after the Senate voted to cut off all federal financing of the supersonic transport (SST) meaning that thousands of employes would be laid off at Boeing.

The National Aeronautic Association said a committee appointed by former Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, composed of 26 aviation authorities, unanimously selected Boeing as the 1971 trophy winner.

It also paid tribute to the Pratt and Whitney Division of the United Aircraft Corp. and to Pan American World Airways for their roles in "the development and operation of the world's first advanced technology jet transport, the Boeing 747."

The trophy was established in 1912 by Robert J. Collier, publisher and pioneer aviation enthusiast. Previous winners include the crews of Apollo 8 and Apollo 11 moon missions, Orville Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss.

Drug Abuse Panel Asks Budget Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The executive director of the Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse today asked Congress to raise the commission's budget during the next two years from $1 million to $4 million.

Michael R. Sonnenreich told a House subcommittee that with the increase the commission could more effectively prepare a one-year study on marijuana and a two-year analysis of drug abuse.

The request fell on mostly sympathetic ears since subcommittee chairman Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., and Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., are on the 13-member commission, but Rep. John G. Schmitz, R-Calif., said he would carefully oversee the commission's activities.

"Is this another example of the American solution that if you throw more money at a problem it will go away?" asked Schmitz.

Rogers answered the question himself, saying that the commission's duties had been expanded and "I know of no problem that has greater significance today than the drug problem."

Schmitz, however, noted the commission plans to hire about 40 youth consultants for fees and expenses costing $340,000 and he told Sonnenreich "I'll be watching you."

Sonnenreich said after the hearing that the 10 to 25 young persons working on the marijuana study would be representative of all parts of the country and each ethnic group.

Our contribution to the space program.

There's still one place on our crowded planet where you can have a little elbowroom.

The Volkswagen Station Wagon.

In fact it has about twice as much of that precious commodity as the average station wagon.

With all this space, it can accommodate as many as 9 earthlings.

With the massive sliding door, it can accommodate the most outrageous objects.

With a special suspension system (and a lot of cushy upholstery), it can accommodate the most fragile housewife.

Of course even with all these assets, our space vehicle still can't leave the ground.

But then what do you expect for $3072.*

The moon?

Sporting Family, Those Kilgores

I like to hear mothers speak like this: "It's not easy raising teen-agers these days. But in my case it's a delight because my daughter and son are deeply involved in sports. To some people they are considered 'square' but they are just nifty squares and I love every minute with them."

Thus spoke Mrs. Eugene S. Kilgore Jr. of Tiburon about her daughter, Bee, 15, and son, Eugene III, 17, whose athletic careers are taking on exciting aspects these days.

Miss Kilgore, a sophomore at San Domenico School for Girls, last weekend scored a major upset to advance to this weekend's final rounds of the Menlo Park Junior Tennis Tournament. She is ranked No. 10 in Girls' age 16 singles in Northern California and No. 1 with Anne LaMott of Tiburon in Girls 16 doubles. Last year Bee's major triumps included age 16 and 18 championships in the Canadian Nationals at Vancouver and a runners-up finish with Miss LaMott in girls 18 doubles.

See seems to be following in the footsteps of another Marin girl, Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, up the international tennis ladder.

And now for Master Kilgore III. A junior at the exclusive British Columbia's Shawnigan Lake School located 30 miles north of Victoria, Eugene has won a position on the varsity crew. Which is fine, but the really exciting aspect is that Shawnigan will send its varsity crews to Europe this summer for aseries of regattas at Henley, England and possibly Yugoslvaia. Eugene is a former I-J newspaperboy and champion in the annual I-J junior tennis tournament.

I am fascinated by Shawnigan Lake School because, according to clippings, "It is, at first glance, a page from Charles Dickens."

In this age of academic confrontation and dissidence, Shawnigan continues to believe in rules, regulations and disciplining and does not condone permissiveness or anarchy. The school's assistant headmaster and chaplain, Horace McClelland, has been quoted as saying: "A caning by the headmaster is the automatic punishment for a student caught smoking."

Try THAT at one of our local schools.

Young Kilgore's crew coach, Joe Grey, is noted for developing championship teams and provides a curious theory on the subject. Using a bullhorn, he yells to his high school eights at the start of a race: "Think beautiful thoughts and ready yourselves for the punishing work ahead. . . and remember your grandmothers on the bank!"

Why think of Nanas? "I tell each boy that if his grandmother is watching and says how easy it looks to do 44 strokes per minutes, that's good — he's rowing smoothly. Also, if he isn't completely exhausted at the finish, it means he should really be watching the race with his grandmother — not taking part in it."

By the way, a teammate of Kilgore at Shawnigan is Bill Hoefer, 15, of Belvedere whose father, John, president of a San Francisco ad agency, had quite a career in shells. As a student at Cal, he rowed for the varsity crew three years and in 1938 was a member of the famous Cal eight that competed at Poughkeepsie Regatta. Mrs. Hefer was former Sweetheart of Sigma Chi at Cal. The one they wrote the song about.

SPEAKING OF international sports, former Redwood High gridders Pete Richter and Buddy Lyons will be with the U.C. Berkeley rugby team that will tqay in Australia and New Zealand this July. It's an expensive trip that will require each player to pay $300. The rest of the financing will be done through a raffle.If you'd like to help, contact Pete or Buddy for a ticket that could win you a trip to Hawaii.

'No Retirement In Sight,' Says Frazier

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier says he will defy the advice of his friends and advisors to fight again.

"I don't see no retirement in sight," the 27-year-old Philadelphian said Thursday night. "I'm ready to fight right now, but I won't fight again this year. If Clay wants a rematch, I'm willing."

Without exception, Frazier's manager, trainer, friends, advisors and business associates advised him to retire after he successfully defended his title with a 15-round decision over Muhammad Ali on March 8. Only this week, Dr. Edwin Campbell of the New York State Athletic Commission added his encouragement that Frazier should retire.

After absorbing terrific punishment against Ali, Frazier complained of exhaustion, nausea and vomiting, and headaches. He was admitted to St. Luke's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia where it was revealed he had high blood pressure and a low pulse rate.

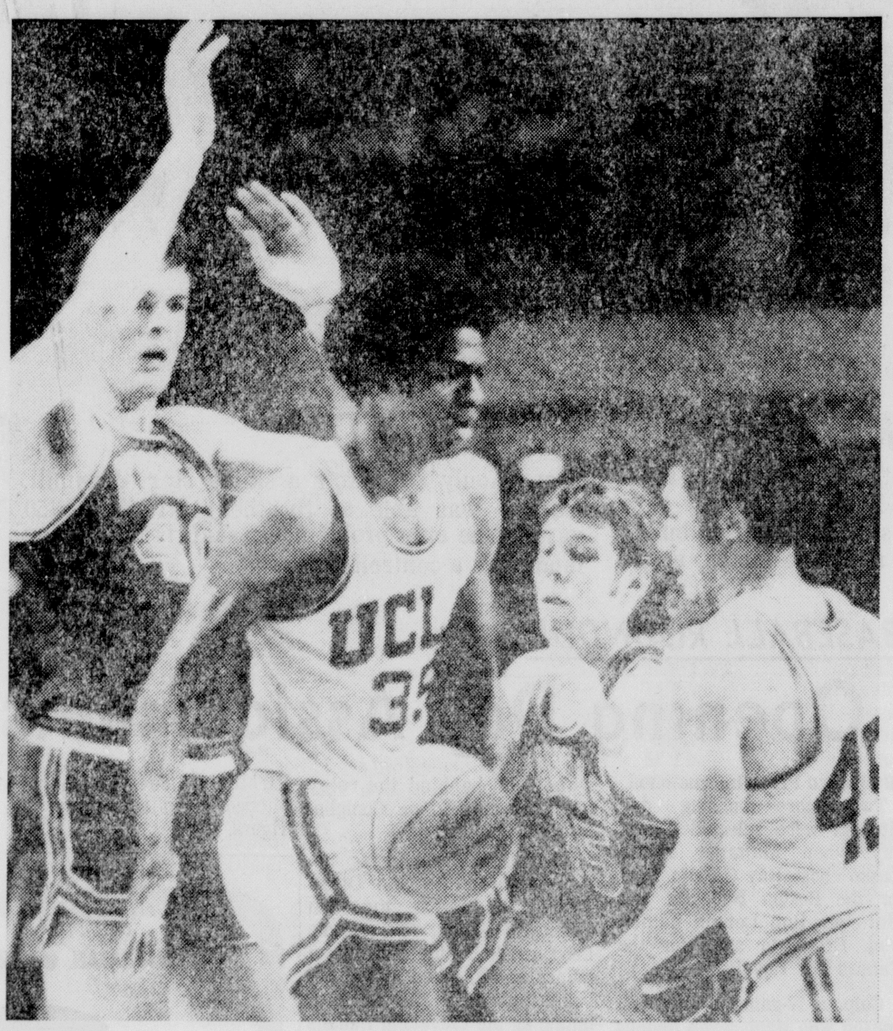
He still is a patient at the hospital although, he said, "I come and go pretty much as I please." He said he will be discharged on Saturday.

Frazier's first public appearance since his victory over Ali came Thursday at a news conference to announce a title bout between light heavyweight champion Bob Foster and Frazier's friend and sparring partner, Ray Anderson.

Anderson is managed by Frazier's manager Yank Durham and Frazier explained, "I promised Yank I'd come. I come to see Bob and Ray. I feel good, and it gives me great pleasure to be here after my funeral. I just think I was a little tired and needed some rest. It was nothing serious and my blood pressure is almost normal."

However, Dr. Campbell confirmed again Thursday that he thought Frazier had suffered a head injury against Ali. Both fighters have been placed on suspension by the state athletic commission until they undergo complete physical examinations.

Frazier's first day out of the hospital, however, gave all indications of a quick recovery. He chatted for more than a half hour with former champion Floyd Patterson at the hospital, and later drove to New York to attend the press conference and a performance of his band, The Knockouts, at a night spot.



KANSAS TO THE BOARDS — Bob Kivisto (45) of Kansas grabbed a rebound away from UCLA All-American Sidney Wicks (35) last night during the opening half of the NCAA semi-final championships at the Astrodome in Houston. Kivisto's teammate Dave Robisch (40) and UCLA's Henry Bibby (45) watched the action. UCLA won, 68-60.

Bruins Steamroll Into NCAA Finals

HOUSTON (UPI)—One of these years, UCLA is going to lose an NCAA championship. But it doesn't look like 1971 is going to be that year.

The Bruins toyed with Kansas for a little while Thursday night in the semifinals of the NCAA championships, and despite the fact they played a game Coach John Wooden considered disappointing, they still bumped off the Jayhawks 68-60.

That puts UCLA back in the finals once again—this time against the upstart Villanova Wildcats. (Tomorrow's game will be televised starting at 1 p.m. on Channel 4.

Villanova outfought Western Kentucky 92-89 in the other semifinal game in the cavernous Astrodome in a truly exciting contest that slopped over into two overtimes.

But Villanova, a team with six losses and a surprise visitor to this tournament in the first place, will go into the finals Saturday afternoon as the overwhelming underdog.

Wooden, of course, does not see things that way.

"What do I think of our chances?" he asked himself. "About the same as Villanova's."

The final game will bring together the most potent front line in college basketball—Sidney Wicks, Steve Patterson and Curtis Rowe—against a team that will have to depend on making the outside shot or else.

"We will play Villanova about the same as we did against Kansas," Wooden said following his club's victory over Kansas. "The things that got us here will be the things we generally go with."

But even Wooden can't ignore the fact he coaches the next thing to a basketball machine.

"I guess when they are shooting well they can compare with any of my other teams," he said.

UCLA's victory over Kansas seemed to be an easy one, and it was surprising to the record-breaking 30,148 persons who filed into the Astrodome to find at game's end the Jayhawkers were trailing by only eight points.

"I can't remember when we made so many turnovers (24)," said Wooden. "Our 13 turnovers in the first 20 minutes was very bad, horrible as a matter of fact."

Some of those turnovers early in the second half allowed Kansas to briefly tie the game, but during the last 15 minutes of the game the Jayhawks could not find the basket from the outside.

Wicks wound up with 21 points while guard Henry Bibby hit 18 for UCLA and Rowe contributed 16. Kansas center Dave Robisch led his club with 17 points.

The Villanova-Western Kentucky game was the type of contest one would expect to see in a championship tournament.

Then the Hilltoppers missed the last shot again in the first overtime period and the score was left tied at 85-85.

Howard Porter's key basket in the final minute and two more free throws finally brought Villanova the victory after Western Kentucky's 7-0 center Jim McDaniels fouled out.

Dunn led Western Kentucky with 25 points while McDaniels had 22. The game's scoring honors, however, was Hank Siemiontkowski. He pumped in 31 points before fouling out in the final seconds of regulation play.

Young, Loose, Jerry Heard Takes Early Lead In Golf

Opening Round 66 Tops Field In Airlines Open

MIAMI (UPI)—It bothers Lee Trevino, a traditionalist in the matter of headgear on the professional golf tour, that young Jerry Heard wears his hat so jauntily.

"I can't see how he plays with that hat on the back of his head—it just sits right on the back. He must have been in the Navy," said funnyman Trevino Thursday after finishing second by a stroke to Heard in the opening round of the National Airlines Open golf tournament.

The hat, a floppy one like a turned-down sailor hat, does indeed perch on Heard's head in defiance of the brisk breezes whipping the 6,970-yard Country Club of Miami course. It's Heard's style–loose and easy.

"I just try to relax and play, and it's going very well. I'm real pleased," said the 23-year-old Visalia, Calif., third-year pro.

Heard eased through a fairly ordinary 35 on the outgoing nine in the first round of the $200,000 tournament, then sizzled to a 31 on the homecoming leg with five birdies for a six-under-par 66.

This put him a stroke ahead of Trevino, the defending champion, Hale Irwin of Boulder, Col., and old pro Miller Barber of Sherman, Tex., a 12-year veteran of the golf circuit.

At 68 were Earl Fennell, Herb Hooper, Dow Finsterwald, Frank Beard, Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin.

Gary Player, winner of the Jacksonville Open last week, was among a group of 12 at 69, and so was Julius Boros. Arnold Palmer was tied with 17 others at 70.

Heard said improvement in his putting has gotten him off to a good start this year. He finished fourth in the Citrus Invitational at Orlando, Fla., two weeks ago—a tournament in which he also fired a 66 in the first round and shared the lead with eventual winner Arnold Palmer.

"I was hitting the ball well last year and started off that way this year, too. But then my putting got better and it sort of all fell together," said Heard, who earned $45,000 in 1970.

His birdies on the back nine included three gained with 20-foot putts.

Irwin, who said his iron play and not his putting was the key to his game, had a shot at a 66 until he three-putted the 15th green for a bogey.

Barber, among the last finishers of the day, was six-under on the 18th green, but his six-foot putt for a par curled in and then out of the cup, giving him a bogey and dropping him into the tie at 67.

But he didn't complain.

"Any time I can shoot five-under into a wind like that, why heck, I sure can't complain," he said.

BODY ENGLISH — Lee Trevino tried to use body english to make this birdie putt drop yesterday during the first round of the National Airlines Open in Miami. But the putt didn't go, and Trevinocame in with a 67, one stroke behind leader Jerry Heard.

Off To Good Start

Kirk Bromberg hit a home run and had four hits in five at bats and Pat Ross pitched a three-hitter and struck out 12 to give San Rafael Military Academy a 9-1 victory over Concordia High School in a Bay Counties League opening baseball game Wednesday in Oakland.

NIT: Georgia Tech Vs. North Carolina

NEW YORK (UPI) —It's a tossup whether Paul Hoffman's trip down nightmare alley that cost St. Bonaventure a shot at the National Invitation Basketball Tournament title will be worse than the bad dream Georgia Tech is expected to live through after meeting North Carolina in Saturday's championship game.

Hoffman missed two free throws with no time left in the first overtime Thursday night and Tech went on to beat the Bonnies, 76-71, in a second extra session of their semifinal match. A fast-breaking North Carolina team entered the title bracket by defeating Duke, 73-67, in the other semifinal.

"It's simply nightmarish," said the bespectacled Hoffman after flubbing a chance to win for St. Bonnie. "I usually hit 70-80 per cent of my foul shots. One thing for sure, I can't continue to worry about it."

The NIT, dubbed the tournament of losers because the second bests and conference also-rans received the invitations, is a Cinderella step for Tech, which ran off a 13-1 record at the season's start and then skidded. A fine recovery earned the Engineers a tourney bid.

Tech reached the title round by beating LaSalle, Michigan and the Bonnies. The Engineers next game, however, resurrects memories of an earlier encounter with North Carolina in which the Tar Heels beat Tech by 29 points.

Saturday's meeting marks the first time two Southern teams have met for the NIT title. Tech never actually scored a basket in its second overtime session with the Bonnies. There was one goaltending call against St. Bonaventure and seven straight Tech foul shots.

The score was tied 59-59 at the end of regulation time and 67-all after the first extra five-minute period. Jim Thorne led Tech with 27 points and Rich Yunkus added 19 as the Engineers built a bridgehead to a title shot. Carl Jackson paced the Bonnies with 18 before fouling out.

North Carolina made it three wins in four starts this season against Atlantic Coast Conference rival Duke by breaking open the game with 10 straight points midway in the second half for a 52-39 lead. The closest Duke got after that was five points.

George Karl scored a game-high 21 points for Carolina, including 10 in the last five minutes. Richie O'Connor paced Duke with 18 points.

St. Bonaventure meets Duke in a consolation game at 11 a.m. EST Saturday, prior to the 1 p.m. nationally televised title contest.

Robertson Impressive For Giants

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants may have lost a battle and won a war.

The battle was a 2-1 squakers to San Diego, with whom the Giants do battle again today.

The war was the eternal struggle by the Giants to find a fourth starter. Rich Robertson appears to be the man.

Robertson dazzled with a six strikeout, no walk, five-hit job during seven innings against the Padres. Lefty John Cumberland was toiling when Ed Spezio homered in the 10th to decide it.

Pitching coach Larry Jensen said that if Robertson can keep it up, he'll be in the rotation.

Manager Charlie Fox says "the fourth job in rotation is just waiting there for the guy who wants it the most."

Baseball Tryouts In San Rafael

Minor League tryouts for the San Rafael American Little League will be held tomorrow, 9:30 a.m., at Davidson Junior High School for 8 and 9-year-olds who did not play last year.

In the event of rain, the tryouts will be rescheduled for Sunday.

Defending Champion Knicks Rally To Win

NEW YORK (UPI)—An offensive lapse and a defensive breakdown by the Atlanta Hawks proved the ingredients for the New York Knicks' 1-0 playoff lead today in defense of their National Basketball Association title.

The Knicks beat the Hawks, 112-101, Thursday just when it appeared Atlanta had the game in the bag. Bill Bridges missed an easy layup that would have given Atlanta a nine-point lead early in the fourth quarter and ultimately provided the momentum for a complete New York turnabout.

Atlanta will try to recoup here Saturday night in the second game of the best-in-seven series. The scene switches to Atlanta for the third game on Sunday.

Two other playoff series continue tonight when Baltimore plays at Philadelphia and Los Angeles entertains Chicago. The 76ers won the opener of their series against the Bullets 126-112 while Los Angeles holds a 1-0 edge over Chicago after nipping the Bulls 100-99 Wednesday night. The fourth playoff series between San Francisco and Milwaukee gets underway Saturday night at Oakland.

Dick Barnett, held to only three points in the first three quarters, turned in his pet brand of "money game," as he hit for 11 straight points in the final stanza that pushed New York into a 97-95 lead. He kept the Knicks' surge going with his 17th point of the period after Bill Bradley sent the team into the lead for good at 99-97.

Barnett, who started the game with a cold, suddenly set a feverish pace as he outplayed Walt Hazzard and forced the Atlanta guard to foul out.

"When we were behind in the last period, it was evident the team needed the momentum from someone," Barnett explained of his role. "I thought we were walking the ball, slowing down too much, playing too cautious. Since no one else was taking charge, I decided to. I started asking for the ball, which I didn't do earlier. I called a few plays myself and the ball started dropping.

"I'm a near 50 per cent shooter and if I take the shots I'll get my points."

He did, sinking six of seven shots in the torrid fourth quarter that ended with the Knicks outscoring the Hawks 37-21.

Both Dave DeBusschere of the Knicks and Atlanta coach Richie Guerin credited Barnett with making the difference.

A Rookie's Careful Move To Big League

PHOENIX — Steve Stone didn't make it to the major leagues by accident. He began mapping his career when he still was in Brush High in his native Cleveland. He is a methodical young man who has wasted little time in his 23 years.

STONE LEARNED in Brush High that if he hoped to compete successfully against the big fellows he would have to put in extra hours of practice. So he boxed the basement of his father's home with plywood and turned it into an athletic court. He spent hours in the Stone basement through the winter months when weather halted outdoor sports in Cleveland except football.

"There always was the height factor so I kept busy 12 months a year staying in condition," said Stone who now is listed as a 5 foot 10, 175 pound rookie pitcher on the roster of the Giants.

THE 5-10 measurement is generous. It's doubtful Stone is that tall barefooted or even in his baseball shoes. But whether he's 5-10 or 5-8, he is a powerfully built fellow. And he can fire a fast ball, throw a hard or soft curve and an occasional changeup with deceptive motion.

When Stone learned that the Giants were inviting him to camp on a non-roster basis this spring, he immediately stepped up his year round conditioning program.

"FIVE WEEKS before spring training started," said Stone, "I started my own work. I began throwing a baseball and I ran up and down bleacher stairs every day."

By the time spring training reached the midway mark, Stone already won a promotion from non-roster status. He has grown accustomed to fast promotions. It took him only two years to go through A, AA and AAA baseball competition since the Giants signed him in January, 1969.

STONE WON many admirers who watched him in Cactus League competition this spring. Nobody is predicting he will become a 20-game winner as a major league rookie. But a score of major league scouts who have seen him in action believe he can win 10 or 12. If Stone doesn't fulfill the predictions made for him, there will be a lot of red faces among the scouts who were virtually unanimous in their endorsement of Stone.

One person who doesn't doubt for one moment that Stone is going to make it big is his most ardent rooter and bride of nine months, Nancy Stone, a raven-haired beauty. Nancy Stone sits behind the Giant dugout in a box seat every time her husband pitches. She claps and cheers him on every pitch.

"NANCY," SAID Stone, "has really got involved. Of course, I'm aware that she is in the stands. I can hear her. I know she's with me even when I'm not good."

Steve and Nancy have known each other since high school but she went to Shaker High in Cleveland, not Brush. And when Steve went to Kent State, Nancy went to Ohio State.

"SHE'S A Buckeye," said Stone. "Did I ever pitch against Ohio State? Yes, four scoreless innings."

Who did Nancy root for that day, her Alma Mater or husband-to-be?

"She wasn't at the game," said Stone. "She was on a sorority trip to Maryland."

Gary Hansen demonstrated a home-made airplane yesterday at the Kimball, Minn., ski resort where he is a ski instructor. Hansen built the glider out of bamboo and pine strips, at a cost of only $25. After a skiing start downhill, Hansen was able to fly the craft about 150 yards. The only problem, he said, is that every landing is a controlled crash. (UPI Telephoto)

A FISHY STORY? NO, FAT WORMS

BURNEY, Calif. (UPI) — Bill Davis thought the story was fishy — so he arrested the two men and confiscated their hypodermic needles, syringes and a strange brown powder.

Davis, a Fish and Game warden, took them to a sheriff's substation in Shasta County, where they repeated the tale to deputy Bill Harrington.

Fishermen Robert M. Delgado, 23, and Gary W. Beliel, 30, both of San Leandro, said they were following the advice of a magazine article that suggested using a needle and syringe to inject air into worms because fish preferred the pudgy bait.

The deputy ordered them released, saying he's read the same article.

The two fishermen headed back for the river late Wednesday after telling Harrington the system had been working well.

The brown powder was cocoa.

Opening Day Assignments

By United Press International

Two more opening day pitchers were selected Thursday when Manager Eddie Kasko chose Ray Culp to start for the Boston Red Sox and Manager Bob Lemon named Dick Drago to start for the Kansas City Royals.

Culp, a 17-game winner last season who went seven innings in the Red Sox' 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday, will pitch Boston's season opener against the New York Yankees. Culp allowed six hits and two runs in becoming the first Red Sox pitcher to go seven innings this spring.

Drago, who had a 9-15 record in 1970, was named to face the California Angels in the Royals' opener. The 25-year old right-hander has won a total of 20 games for the Royals in the last two seasons and has been their most impressive pitcher this spring. Lemon made the announcement after giving the Royals their first day off since spring training started on Feb. 17.

Rico Petrocelli's two-run single was the big blow of a five-run eighth-inning rally which gave the Red Sox their victory. George Scott homered for the Red Sox while Luis Melendez connected for the Cardinals.

On other fronts: Tony Conigliaro's third single of the game climaxed a three-run ninth-inning rally which lifted the California Angels to a 7-6 triumph over the Oakland Athletics. Alex Johnson, hustling all the way after his recent fine by Manager Lefty Phillips, scored the winning run when second baseman John Donaldson bobbled the relay from the outfield on Conigliaro's hit.

Ed Spiezio's 10th-inning homer enabled the San Diego Padres to defeat the San Francisco Giants, 2-1 ... Eddie Leon had four hits, including a homer and knocked in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers, 13-8 ... Fifth-inning singles by Bobby Mitchell, Thurman Munson and Roy White provided the winning run for the New York Yankees in a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets. Jerry Koosman went seven innings for the Mets and was tagged for 10 hits.

Woody Fryman held the Houston Astros to three hits in eight inning as the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 2-1 victory. Fryman's performance was the sharpest and longest by a Philadelphia pitcher this spring ... Tommy Helms and Woody Woodward homered in leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 10-5 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bill Russell hit his first homer, batting left-handed, for the Dodgers.

The Washington Senators shaded the Atlanta Braves, 8-7, when Hal King hit a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Dick Bosman allowed only one unearned run in six innings for the Senators ... Tenth-inning singles by Walt Williams, Rick Reichardt and Bill Melton produced the run that gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 decision over the Minnesota Twins ... Gene Cline's two-run triple in the sixth inning enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to shade the Detroit Tigers, 3-2. Al Oliver homered for the Pirates off Joe Niekro, who pitched seven innings for the Tigers.

Clamping Down On Quarterbacks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Quarterbacks were the target yesterday as the National Football League gave officials more power to penalize a team for intentionally grounding the ball during a pass attempt.

At its spring meeting, the League rewrote the rule book to the effect that officials need consider nothing but whether or not they judge it "a deliberate attempt to prevent a loss of yardage."

"The old rule was too lenient," said Mark Duncan, supervisor of league officials. "We felt too many quarterbacks were getting away with it.

Tennis

CHICAGO (UPI)—Match play moves into the quarter finals today in the Sportface International Tennis Championships.

Second-seeded Arthur Ashe already has gained a berth in the semi-finals, scheduled for Saturday. He earned it Thursday by defeating Australia's Ray Ruffels 6-4, 6-4.

Top-seeded John Newcombe remained in contention by defeating fellow Aussie Fred Stalle 7-6, 4-6, 6-4. Third-seeded Ken Rosewall dumped Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-0, 6-3.

NEW YORK (UPI) —Mrs. Billie Jean King and Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones renew their rivalry again tonight in the semifinals of the $15,000 Virginia Slims tennis tournament.

The two old rivals advanced to their meeting Thursday night when Mrs. King defeated Julie Heldman 6-2, 6-1 and Mrs. Jones beat Kerry Melville of Australia 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

After four of the ten rounds in the six-nation tourney, the Russians and the Swedes are tied for first place, both with seven points.

Indiana Swimmers Taking Command

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—Two American and two NCAA meet records were set Thursday as Indiana took a commanding lead at the 48th annual NCAA swimming and Diving Championships here.

Indiana, which holds a 60-point lead over second place USC, was paced by Gary Hall's American record in the 200-yard individual medley and John Kinsella's NCAA meet record in the 500-yard freestyle.

"We are in better shape than I thought we'd be after the first day's events," said James Counsilman, head coach of the Hoosiers, who are looking for their fourth straight NCAA swimming title. The only disappointment of the night for Indiana was when Stanford's 400-yard medley relay team edged them in the final lap to establish a new American record of 3:22.51. The old record of 3:24.24 was set by the Santa Clara Swim Club in 1970.

Hall, a world record holder, defeated defending champion Frank Heckl of USC with a time of 1:52.8, eclipsing the old record for the 200-yard individual medley of 1:52.6 set three years ago by Charles Hickcox of Indiana.

The medley shaped up to be a three-man affair, but Long Beach State's Gunnar Larsson was ruled ineligible before the afternoon preliminaries. NCAA officials said the Swede violated certain financial rules in Sweden and was disqualified from the championship competition.

The event proved to be a valuable one for Indiana, which scored 53 points and rode to a 121 first-day total.

Tennessee's Dave Edgar set a meet record in the 50-yard freestyle in winning his second straight NCAA title in the event. Edgar, who has never been defeated in an intercollegiate meet, was clocked at :20.3, which bettered the mark he set in the afternoon preliminaries.

Kinsella, known more for his achievements in longer distances, set a meet record in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 4:27.9. His mark broke the record he set in the preliminaries earlier Thursday.

The one-meter diving finals were primarily a Big Ten affair, with Mike Finneron of Ohio State winning the title. Finneron, a fourth-place finisher in the event last year, edged out Minnesota's Craig Lincoln by 24 points. In all, Big Ten teams captured nine of the top 12 places in the diving event.

In the race for second place, USC held a one-point lead over crosstown rival UCLA, 61-60. Tennessee, sparked by Edgar's win in the 50-yard freestyle, wound up in fourth place. Stanford ended the first day of competition with 43 points and Long Beach State had 42.

Answering Questions On Fish Planting

By AL GIDDINGS

I received a long letter from Dave Yearsley of Corte Madera and he asked some pertinent questions about the Marin Municipal Water District lakes. Here they are:

1. Why is our lake fishing restricted to three or four days following a trout plant?

ANSWER: A few years ago at Lagunitas Lake, 10,000 catchables were planted. The first day 7,000 were caught, the second day 2,600 were caught and the third day 600 were caught. This shows the heavy pressure, and also shows that probably only about 200 fish were present in the lake from the previous year.

2. Why don't the trout planted by the water district take hold?

ANSWER: First of all, the Department of Fish and Game makes the trout plants. In 1971, approximately 85,000 catchables are slated for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas, Phoenix reservoirs and Rodeo Lagoon. Catchables cost about 20 cents per fish, so the total expenditure will be about $17,000. Alpine and Kent lakes received 150,000 fingerlings a few months ago. Fingerlings run about $50 per thousand, so the cost here is $7,500.

Why don't the fish take! Fishing pressure is one reason. A second reason is that the MMWD's prime function is to provide pure water for drinking. The use of copper sulphate (blue stone) stops algae growth, usually stopping the food chain. Pure water and fluctuating dams never seem to have good fish-producing quality waters.

MOST OF the lakes when first constructed have excellent food potential because of the trees, brush and live ground which is newly covered by the waters impounded. However, after a few years the lake becomes somewhat barren of food, and fishing slows. These types of lakes are planted with catchables, which are put there to be caught almost immediately.

One time, the DFG planted Alpine Lake —ith 27,000 catchables on the last day of the season. This was done about 20 years ago when catchable trout plants were just being started. On the opening day the following year everyone headed for Alpine thinking that it would be a bonanza. Seven fish were taken; the fish didn't make it through the winter without the food needed to keep them alive. We learned a costly lesson!

IN COMPARISON, Lake Merced in San Francisco, with its established food chain and the heaviest of fishing pressures, provides lunker fish every now and then. Lake Merced is not bluestoned, it does not fluctuate, and it has a fast growing food chain.

The plants of fingerlings in Alpine and Kent lakes are always problematical. If the plants 'take' on a certain year, fishing can be excellent with some fish actually reaching five or six pounds in two or three years time. A few years ago, one successful plant provided top fishing for trout weighing two or three pounds. Let's hope this year's plants are equally successful.

OF COURSE it will take a year or two for these fish to reach the 12 to 18-inch sizes that we all hope for. In past years an occasional lunker would be caught from Phoenix Lake, but these were usually caught below the dam by Moose Muzinich, the water district patrolman, and quickly replanted in the lake. He always enjoyed some fisherman catching a big fish thinking he had the biggest trout of the season, when really he had a creek steelhead. It always shook everyone up!

Yearsley feels that black bass and bluegill might be the fish that would fill the bill in our lakes for everyone. This could be so, but there would still be problems. Nicasio Lake when first opened provided top angling with fast growing bass, bluegill, and both trout and trapped steelhead. Now the fishing has slowed as expected. The lake fluctuates. That kills the top water grasses when the water levels are high, and kills the underwater aquatics when the levels are low; this tends to eliminate the food chain. Bluestoning just about takes care of the rest, but it is necessary for algae control.

RIGHT NOW Nicasio Lake is loaded with carp, a rough fish considered a further detriment to the other fish of the lake as they cause further declines in the food chain. The DFG will eventually have to chemically treat the lake to get rid of these undesirables. Then new plants of bass, bluegill, trout, or whatever, will have to be made. Last year, plants of bass and bluegill were scheduled for Lagunitas Lake, but some of the sportsmen sent the truck back. The plants were never made! These anglers only wanted trout.

Perhaps it is time to review the trout plants versus warm water fish plants at a future meeting at the Marin Rod and Gun Club. I think discussions about Nicasio Lake, Alpine and Kent lakes, and the other water district lakes — Phoenix, Lagunitas and Bon Tempe — certainly would be in order.

LAST WEEK at a meeting at the Marin Rod and Gun Club, long discussions and a review of the proposed license increases helped clear the air on many important points. These meetings are worthwhile and helpful. Let's have the same kind of meeting about trout!

Marin CYO Officials In Spotlight

Athletic directors and coaches of championship teams in Marin County Catholic Youth Organization basketball programs will be honored tonight at an awards banquet sponsored by the Marin Youth Officials Association.

Starting at 7 o'clock, the affair will be held at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The sponsoring association provides officials for CYO and other youth activities and serves as a foundation for experience for young men who desire to move up the ladder of officiating.

Honorees tonight will be CYO athletic directors Edward Chavez of St. Anselm's Parish in San Anselmo; William Forde, Blessed Sacrament, Santa Venetia; Don Carlson, St. Hilary, Tiburon; Allan Farbstein, St. Isabella, Terra Linda; James Scannell, Mt. Carmel, Mill Valley; John Campbell, St. Patrick, Larkspur; Stan Rupiper, St. Raphael, San Rafael; Charles Donnellan, St. Rita, Fairfax; Harry Del Grande, St. Sebastian, Greenbrae, and William Fuller, St. Vincent, San Rafael.

The coaches to be honored for 1971 championships are Larry Fulton and Wayel Kubba of St. Raphael; Jim Hanretty, St. Patrick; Walt Johnson and John Coleman, Blessed Sacrament; Jeff Guidi and Wes Newbold, St. Rita; oe Burke and Jim Carty, St. Anselm.

Honored guests will be Monsignor Peter G. Armstrong, archdiocesan director; Adrian Gilbert, archdiocesan athletic co-ordinator; and Bruce Dreier, Marin County CYO director.

Seals To Host St. Louis Blues

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals host St. Louis tonight in a battle between two teams who have been disappointed with their goal-keeping.

The Blues' brilliant trio of Glenn Hall, Jacques Plante and Ernie Wakely gave up 168 goals last season. Plante has gone to Toronto and 192 goals have hit the Blues' nets.

As for the Seals, coach Fred Glover has indicated Gary Smith will be back tonight despite a horrendous six-goal performance on Wednesday.

MARCH 26, 1946

BOB KURLAND, 7-FOOT OKLAHOMA CENTER, BECAME THE FIRST TO WIN TWO STRAIGHT N.C.A.A. TOURNEY SCORING TITLES WHEN HE TALLIED 23 POINTS TO LEAD HANK IBA'S AGGIES OVER NORTH CAROLINA 43-40 FOR THEIR SECOND CROWN IN A ROW.

A Record Catch By S. F. Bay Salmon Anglers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Department of Fish and Game reported today that sports fishermen landed a record catch of more than 10,000 salmon last weekend off San Francisco.

George Warner, chief of the department's anadromous fisheries branch, said per angler catch averaged three, a number he called "fantastic."

The figures for the "best-ever catch" were based on samplings by department biologists. The weekend catch compared with a 10-year average for March of 7,000 salmon, Warner said.

The average weight per salmon, most of them kings, was about six pounds. Some weighed in the 20-to 30-pound range.

Most of the salmon were caught beyond the Golden Gate between Lightship and Duxbury Reef.

Another Homer For Jackson

PALM SPRINGS (UPI)—The season hasn't started yet and already Tony C and Reggie J are frightening the pitchers.

Tony Conigliaro's third single of the day capped a three-run ninth inning which allowed the California Angels to take the 7-6 win over Oakland Thursday. The two teams do battle again today.

Reggie Jackson of the Athletics pounded out a homer and now has driven in 18 runs and hit 8 homers in 15 spring games.

The A's also got a three-run shot from Rick Monday

Freeway World Series?

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—I've seen a few things I never thought I would.

Open heart surgery wasn't bad for a starter and then they went and put a man on the moon.

I've also seen a one-time Olympic "sub" come on to beat The Greatest; a defensive player so spectacular on offense that he has revolutionized hockey; another player who has done nearly the same thing in basketball, and still another who turned the world's largest city upside down with one mere swing of the bat 20 years ago.

An all-Freeway world series in California.

Primarily because I figure we're due for one, and partially because I can't wait to see how Alex Johnson and Rich Allen react to the entire media, and vice versa, I like the California Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers to wind up in the world series this October.

Up and down in both leagues I line 'em up like this:

| NATIONAL LEAGUE | |
|---|---|
| EAST | WEST |
| New York | Los Angeles |
| Pittsburgh | Cincinnati |
| Chicago | Houston |
| Montreal | San Francisco |
| St. Louis | San Diego |
| Philadelphia | Atlanta |

| AMERICAN LEAGUE | |
|---|---|
| EAST | WEST |
| Detroit | California |
| Baltimore | Minnesota |
| Cleveland | Oakland |
| Boston | Chicago |
| New York | Kansas City |
| Washington | Milwaukee |

Why the Dodgers and not the Reds?

Well, it's like this.

Al Campanis, the Dodgers' head of player personnel, and Tom Lasorda, their manager at Spokane, have produced the best looking batch of kids since the days of Snider, Hodges and Reese. Allen gives the club the punch it needs and Duke Sims helps also.

To me, the Dodgers look stronger than the Reds with all their hitting. Take away Wayne Simpson and Jim Merritt from Cincy and pitching could be a problem. Bobby Tolan sitting on the bench doesn't make the Reds' outfield any stronger defensively either.

Houston also could pass the Reds providing Don Wilson and Tom Griffin give Larry Dierker some help. Doug Rader looks ready for a good year; a 20-year-old Cesar Cedeno is just starting to come, and Roger Metzger, the rookie shortstop, has been a pure delight so far.

Juan Marichal quite likely will bounce back for the Giants and Gaylord Perry will win his share after which Charlie Fox may have to scratch around for pitching. Shortstop and second base don't exactly remind you of Tinker-to-Evers either.

I still believe Preston Gomez did right by hitting for Clay Kirby last season, no-hitter and all, and I also believe he'll get San Diego out of the cellar. Which brings us to the Braves and especially now that Rico Carty is sidelined, what can you say about them after you say Hank Aaron and Orlando Cepeda.

A year ago I picked the Pirates to finish first in the National League East and said the Mets probably would come back and win this year and next. I still say so. The Mets' pitching should do it for them and their hitting should be better than it was last year.

Joe Brown made some good trades for Pittsburgh over the winter. Bob Johnson beefs up the pitching and Nellie Briles should also help. The Pirates could win 89 games this year the same way as last year, but this time it might not be enough.

The Cubs have stood still and sometimes when you do that the rest of the parade moves up on you. Montreal's pitching has all the earmarks you look for — the kind that makes even a three-year-old expansion club formidable. I look for the Expos to jump a couple of rungs.

Not the Cardinals though. They finished only 2-1-2 lengths better than fifth last year and didn't get any stronger since. I've got a hunch the Phillies will fall back a little on Frank Lucchesi although I hope not because he works so hard. The trouble is he doesn't have that much to work with.

Over in the American League West the Angels laid the groundwork for this year's world series during the last one. That was when they dealt for Tony Conigliaro's bat. Then they got Ken Berry's glove. That gives the Angels two big plus signs on offense and defense, and with Clyde Wright, Tom Murphy, Andy Messersmith, Jim Maloney and Rudy May, they also have the pitching to carry them past the Twins and A's.

The White Sox could climb a couple of notches. Under new manager Chuck Tanner, they showed more spirit than the majority of clubs I saw in Florida. Tanner has them running and cooking like the Go-Go Sox again.

Kansas City got the short end of that winter deal with Pittsburgh —the deal where they gave up Bob Johnson — and I think it's going to take Frank Lane and Dave Bristol a little longer to make Milwaukee a winner than it took Lew Alcindor.

Detroit is my choice over Baltimore for the title in the East mainly because so many "knowledgeable baseball men" say the Orioles are shoo-ins and I've spent a lot of time listening to knowledgeable men explain to me what went wrong with shoo-ins after they specifically told me nothing possibly could.

The Orioles' pitching could go wrong. So could any number of other things. Conversely, the deal the Tigers made with the Senators getting Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman plus two pitchers has created a new atmosphere already. Also Billy Martin has a way of extracting something extra out of a ball club. I believe he'll do it with the Tigers.

Cleveland looks like one of the improved clubs in both leagues, and Boston's defense is better with Luis Aparicio and young Doug Griffin around second but I'm not sold at all on the pitching.

The Yankees say forget their dreadful showing in spring training, things are going to change "dramatically" when the season starts, and that reminds me of the 1950 St. Louis Browns who dropped their first nine straight in the spring, then didn't do a whole lot better when the bell rang.

"Don't worry," Zack Taylor, their manager, said. "The league will come back to us by August."

By August you needed a telescope to find the Browns. That's how far behind they were. They finished seventh, strictly —as Branch Rickey used to say on merit.

That leaves only the Senators. Denny McLain and Curt Flood will win some games for them and so will Frank Howard if he isn't traded. Washington's best hitter unfortunately doesn't play. He's 52 and sits on the bench but owner Bob Short is trying to persuade him to pinch hit at least once this season.

Great as he is, Ted Williams is going to have all he can do lifting Washington off its wheelbase.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, March 26, the 85th day of 1971.

The moon is in its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

On this day in history:

In 1892 American poet Walt Whitman died in Camden, N.J., at the age of 73.

In 1942 President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines joined American Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia after a hazardous trip from beseiged Corregidor.

In 1952 Dr. Jonas Salk announced a new vaccine he said was capable of immunizing people against polio.

In 1965 President Lyndon Johnson ordered the Ku Klux Klan investigated after four men were arrested in the murder of civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo in Alabama.

A thought for today: American poet Robert Frost said, "A child misses the unsaid goodnight, and falls asleep with heartache."

Fine Or Jail On Grass Charge

George Martinez, 22, of Novato, has been ordered to pay a $150 fine or serve four days in Marin County Jail after pleading guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court also placed Martinez on probation for two years.

Martinez was arrested in Novato Dec. 21 when police allegedly saw him throw away a bag which contained marijuana.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even By Losing, Tourney Player Will Make A Profit

The typical rubber bridge player hates to lose any more than necessary, but he cannot get terribly excited about the difference between down three and down four. "It must be a bad overbid either way," he points out. To the tournament player, however, the difference between minus 500 and minus 700 may be enormous, as in today's hand.

PRO PLAY

A rubber bridge expert might not bid with the South hand at all and certainly wouldn't go on to give diamonds. Even if you're just playing for toothpicks, 500 toothpicks is more than you give up cheerfully.

A tournament expert knows that the East-West vulnerable game is worth about 620 or 650 points. South will have a fine tournament score if he loses only 500 points. It's true that he will have a horrible score if he loses only 500 points. It's true that he will have a horrible score if he loses 700 points, but an aggressive tournament player will take this risk in the hope that East will go on to five hearts and perhaps find a way to do down.

CAREFUL PLAY

South must find an expert play to hold the loss to 500 points. The defenders lead and continue hearts, and South ruffs the second round. South cashes the top clubs, ruffs a heart to return to his hand, and ruffs his last club in dummy. Then he leads the king of diamonds from dummy.

West takes the ace of diamons, cashes the ace of spades and leads a spade to the king. With all hands reduced to three cards, South has Q-10-7 of trumps, and West has J-9-8 of trumps.

RUFFS LOW

East leads a spade or a heart, and South ruffs low. West overruffs, but then has to lead from the J-9 to declarer's Q-10 of trumps. This end-play holds the loss to 500 points.

It's worth noticing that South must find a poor defense as well as a fine play of his own. West should ruff the fourth club with the eight of diamonds to make sure of six tricks and a penalty of 700 points.

DAILY QUESTION

Your partner opens with one heart, vulnerable against nonvulnerable opponents. The next player bids three diamonds.

You hold:
♠ - A J
♥ - K 10 8 3
♦ - A J 9 8
♣ - 10 8 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts.

The jump is necessary to show the strength of your hand. You might double for penalties if the vulnerability were reversed, but you should not give up a vulnerable game for a mere 300 points or so.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

NUE Is Secure Buy For Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have $5 300 tied up in 100 shares of National Union Electric. I am retired and need income: Should I sell? — S.M.

A. If earnings recovery anticipated for this year materializes, it should generate better share price action. For the year ended last December, sales dropped 13 per cent and earnings, after special charges, were 14 cents a share, down from $1.58 in 1969.

Factors expected to contribute to recovery are: higher sales, stimulated by economic improvement; a manufacturing agreement with Admiral Corp. to produce company's home entertainment products and the absence of nonrecurring charges.

While I do not envision early recovery of your full cost, some worthwhile improvement should be forthcoming.

Q. There has been so much in the papers about Bell Telephone bonds that I foolishly went in through Hawaiian Telephone 8¾s of 2000. This I cannot find a record of anywhere. Should I sell for peace of mind? — E. A.

A. You are unduly concerned about this high-quality, high-yield first mortgage bond. Rated AA, this issue is currently trading at a substantial premium and was recently quoted at 107 ¼. The comparatively small $35 million bond issue is amply covered by earnings.

In addition, your holding is protected against refunding until Sept. 1, 1975. Relax and enjoy the generous income provided by this secure investment.

Q. Can you tell us what has happened to Scientific Resources? Why is it no longer listed on the New York Stock Exchange? — B. K.

A. Scientific Resources obtained a court order prohibiting delisting procedures initiated by the NYSE in February, although trading has been suspended. Earlier that month the company had announced that a $43 million deficit had been incurred for the year ending Sept. 30, 1970, reducing the company's net worth to $4 million.

Under the company's refinancing plan senior debt holders would receive cash, promissory notes and shares of a subsidiary. The refinancing plan represented $13 million of the reported fiscal year loss.

RECEIVES PROMOTION — Stephen Leonesio, store manager of Macy's in San Rafael since early last year, has been made a vice president. He first joined Macy's Richmond store in 1949 as a group sales manager. After an interval with the White House in Oakland, he rejoined Macy's in 1963 as assistant manager of the San Rafael and Stockton stores. He lives in San Rafael.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Little Known Deduction That Is Frequently Overlooked

If you inherit anything during the year you should check to be sure that all expenses of the inheritance are claimed by the estate in the final fiduciary tax return.

If there is not sufficient income of the estate to cover the expenses claimed on the final return, then they are "excess deduction" and are available to you for an income tax deduction.

Of course, anything you inherit is not subject to income tax.

Regulation Section 20.2053—3 (a) says: The amounts deductible from a decedent's gross estate as "administration expenses" are limited to such expenses as are actually and necessarily incurred in the administration of the decedent's estate; that is, in the collection of assets, payment of debts, and distribution of property to the persons entitled to it. Administration expenses include (1) executor's commissions (2) attorney's fees and (3) miscellaneous expenses.

Regulation Section 20.2053 — 3 (d) (1) says: Miscellaneous administration expenses include such expenses as court costs, surrogates' fees, accountants' fees, appraisers' fees, clerk hire, etc. Expenses necessarily incurred in preserving and distributing the estate are deductible, including the cost of storing or maintaining property of the estate, if it is impossible to effect immediate distribution to the beneficiaries . . .

The above defines administration expenses for purposes of the deduction on the federal estate tax return. It is well established that anything deductible on the estate tax return as an administration expense can also be deducted on the estate's income tax return form 1041, but, of course, not on both.

Code Section 642 (h) provides that on the termination of an estate or trust, if it has — for the last taxable year deductions (except personal exemption and charitable contributions) in excess of gross income then such excess shall be allowed as a deduction to the beneficiaries succeeding to the property of the estate or trust.

This is a very important point. The executor or administrator must cooperate because the expenses must be paid in the last taxable period of the estate.

For instance, if a calendar year estate pays its administration expenses, including attorneys' fees and executors' fees, in December and then distributes everything and terminates in January, you won't be able to claim the deduction because the expenses were not paid in the last taxable period of the estate. What should be done is to pay all of the expenses in December and terminate the estate in December or else don't pay any of the expenses until January of the following year and terminate the estate in the following year.

Manufactures At $25 Billion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bank of California says the states manufactures increased slightly in February to $25.19 billion, but were 1.45 per cent below the same month a year ago.

The bank reported Thursday, the state's manufacturing industries were now in better shape than at any point during the 1969-70 recession.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Union Branches To Be Purchased

The Union Bank in downtown San Rafael, which already has undergone name changes from Lincoln National to Commonwealth to Union in the past two or three years, may soon undergo another.

California Canadian Bank has announced an agreement whereby it will purchase from Union four of its Northern California branches for an undisclosed purchase price.

The branches are at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, San Rafael, Santa Rosa and Pleasant Hill. The agreement is subject to approval of bank regulatory authorities.

BROADWAY-HALE STORES, INC. and Bergdorf Goodman, 70-year old New York fashion store, have agreed in principle on a merger. Bergdorf Goodman would become a division of Broadway-Hale under its present management and staff. Broadway-Hale has reported sales of $662 million for the 52 weeks ended Jan. 30. This compares with $639 million for the preceding 52 weeks. Net earnings were $23 million compared to $22 million for the preceding year.

LONGS DRUG STORES announced a 15.5-per cent increase in earnings and a 17-per cent increase in sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31. It has also planned to increase its quarterly dividend from 16 to 20 ents per share. Net earnings for the year were $5.9 million or $2.30 per share, compared with $5.1 million or $2 per share the previous year.

GOODYEAR RUBBER CO., a 98-year old San Francisco manufacturer of custom industrial rubber products, has been acquired by Barnhart-Morrow Consolidated of Southern California. Goodyear Rubber has no connection with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio. The San Francisco company bought rights to the name fromthe family of Charles Goodyear, inventor of vulcanization, in 1872.

LEVI STRAUSS AND CO., San Francisco, which had its first public stock offering early this month, has reported first quarter consolidated sales and earning up 22.9 and 34.3 per cent respectively. Earnings were $4.2 million or 44 cents a share on sales of $79 million. Last year for the comparable quarter ended Feb. 28, earnings were $3.1 million or 33 cents per share on sales of 64 million.

JUST PLAIN TALK IS A WAY TO BRIDGE THE GAP

Parents and eighth graders of Kent Junior High School have been discovering that a good way to reach each other is through a no-holds-barred rap session. Small groups of students and parents met last Wednesday night and the week before in separate rooms and discussed the problems paramount in the students' minds: sex, parent relationships, ecology, drugs, sibling rivalry and world events. Later, comparing notes on their "night at Generation Gap," one student seated on the gymnasium floor remarked: "It's the first time I have really been able to tell an adult what I wanted to without being put down . . . " The parents, seated in chairs behind the students, were also surprised at the level of the eighth graders understanding.

Forum Due For Mayoral Candidates

Candidates vying for San Rafael mayor and city council posts are scheduled to express their views at a candidates' night at 8 p.m. April 14 in the council chambers at city hall.

Participants will include incumbent mayor C. Paul Bettini and his opponent, Richard Alan Raznikov, as well as incumbent councilmen Fred S. Jensen and John A. Miskimen and challengers George S. Burton, Thomas R. O'Tolle, Don J. Urquhart and Benjamin F. Walton.

Helene Guinther, chairman of the committee of the League of Women Voters, Central Marin, which is sponsoring the event along with the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, said that candidates will be asked to answer the question, "How To Increase Citizen Participation in City Government."

The answers will be included in a brochure to be handed out at the meeting, she said.

Candidates will also discuss transportation, regional cooperation and housing and will answer questions from the audience.

Population Problems On Larkspur Agenda

The environmental and economic impact of future population growth in Larkspur will be the central theme of the city's second Town Meeting slated for May 1.

According to Joan Sestak, chairman of the Town Meeting, the meeting will follow the same general format as the last but will concentrate on population growth and density, preservation of open spaces, traffic circulation and park development.

She said the group, following an introductory session, will divide itself into four groups to discuss the city's expected growth.

The workshop dealing with population growth and density, she said, will study the relationship between growth and costs to the community.

Traffic will be studied to determine where and how commuter traffic should be funneled through Larkspur.

Other workshops will deal with preservation of open space in the city and development of additional parks.

"Since the topics to be discussed involve problems that are countywide we have invited people from throughout Marin to participate in the meeting," Mrs. Sestak said.

Like the last meeting, she continued, recommendations developed in the workshops will be voted upon by the general assembly and forwarded to city agencies.

The meeting will be held at Henry Hall School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
